get together was something fun

Love,
Kate

Can you believe we're SENI☺RS!

Elizabeth,

Although I hope you have a great summer, I'm going to miss you making mistakes in typing and hearing you sigh. Algebra was great wasn't it. I hope to see you next year as a senior, don't raise to much hell
this summer.

Watson

P.S. I'm glad that our friendship has grown this year and I hope it will continue.

Elizabeth!
I'm so glad we started school off. It's a ele way to begin a year, I'm also very glad we've have gotten to be close Som friends. Keep in touch ect summer.

Love,
Peggy

Elizabeth,

Thanks for those exciting "budget" dates. Do you still want me to lead-up Hock? I hope to see you alot after the summer. I'll try not to make fun of you anymore."

Love
James

Hey Elizabeth!
So nothing happened on prom night huh? At least you got away from Tim — whew! I can't believe we made it through chemistry w/ Sparky. Just think, tomorrow we'll get our chem. award (Are you still in the competition?). It's been fun! Love,
Sander

Elizabeth,
I'm glad I got to know you better this year, I had fun riding with you to school every morning. Remember the silver Dollar and the church playground? (Wake me up in the morning.") We'll have alot of fun together, we have to go out alot this summer, & hope you manage to stay away from Hock, but good luck with James- he's a cutie! Call me alot this summer- we can go to Wendy's or Queen park!
Love, Stacy

Elizabeth:
Old Squeaky is gone, tatoos and all, but the memories we have of her shall stay with us forever.
Love, Crabman!
P.S. The year is over and it was a good one, I can not wait until next year, the lounge and all.
Have a great summer.
love always.
Gibby St.

Elizabeth,
This year has really gone by quickly! I enjoyed having a locker next to yours cause you always say, Hay! You've been a super great friend! Have a great summer & get ready for a great senior year.
Love ya always
Chuck Manning

You a lot until this term, now I don't see you at all. Well, the first two terms were fun - laughing at you whenever you tried to talk to Bradley! You don't have to confront Mr. Fri about your personality conflict with Brad now that he's leaving - few people are going to miss him. On-and I'll never forget the personal attention Mrs. Mack always gives you or the non-relationship between you and Mary Ann. Maybe we'll get in some classes together next year. I hope so! See ya next year & I hope you have a great summer!
Love ya
Julie

Elizabeth,
T'est-toi! Vraiment!
Wasn't French just great?!
I hate that witch! I'm glad I've gotten to know you- you are a super-cute
+ sweet girl- not to mention pretty funny! I know you will have a super- summer-
I hope you'll keep in touch- really!
I love ya,
Tiffany

Elizabeth,
you will always be so special to me. I hope we have more classes together next year. Let's get together over the summer promise?!!!
Love your friend forever,
Marielle

Once upon a time we lived with hearts that raced and minds that dreamed and clocks that had no hour hands. With common goals and common longings, we laughed, we loved, we played, we won. These were our school days, our happy days. They were real because we made them real. They were alive because we existed. There's something special about being a student at Country Day. Of course we came to learn, but that's not all. There was time for a realm of activities that were not necessarily bound by a cover and a title.

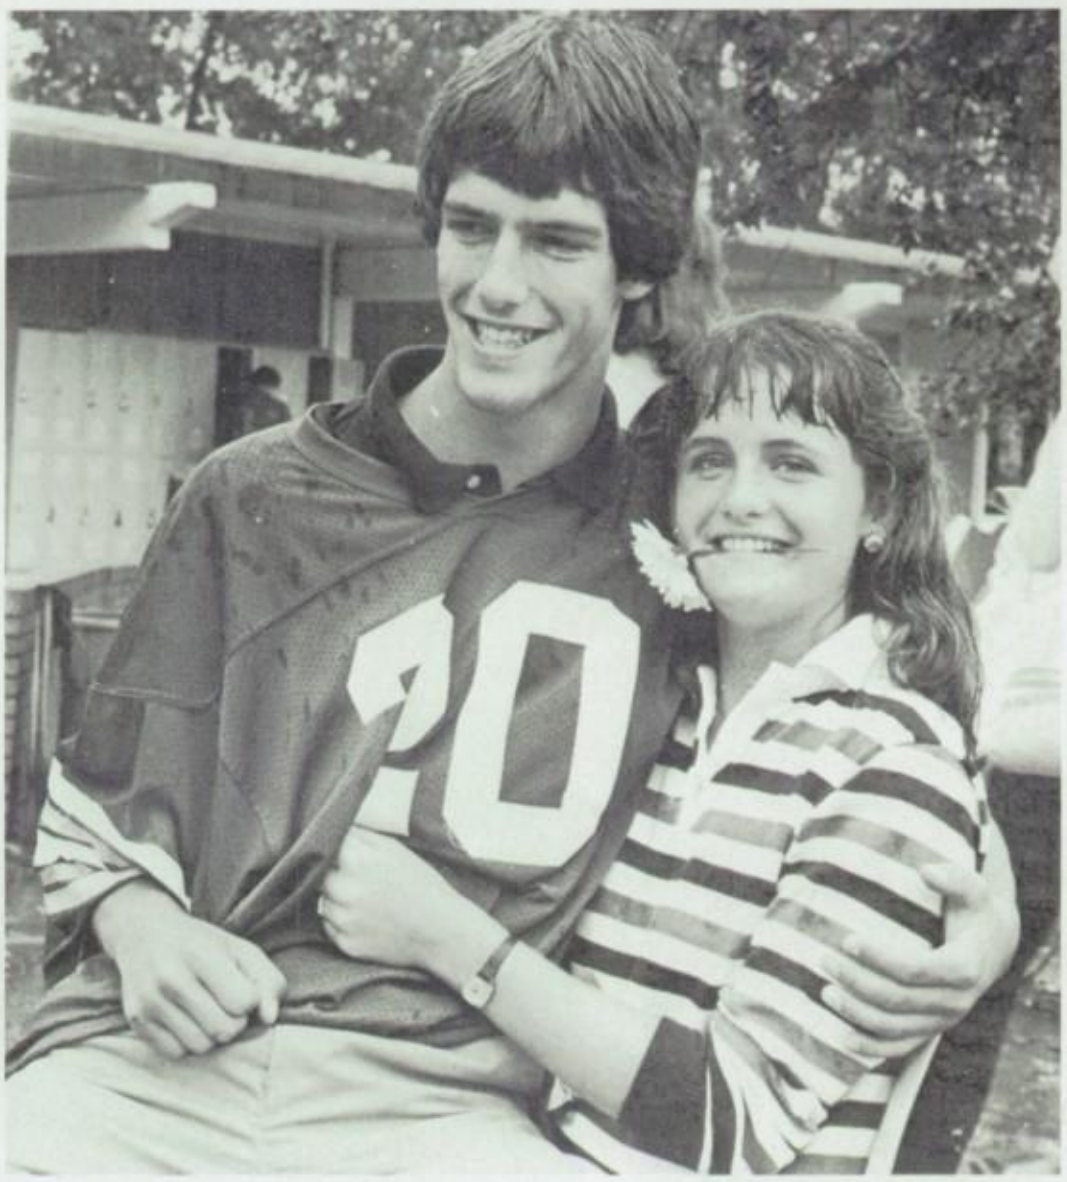

BELGRADE LAKES
MAINE

MAINE

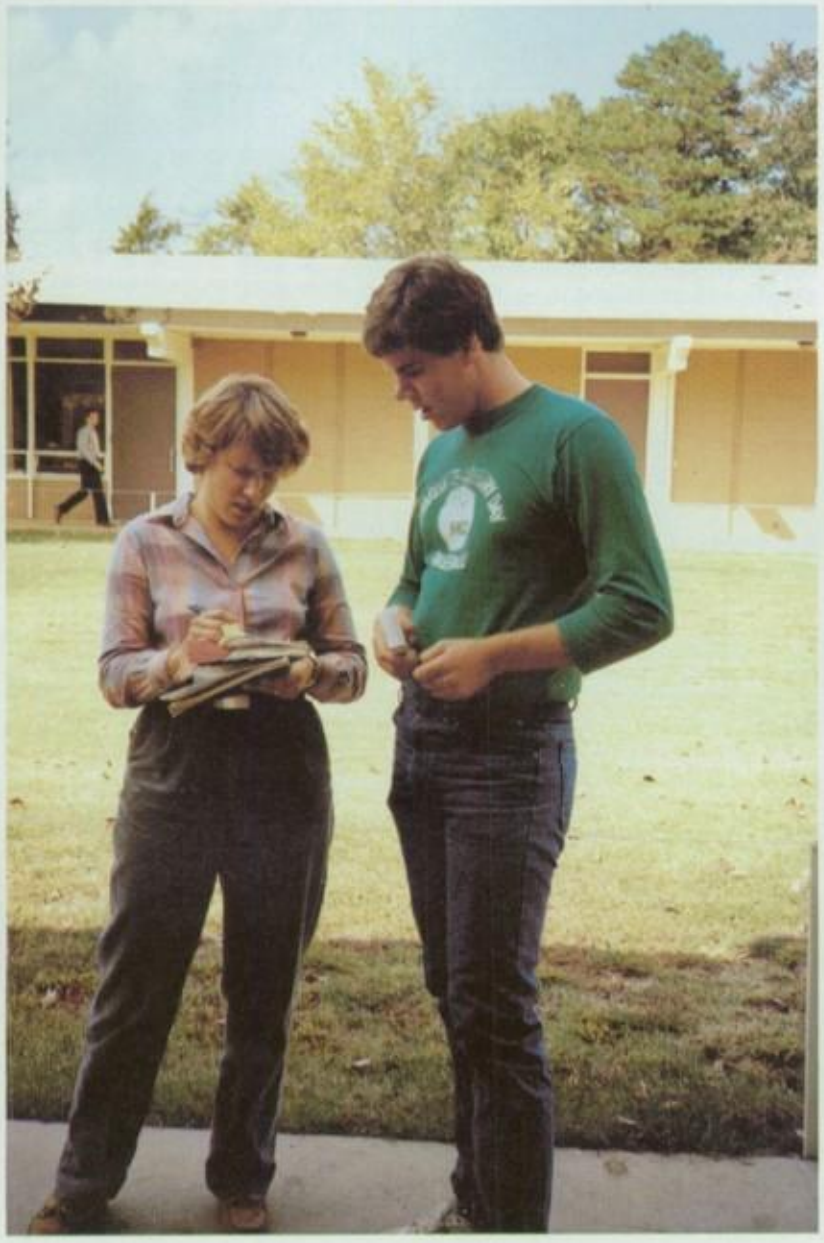

There was time to work, to study, to play, to laugh, to love, and to live. We were studying in classrooms, we were lying in the sun, we were blocking on the football field, or we were bouncing to the Spongetones. To say we were versatile just doesn't quite characterize us. We lived life to its fullest extent. When we look back, we'll know, there was time.

Living Life To The Fullest

Life. Using it to its fullest potential is a special quality that a rare few possess. Mary Karen Vellines has captured the spirit and applied it to every facet of life. She has been more than simply an advisor to the senior class. She helped the Class of 1983 through its Junior year, the Prom, fund-raisers, and countless other undertakings. But more importantly, she was a friend. The Class of 1983 would like to dedicate the 1983 Postscript to someone very special . . . Mary Karen Vellines.

time for everything . . .

Too Much Time On Our Hands

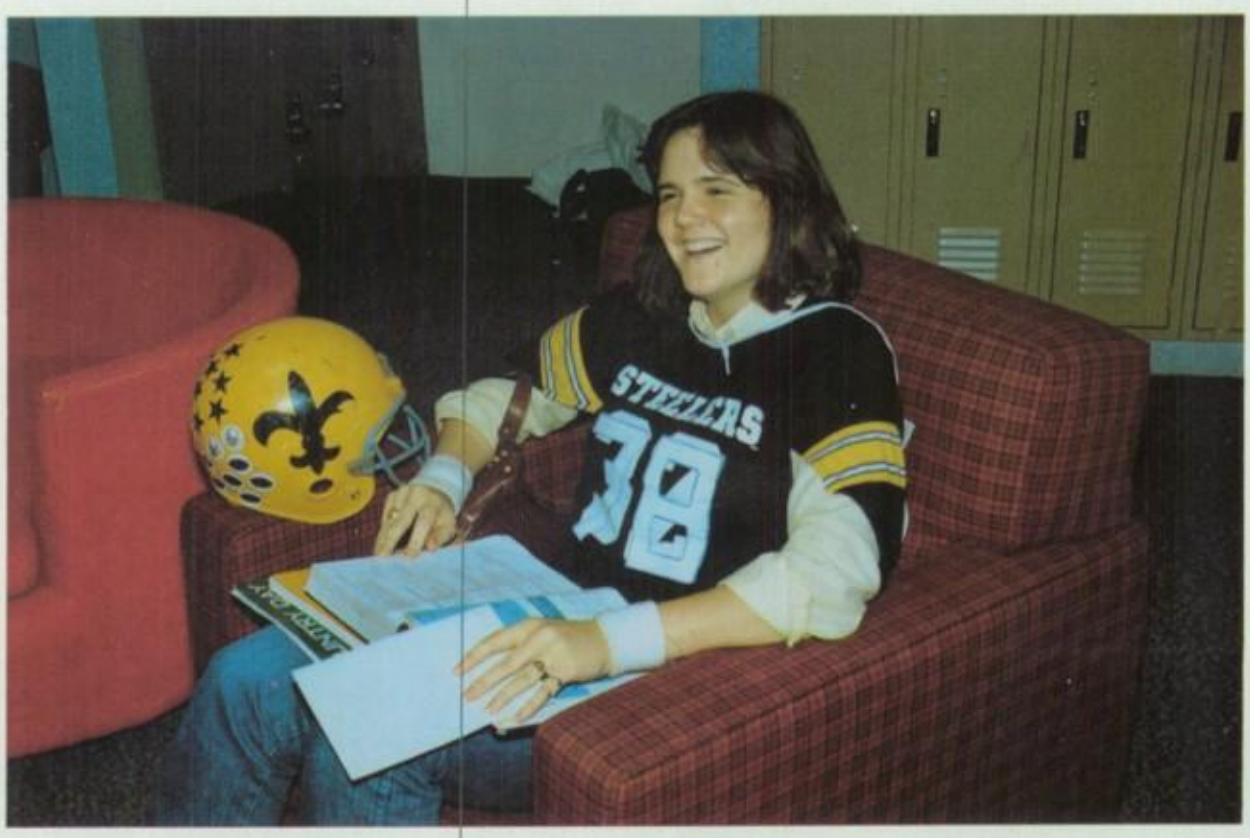

It wasn't unusual to walk into the Senior Lounge and get an earful of the famous "You Dropped the Bomb On Me." There were usually people playing pool, or a wild game of ping pong, with several onlookers who had nothing better to do. Seniors didn't have a care in the world, except for maybe arguing over who got to sit in the big orange chair, or what kind of music to listen to besides the Gap Band. When they didn't get their way, most seniors ended up just sitting, or lying on the floor, and listening to whatever music happened to be on, whether they liked it or not! The Senior Lounge was a place to be lazy, talk, eat, laugh, sing, dance, and do anything but homework. "It's the worst place to study, but a great place to be," said senior Terri Martin.

Things that really made seniors happy were free periods, going out to lunch, and weekends! On weekends, seniors went to concerts like: CSN, the GoGo's, or the Spongetones at Johnny Dollar's. Seniors hated to wake up on Monday morning knowing the weekend fun was over. We loved CCDS, but we loved to have fun too! We'll miss Country Day and all the fun we've had when we're gone. But most of all, it wasn't the music, the Senior Lounge, or lunch privileges that made being a senior so special and so much fun. It was the seniors themselves! As Margaret White said, "Golly boppers, it's groovy being a senior!"

Jim Grode, Anna Falk, Katie Fortune and Catherine Jordan spend a free period in the fresh air, escaping the noise of the Senior Lounge.

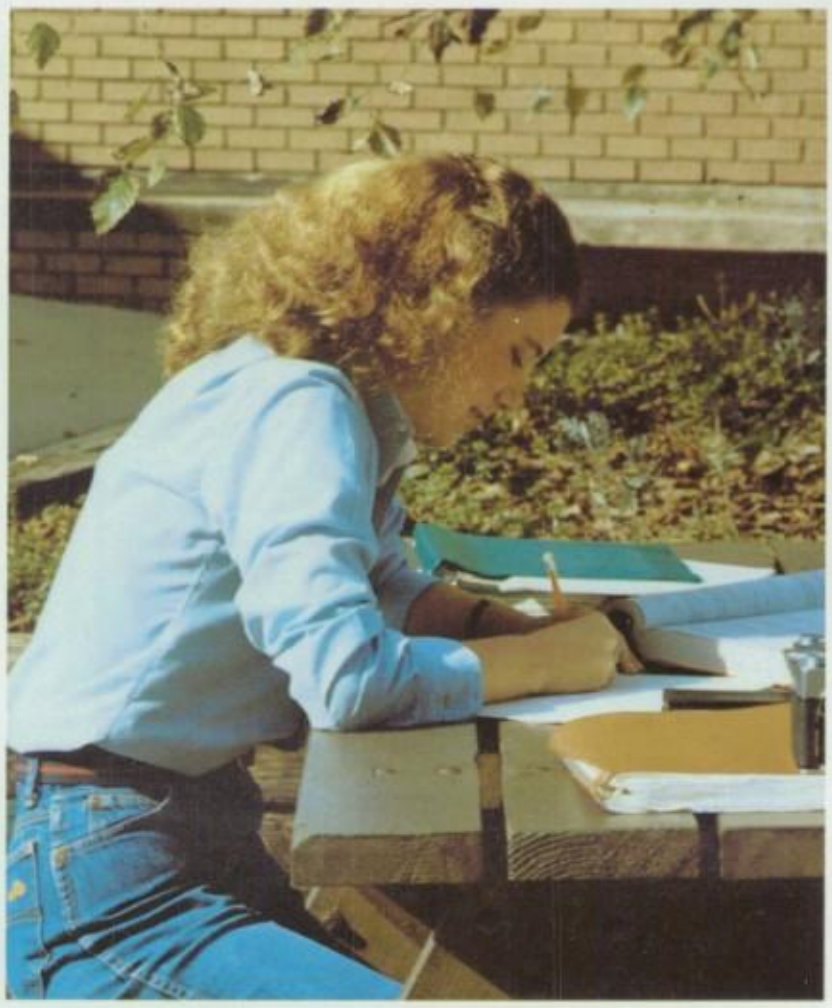

Aquilifer initiate, Latta Chapman, finds it hard to study in the midst of the Senior Lounge.

Sheri Toler, Beth Broadway and Ansley Bost ham it up for the photographer.

Dean Collias brings two new additions to the Senior Lounge.

Susan Schindler, editor of the Postscript, finds time to study.

Not Enough Time on Our Hands!

Leadership and scholarship — two words not normally associated with senior classes, but also two words that could not have been any more appropriate for the class of '83. These qualities, while somewhat disguised in the earlier years, emerged in the latter years to help distinguish the class of '83 from many in the past and many to come.

With goals in mind, this year's Senior class set out to make their leadership potential known throughout the school. Mr. Ball, hoping for expanded senior involvement, enlisted interested Seniors to explain the handbook and its various rules to the lower classmen. It was only fair that the Senior class was boss — *Senior*ity ruled. From student council to clubs, varsity sports (over 40% of the Senior class participated year round), and proctoring D-hall, senior leadership was felt.

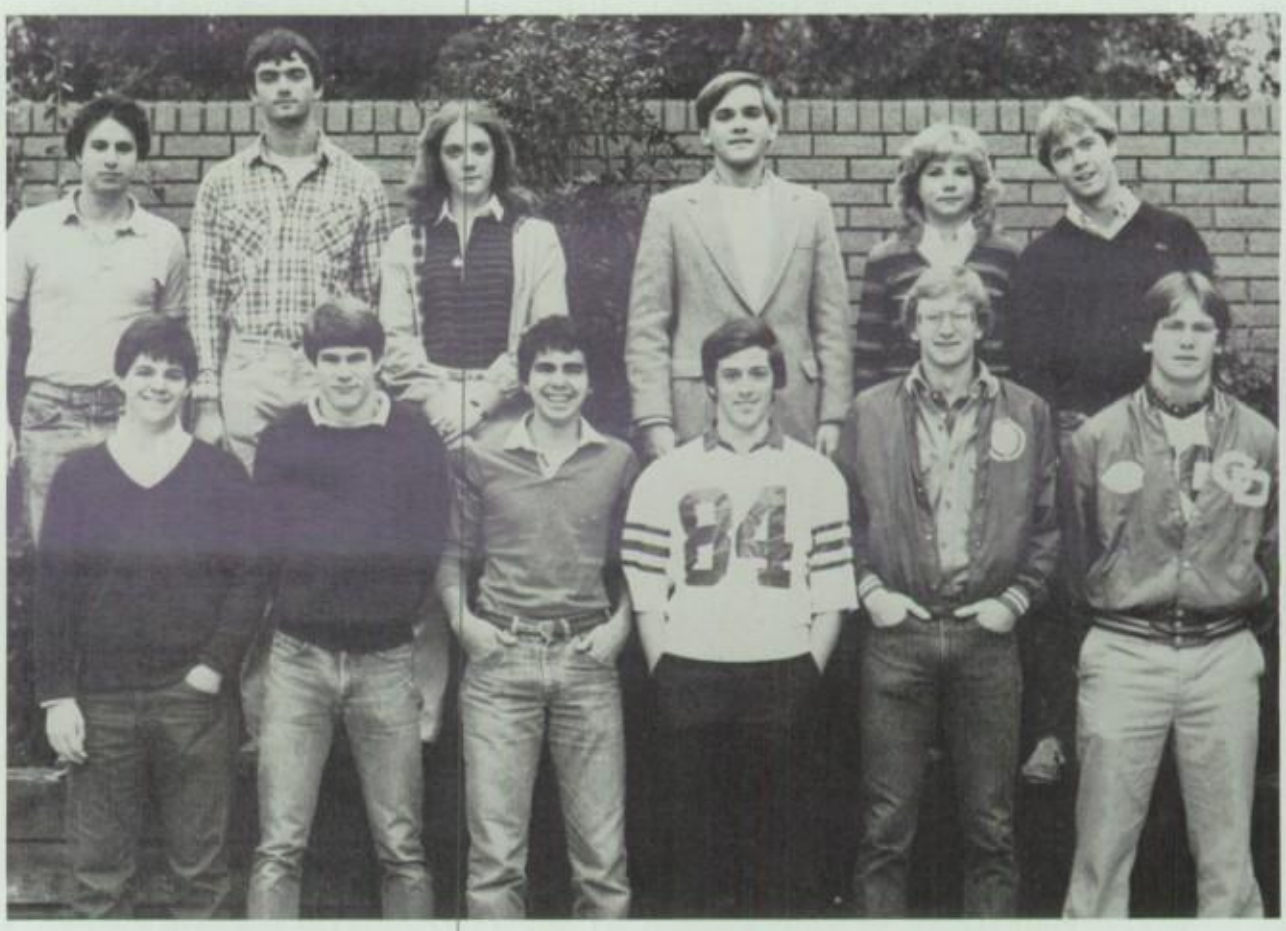

Not only did they lead, they also did well in school. With an average G.P.A. of 2.7 someone must have been studying. The G.P.A. might have been even higher if the 51 seniors who were enrolled in A.P. courses hadn't been. But would you have expected less from a class with 14 National Merit semi-finalists and commended students?

All in all, the class of '83 was one which will always be remembered for its academic endeavors and its innovative leadership. They paved the way; hopefully, others will follow.

Graves Upchurch and Aven Owen spend a free period doing research in the Learning Center.

Gena Graham, Jessie Tomlinson, Beth Broadway, Catherine Miller, and Wendy Widener listen attentively to speakers at Career Day.

Benjy Sutker, Student Council President, leads the discussion at our first town meeting. Unlike town meetings in the past where there was a lack of student participation, this one proved to be one in which students vigorously questioned the effectiveness and efficiency of our student government.

Vacation All I Ever Wanted

Good Vibrations

By the end of the year, students were dying to get away. After the end of exams, graduation, and school, CD students burned their books and revved their engines in a frantic race for the beach. Cars were packed till they overflowed, every 7-11 between here and the ocean was sacked for munchies, and every care in the world was left behind. Whether it was Myrtle, Hilton Head, Wrightsville, or others, the beach was a time to be with friends, laugh, lay-out, play, and just enjoy the summer.

When school resumed, and the leaves began to lose their summer greenness, our thoughts turned toward the slopes. Skis were waxed, and coats and gators emerged from the attic. Winter weekends were spent testing the slopes of Sugar, Beech, Seven Devils, and others. For some families, Christmas and Spring Break meant a week skiing the slopes of Vail, Taos, and Aspen.

The good vibrations we felt from lying by the ocean in early June or racing down Switchback at Sugar were memories we'll always cherish.

After graduation 1982, Gena Graham and some Senior girls took off to Litchfield Beach near Myrtle to spend a week in the sun.

During Spring Break 1982, Sara Smith made her first trip to the slopes of Vail, Colorado. Compared to the slopes of North Carolina, Sara said, "The ski patrol at Vail is definitely better looking!"

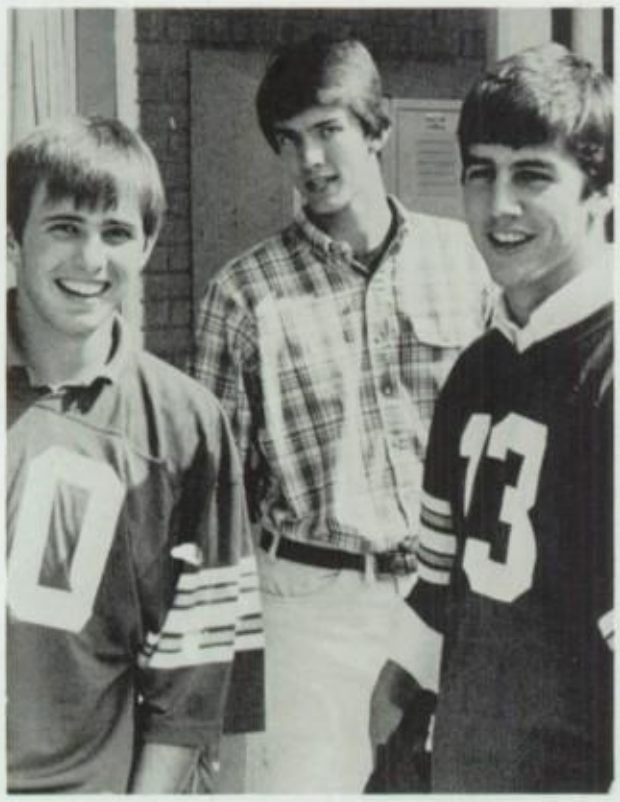

Hunt and Will Allen, John Phillips, and Jack Mulligan take to the inlet in order to crab at Ocean Isle.

Both Cackie Dowd and Wynn Davis have been skiing since first grade. Here they wait in line during Winter Weekend to reach the top of Sugar Mountain.

Lower Schoolers Meredith Craddock, Neema Patel, and Sarah Schwartz enjoy the slide on the new playground.

Lower Schooler Brooke Easton plays on the monkey bars before school.

Todd Townsend, Bill Broadway, and David Massey, all new students this year, stand in front of lockers before school. Todd and Bill both came from Charlotte Latin and David came from Gaston Day.

On the Middle School campus, students Scott Crawford and Rebecca Rivers stay out of trouble before homeroom.

Steve and Sara Windell drive to school through the heavy traffic that surrounds Country Day each morning.

French Club members Mary Turner, Patti Culp, Sheri Weinstein, advisor Madame Shumake, Mary Taylor Hundley, and Scott Huelin meet at Burger King for a conversational breakfast, a new event for the French Club this year. All (well, almost all!) conversation was in French.

Life Before

8:00 A.M. ?

Almost everyone who has any contact with Country Day knows and loves our policeman, although few know him by name. Here's what we found out when we talked to Sargeant Robert Reives:

Q: Do you enjoy this job?
A: Very much so - I love it!
Q: Do you like mornings or afternoons better?
A: I think I like mornings better, with one exception - I get to see almost everybody in the afternoons when I'm working at the exit.
Q: How long have you been a traffic policeman?
A: I've been a law enforcement officer for 13 years.
Q: Do you know any of the people you wave to personally?
A: Some, yes.
Q: What do you think about when you're working?
A: The safety of the people.

In addition, Sgt. Reives made this comment: "I enjoy working the traffic here because the people seem to enjoy having me - students and parents, but especially the younger ones - and that makes it easier for me!"

Most students reacted strongly to the new schedule this year. Upper School students objected to starting school at 8:00 A.M., although it was only ten minutes earlier than last year's starting time. Mr. Ball explained the need for the new schedule, stating, "I like it, but I can understand why the students don't. There was an academic need - courses were not the same in duration. From an educational point of view it's better. Teachers are guaranteed a certain amount of class time."

In spite of this explanation, which does make sense, students still objected to starting so early. Tenth grader Harvey Grasty said "I think starting earlier is not too good. Give us a break." Tiffany Erwin, also a tenth grader, makes an important point: "I don't mind starting earlier, but it is only fair that we get out earlier." Senior Jane Johnson complained, "It's not fair that we have to go to school a whole hour more than Latin!" Ninth grader Matt McKee felt that it was just "too early." Scott Meltsner summed up the general feeling: "I don't think it's very smart. There was nothing wrong with the way it was. It should have stayed that way."

In contrast to the Upper School feeling, Lower Schoolers did not complain. Mark Hagerman, principal of the Lower School, explained, "There is only a five minute difference in the schedule. We probably notice it least in the Lower School."

Middle School students did not seem to notice the time change either. Eighth grader Cammie Hunter did not even realize that there was a change. Other Middle Schoolers seemed to feel the same way.

Despite some students' difficulty in getting up and getting to school on time, there was life before 8:00 A.M.

It's No Five Star, But . . .

Eighth grader Tracy Riddle finds true peace in the lunch room.

Lacking the juniors and seniors, the lunch scene is dull.

We didn't have French waiters, checkered tablecloths or a gourmet cuisine but we did have Angelo, a great staff, and many loyal customers. As freshman Cason Rent put it, "The cafeteria is a great place to eat no matter what you want." Senior Aven Owen stated, "The food has improved, and we no longer have to stuff our milk cartons."

It was not just a place to eat, but it was a place to hide from the rain, to meet with friends, and it was a place to hold banquets and grade level meetings. As sophomore Harvey Grasty said, "The cafeteria is a great place, when the tables aren't sticky.

The look on eighth grader Ashley Hunter's face makes Wendy Mackinnon wonder what Ashley has just eaten.

Most students, like fourth grader Shannon Terry have enjoyed the delicious salad bar on the Cannon Campus.

Sophomores Melinda Johnston and Nancy Hanes take a break during an exhausting week of Aquilifer initiations.

Mary Elizabeth Johnson gets her money ready.

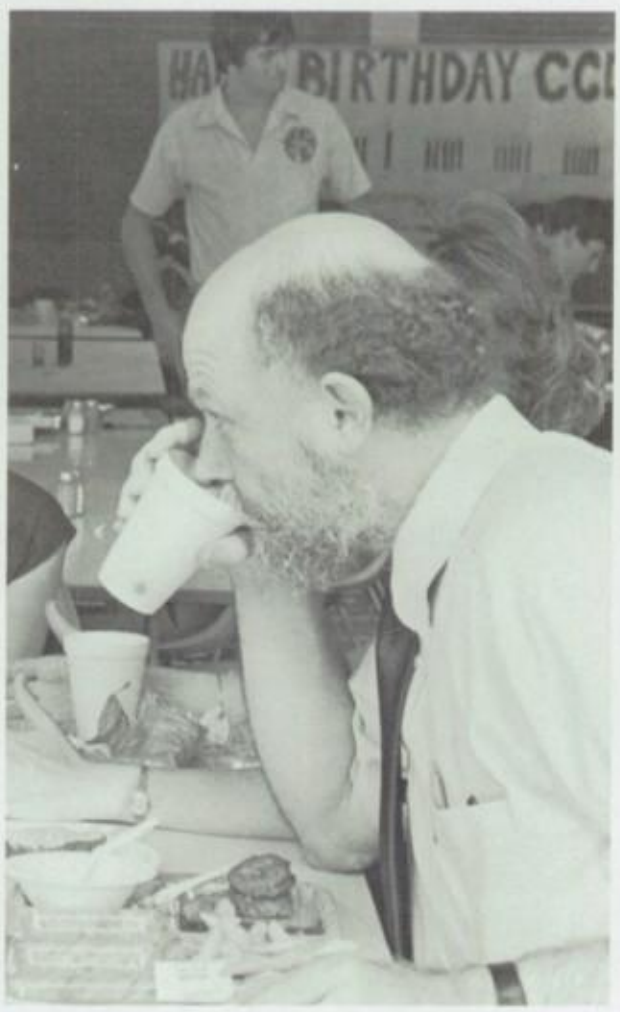

Marshall Teat has an interesting way of eating.

Hendrick Voigt enjoys a cold treat.

Mr. Burts welcomes a refreshing drink during a quick break from his computer work.

At Your Own Risk

At Country Day just getting to and from school was a chancy effort. Most Lower and Middle Schoolers were dropped off and picked up in the middle of a pinball machine driveway. The confused organization of peak hour bumper to bumper traffic had the driveway cleared in about thirty minutes. Somehow, the C. D. pinball machine worked. The Middle Schoolers held two general opinions about riding buses between the Cannon and Carmel campuses - some kids just about died if they weren't on that first bus while others of them insisted on riding the second or third bus so their friends would be at Carmel to meet them.

The Upper School parking lot was one of the liveliest spots on the Cannon campus. Students congregated, celebrated, and agitated, i.e., they got together with friends before and after school, celebrated Friday afternoon by leaving in a hurry and agitated the staff with the noise and skid marks that were left behind. The student parking lot really was a fun place and was well appreciated. A controversy had arisen this year about senior parking privileges. Mr. Ball said that they would be initiated soon. "That's fine," said one junior, "at least I'll have that to look forward to next year."

The faculty had two parking lots. They had the main lot in front of the Lower School, and then there was Mr. Kelly's "Dust Bowl." The maintenance driveway ran right past it and the teachers' cars got covered with dust, but at least everyone had a place to park. Ms. Bingaman remembered when there was no driveway and the faculty had to take turns directing traffic. Time has alleviated many traffic problems.

Monica Randolph shows her enthusiasm for the day's coming classes.

Hunt Allen's driving ability was seriously impaired in the Fall. He was injured during football practice before the Christ School game. With torn knee ligaments, he was out for the season.

Scott Thompson and Teresa Miller head for the Senior Lounge.

Chuck Fonville and Nancy Hanes strike out for homeroom on a Friday morning.

Mrs. Cobb struggles to find her way through the "Dust Bowl."

Middle Schoolers wait on the buses for transportation to the Carmel Campus.

David Parker arrives at the C.C.D.S. parking lot in order to be in class by 8:00 A.M.

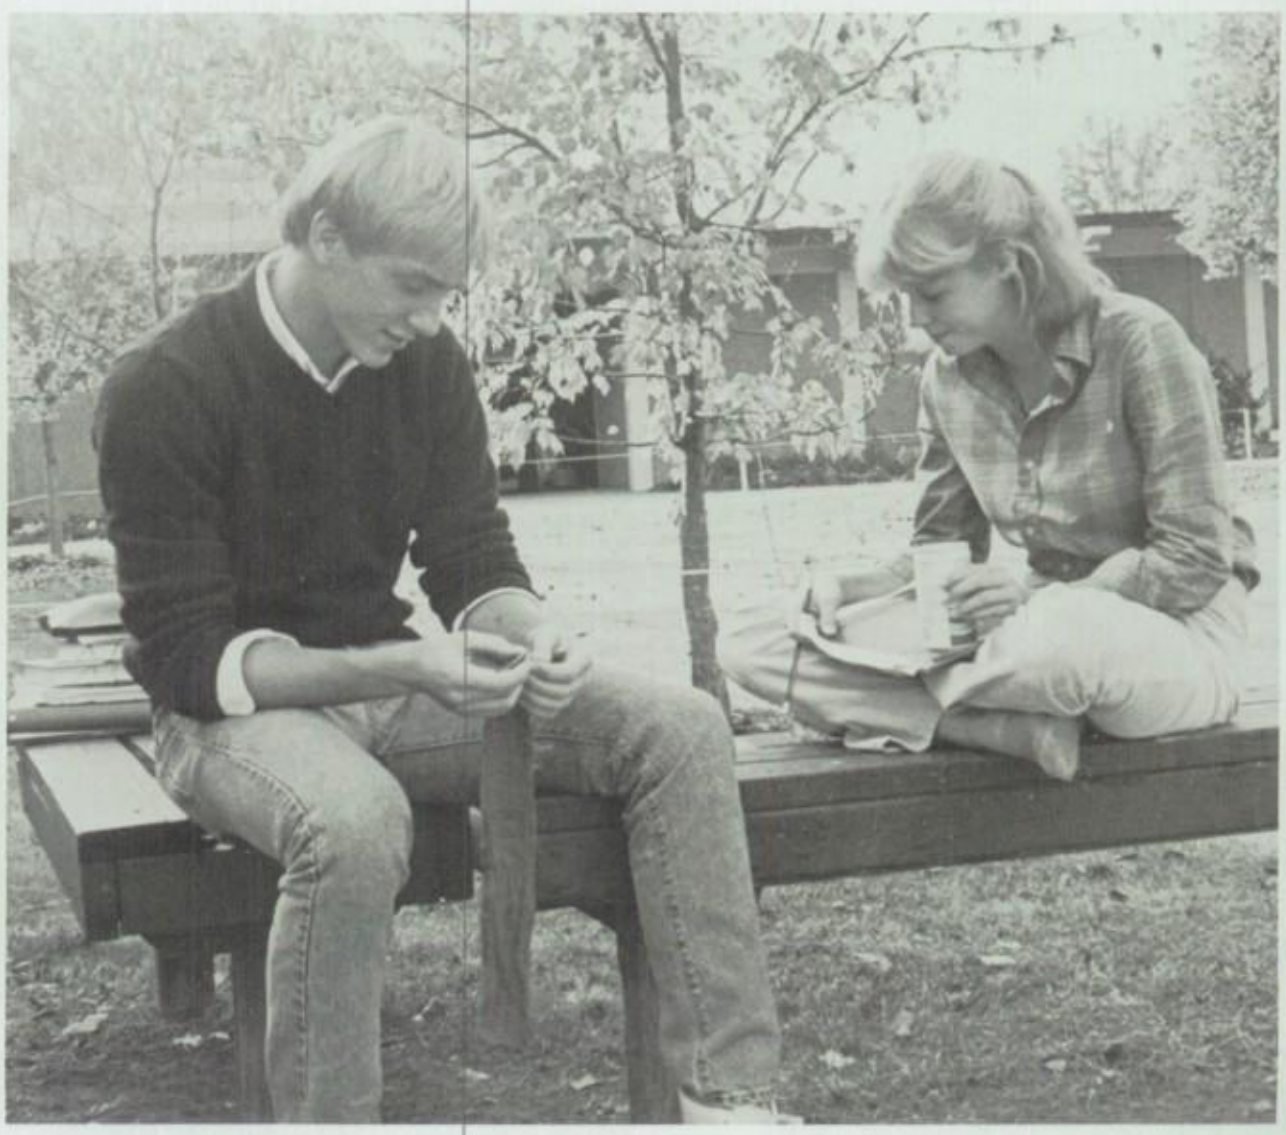

Debbie Kaplan waits for a ride home on a rainy afternoon.

Break Away

Free periods provided a time to break away from the pressures of the strict academic atmosphere of Country Day and indulge oneself in the gossip of the day or Snack Bar candy. Some students, however, used their free periods for unfinished homework or studying. Whatever the case, free periods were a necessary element of an Upper Schooler's curriculum. "I like having a free period. It gives me more time than just lunch to joke around with my friends," said sophomore Lee Bowers. Free periods were not, however, a privilege given to every Upper School student, as Freshmen were placed in Study Hall during first term. Freshmen and Sophomores needed to maintain at least a 2.5 G.P.A. to remain free from Study Hall, while Juniors and Seniors

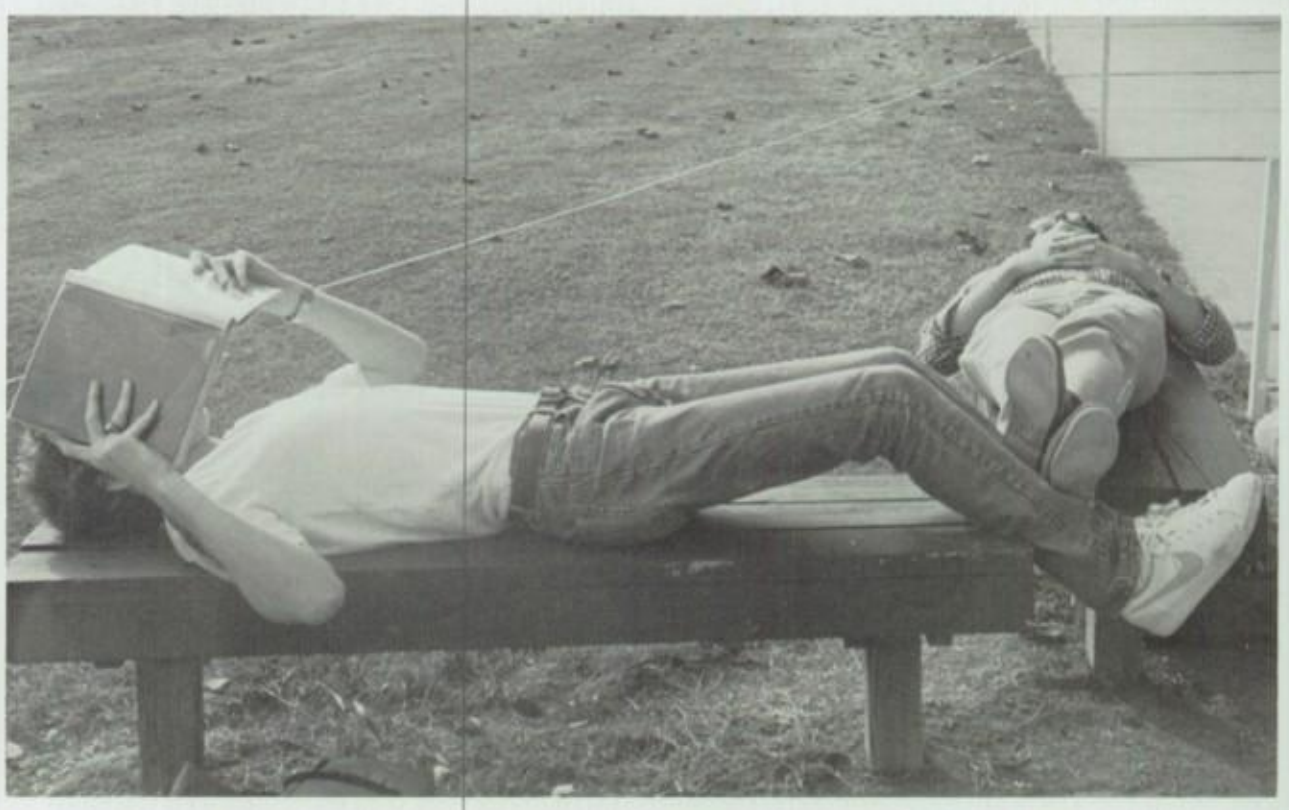

If there's nice weather outside why not take advantage of it? Mary Taylor Hundley, a Junior, prefers the fall weather before the cold temperatures of winter creep in.

A little time between classes invites Senior Martha Lassiter and Sophomore Andrew Van Sickle to chat and relax on the benches outside the cafeteria.

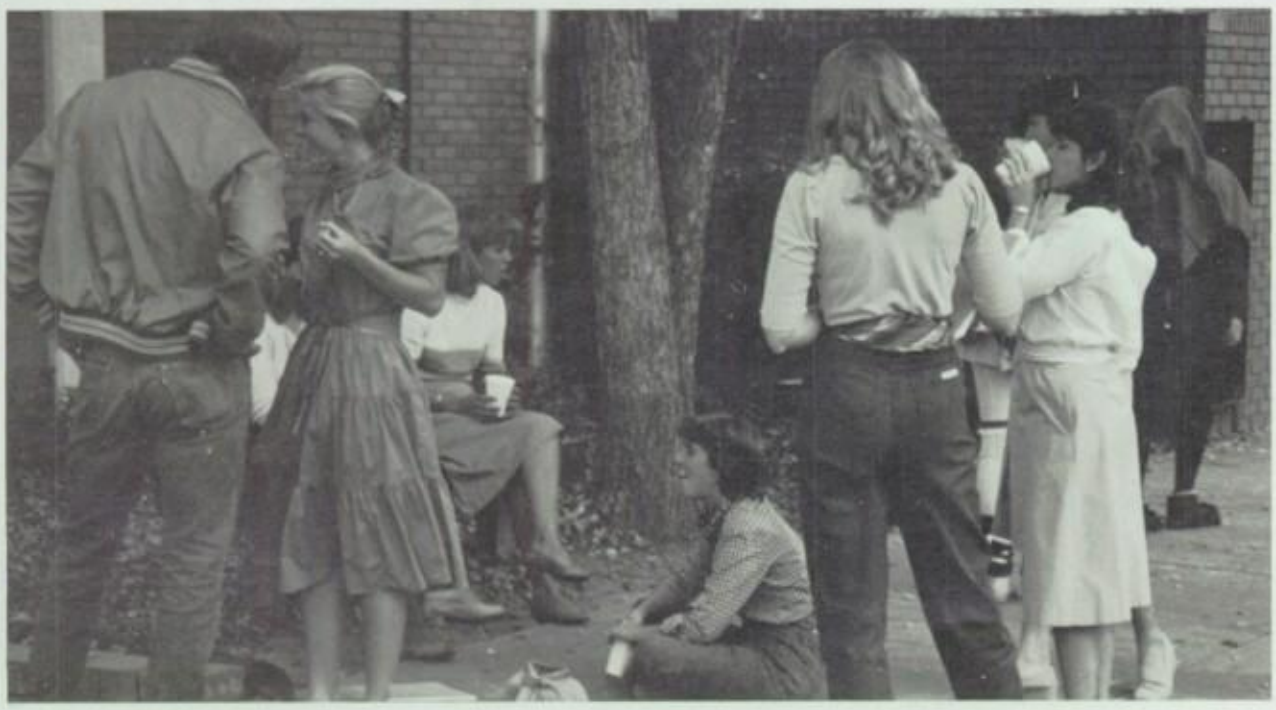

Catching the last rays of the fall term, Seniors Toby Pardue and Todd Hardin and Junior Elizabeth Decker relax outside the Administration Building.

needed a 2.3 G.P.A. Most students felt it well worth the effort to keep that G.P.A. up.

Weather permitting, students spent their free periods on the quadrangle, outside the cafeteria, or on the picnic tables in the Student Courtyard. Cold weather or rain, however, forced students to move inside the cafeteria, Learning Center, or Senior Lounge.

Newly remodeled this year, the Student Council snack bar not only offered students a variety of snacks, but also a place to meet with friends. Gibby Heilman and Lisa Clark, Juniors, convene in the snack bar one fall afternoon.

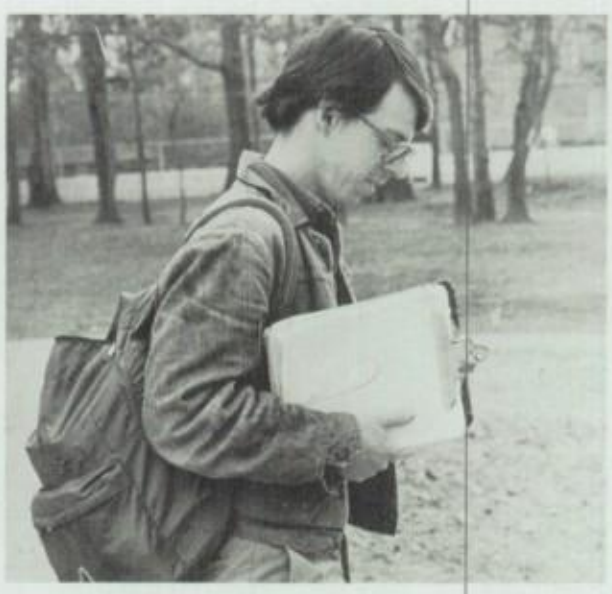

After lunch, many students use the remaining time in their lunch period to unwind, gossip, do a little homework, and just plain relax.

Signs Of The Times . . .

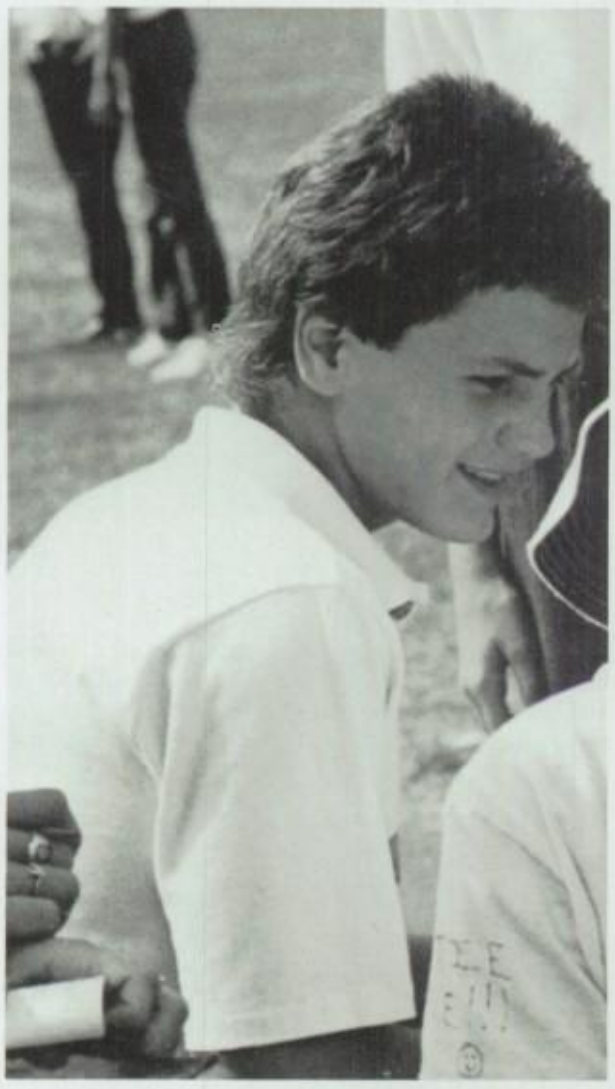

In the past years when the words "Izod", "Penny Loafer", "Button down", and "khaki" were spoken, they were used to describe Country Day and its student's attire. Things changed in the '82-'83 year though. Country Day's students could no longer be stereotyped in the pink and green, "Muffy, Tiffy and Kip" fashion. With the new school year came many new fashions. These could be seen on the C. D. campus as well as a few preppies and some just plain originals. "It's not just a new fashion, it's a new way of thinking. Four years ago, you could've seen a group of people all wearing the same style skirt but now people are less concerned about conforming and are dressing the way they like." stated senior Liza Riggins. Along with the new styles and ideas came fads such as video games, "New Wave" music, punk rock haircuts and wild fingernail polish.

RIGHT: Topping the fashion list; Junior Mary Brand shows off the popular "Compliments" jeans and low heeled boots.

BELOW: Senior Toby Pardue demonstrates the ease of carrying books in a bookpack which was a useful and fashionable item.

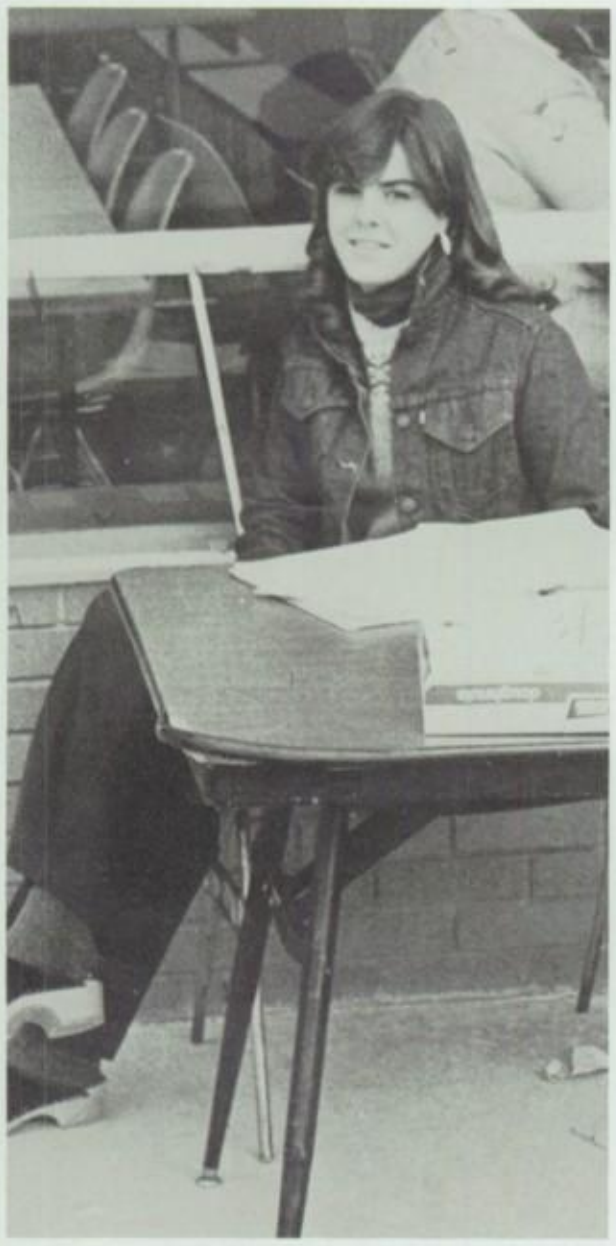

ABOVE: Eighth grader Chad Robinson had the latest hair cut; short on the top and longer on the neck.

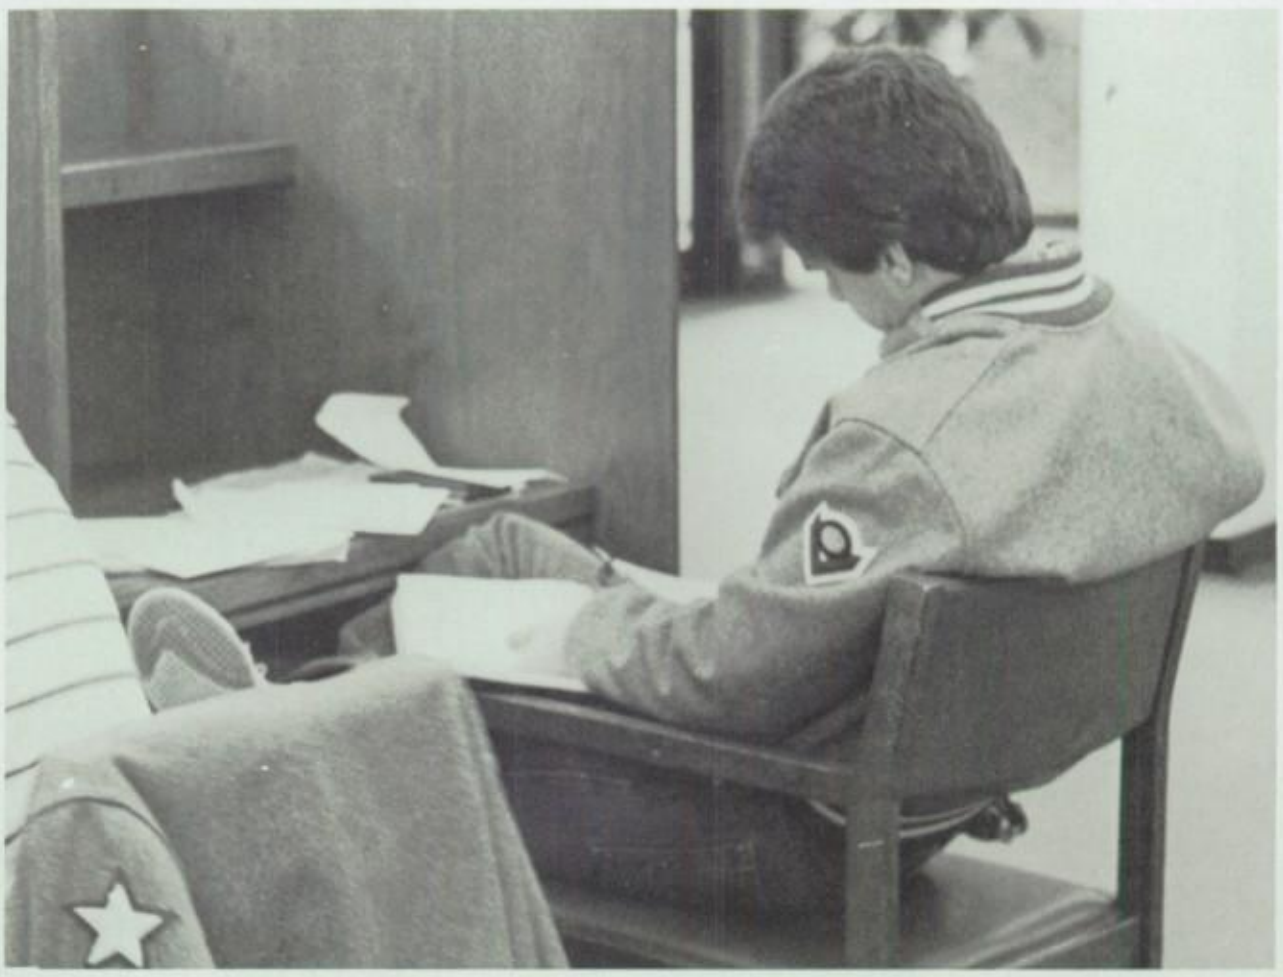

ABOVE: Levi's have been a tradition for many years. Here Gena Graham, Jessie Tomlinson, and Patti Culp put a little spice into the traditional work jeans.

BELOW: "C.B." jackets were a hot item on the C.D. campus. Jimmy Fagan, Jay Faison, Robert Salmon, Griff Hathaway, David Crawford, Chip Cash, Kent Walker, Heather Duncan, Rich Tourtellot, Matt McKee, Steve Christenbury, and Steve Windell caught the "C.B. fever".

Dressed as a "Kinky Punker" for Aquilifer initiations, Kim Powell looked up from studying.

Teresa Miller and Mary Petty chose to study in the Senior Lounge despite the loud music.

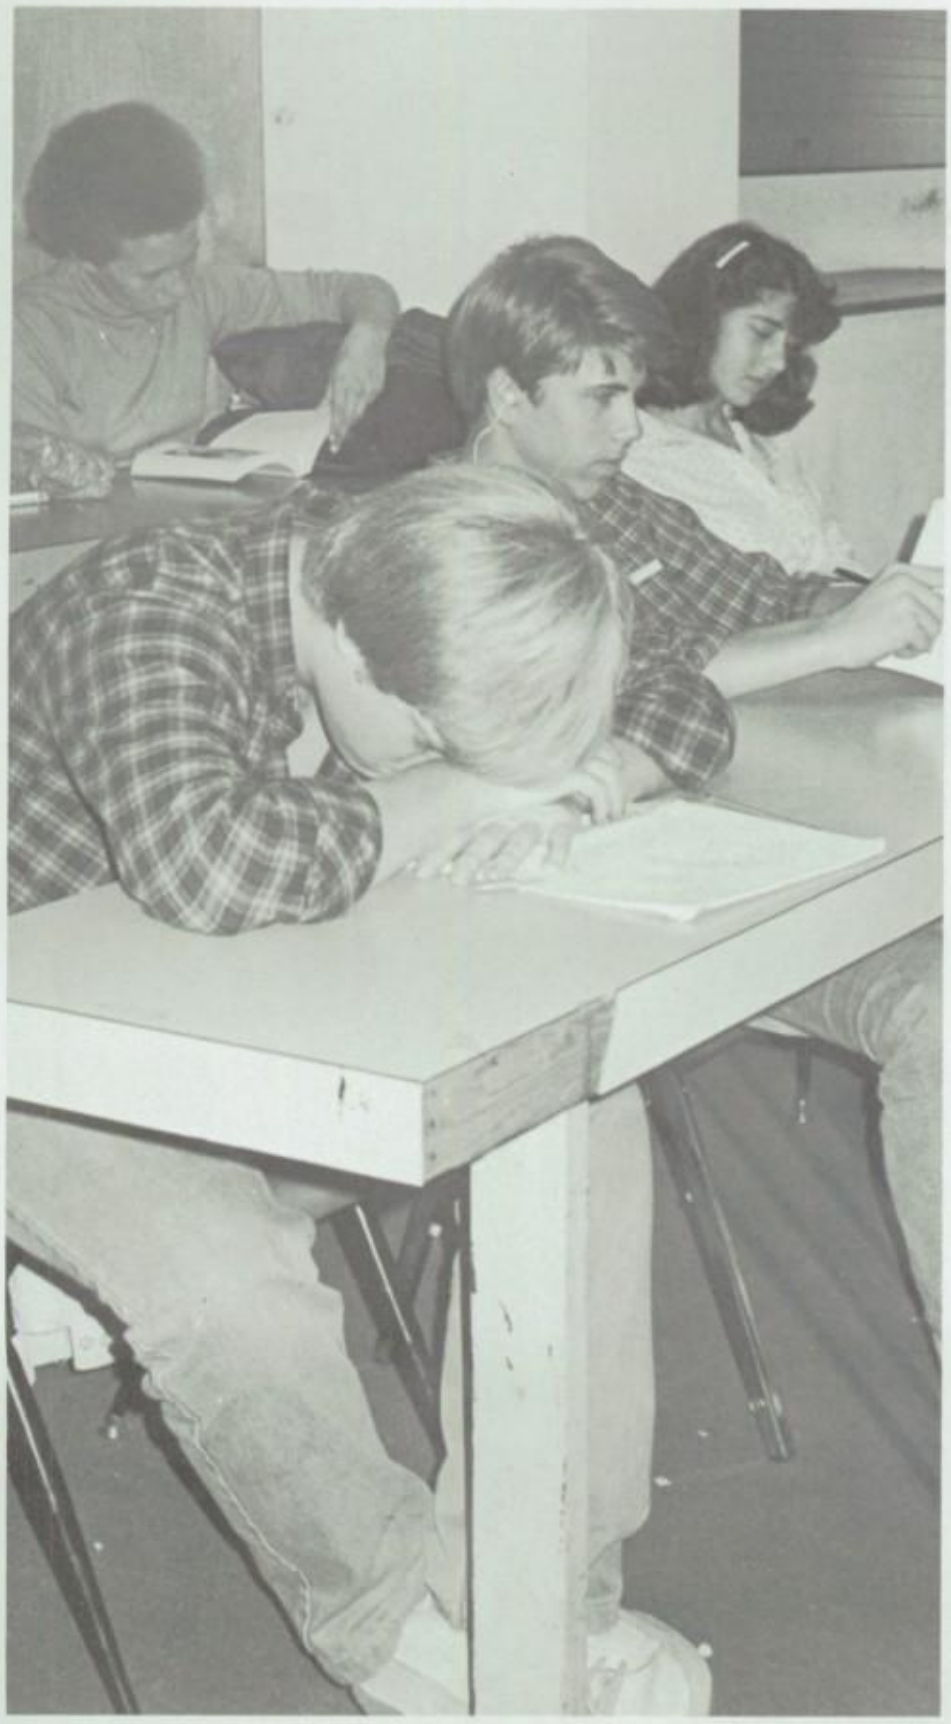

Lorin Silverman and Lyn Caldwell studied together while Heather Brown preferred to study alone.

Andrea Hartman did her Pre-Calculus homework in preparation for Mrs. Bingaman's class.

"I never let school interfere with my education" - Mark Twain

We had to study to succeed at Country Day. The academic challenge demanded all that we could give, and sometimes more. Our free time at school was often converted to cram time or catch-up time. We studied in the cafeteria, on the benches, in the sun, sprawled on sofas in the Senior Lounge, in a carrel in the Learning Center, or en route to class. At home we studied in a quiet(?) place in front of the television, beside the radio, at our own desks, at the kitchen table, or on our beds. We were ready for Mr. Christie's pop quiz, Mrs. Jacoby's fetal pigs, Mrs. Cobb's Caesar lectures, and Mr. Kelly's essays. Possibly the best advice for everyone to take, but by far the hardest to follow, can be found in the corner of Mr. Kelly's history room. "If you have thoroughly mastered all of the material, you will do well." - Edward E. Kelly

During a Study Hall in room T, Shannon Parsons slept while Randy Pharr secretly listened to his radio.

Our Lower School Librarian Miss Saunders, studied a History book with Josh Levine.

During a Middle School Study Hall, Carlyle Cambell and David Kratt worked on their English homework.

Lower School Keeps Busy After 2:45 p.m.

Although Lower School closes forty minutes before Upper School, many kids remain at Country Day for a variety of activities. Mr. Loiseau conducts an after school program, many students with sisters or brothers who have later dismissals wait at school until 3:25, and many have joined the rapidly growing ranks of the Boy and Girl Scouts. In January of 1980, the first cub scout den was formed. This year they can boast of a strong group of 57. This year alone they have had a Pinewood derby, made even more special because of the time, effort, and ingenuity they put into constructing their own cars. Each month has a theme such as: Indians, communication, energy, showbiz, and treasures of the sea. Each month is filled with craft projects, plays, field trips, and speakers. The group also explored a Pioneer Christmas and on an international idea, scouting around the world. Country Day can be proud of this group along with its Brownie program for the girls. As you can see, the Lower School doesn't end at 2:45.

After he finished reading the Cub Scout Manual, David Harry, a third grader, smiled with relief.

During their break, second grader Jill Blumenthal, and third grader Katie Sawyer eagerly await their next Brownie assignment.

Trying to kick a homerun isn't as easy as it seems. Kindergartener Stuart Richards plays kickball after school with a group of middle and lower schoolers.

Drinking juice, third grader and Brownie Mary Claudia Belk wonders what her creative troop leaders have in store for her.

Playing Kickball with a group of fifth graders, Ashly Howerton receives the kick.

All eyes on the basket! Third grader David Harry, along with his friend Bradford Barnhardt.

Persuaded by his troop leader, Brannon Raines a third grader, begins to take the cub scout wolf book.

With their troop leaders, Troop 230 demonstrates the Brownie friendship circle.

Time Out for the Creator of Time

During the year, students participated in a variety of religious activities, ranging from nationwide youth organizations to youth groups in local churches. Some students met weekly, some monthly, and some went to annual conventions. Some toured the U.S. singing in choirs, and some just toured the Blue Ridge Parkway on bikes. Some took trips to the beach, and some went to the mountains. Even though all the activities at school and otherwise took most of the time we had, we managed to find a few minutes, hours, and even days to set aside for the creator of everyone's time.

Andy Baron, a member of the B'nai Brith Youth Organization (BBYO), a national Jewish youth organization, chops wood on a camping trip to Morrow Mountain in October, 1982. Andy and seven friends took the weekend off to hike, fish, and camp.

The 30 degree weather of October 23 didn't stop Phil Dee or Ms. Vellines from helping the class make over $1200.00. Many thanks to the Estes for donating samples of famous name designer clothes by such names as JG Hook, Nantucket, and more.

Lightbulbs leftover from the Junior year fundraisers became hot items at the corner of Carmel and Fairview during the Attic Sale. Phill Dee, Jon Findlay, and David Burton sold twenty boxes in fifteen minutes by pleading, begging, and cajoling passing motorists.

$1200 Surplus

The Senior Class never lost the moneymaking fever of their Junior year. When the topic of a Senior gift to the school surfaced, the class jumped on the opportunity to do something for Country Day. They wanted to leave the school something special, something they could be proud of. The first order of business involved money. Back to the fundraisers!

An attic sale, like the 1981 sale that netted $600.00, evolved as the obvious choice for the easiest, quickest means to earn a couple of hundred dollars. Little did anyone know that the 1982 sale would add over $1200.00 to the Class of 1983 account! Astonishing everyone, the class now had an enormous surplus of cash.

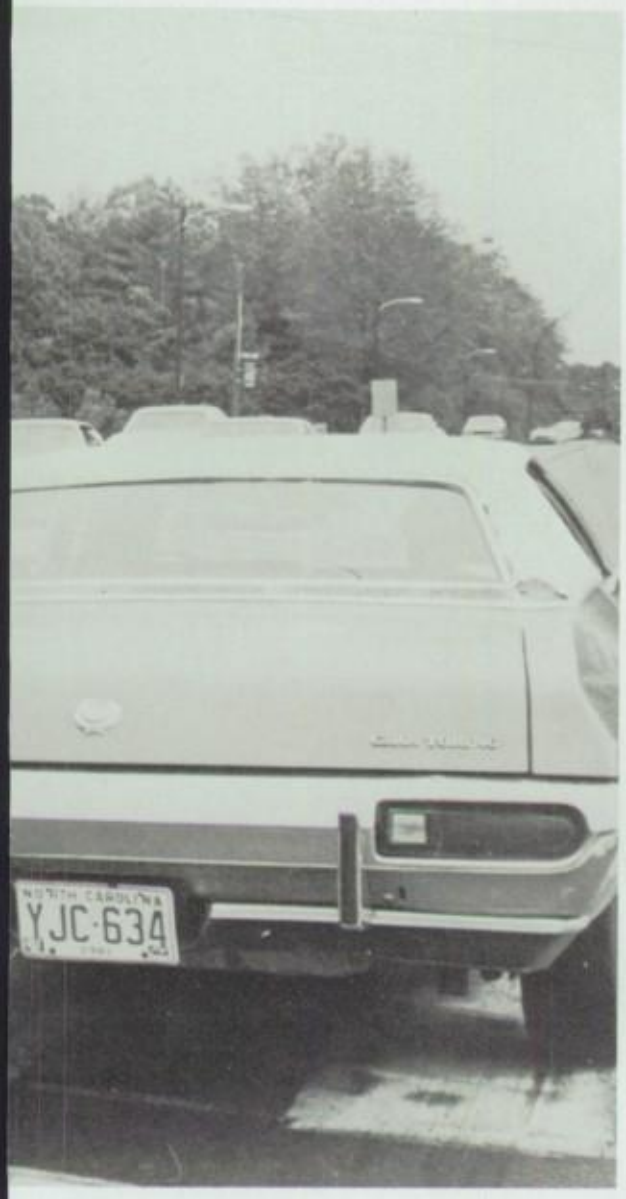

What do 103 people do with over one thousand dollars: buy new furniture for the Senior Lounge, sponsor a class trip to the beach, or distribute ten dollar checks to everyone? None of these seemed quite right. Instead, the class turned to the community to help those who needed aid more than they did. As a class, they donated a heater to Crisis Assistance Ministry to help a family through the winter. Steve Nathanson, Sara Smith, Ron Hewitt, Brook Estes, Liza Higgins, and Ms. Vellines rolled out of the bed at 8:00 AM one Saturday morning to weatherize a house through Duke Power Company. After Christmas breakfast, Margaret White, Alison Balentyne, Brook Estes, Liza Higgins, Ms. Vellines and her daughter Farrel helped sort clothes and items at the Crisis Ministry Clothing Bank. In addition to these projects, the class also donated time to the home for abused children, buying the materials and painting the room themselves. Allen Norwood of the Charlotte News heard of their activities and included the class in his Christmas column.

The Attic Sale netted far more for the Class of 1983 than a mere $1200.00

Brook Estes helps a client at Crisis Assistance Ministry's Clothing Bank after Christmas Breakfast. Crisis provides clothing, shoes, coats, and accessories for low income families at minimal, if any, cost to the customer.

The crew of Steve Nathanson, Ron Hewitt, Brook Estes, Liza Higgins, and Sara Smith help weatherize a home in North Charlotte by caulking, insulating, weather stripping, and sealing windows with plastic to keep wind out of cracks.

Nobody Does It Better

They were always there. Whether it was a cold, windy, rainy evening or a hot, sweaty, noisy gym — they were always there. They ranged in age from six months to eighty years. Tall and short, slim and not-so-slim. Students, teachers, family and friends — they were there. They cheered and screamed, they booed and cried. Country Day fans. Sometimes they came in droves — football games against Latin, basketball games against Providence Day. Sometimes they came in small numbers — wrestling, golf, and tennis matches. But no matter their number, no matter the game, they brought spirit. Country Day spirit.

Country Day fans were cheering on their teams at any moment — whether the Buccaneers were ahead by five goals in a soccer game or tied in an overtime basketball game with Providence Day. Spirit was shown in many fashions, from sweatshirts, streamers, and hats to red thermal underwear and male cheerleaders.

The screams ranged from "Go Bucs!" to "Ref! You *!#?!" With the pep band blaring and the excitement flowing, the Buccaneers took their victories with pride and their losses with sportsmanship.

Nobody did it better than a Country Day fan.

Basketball games brought Buccaneers in from the winter cold. Home games meant a large crowd, especially if those games were against rivals Providence Day and Latin. With the bleachers full and the sidelines packed, late-comers to the games were forced to watch from a crowded lobby. Water build-up on the floor prevented the games from being played at the larger Carmel Campus gym.

Four faithful Buccaneers find the best seats in the house to be on Country Day's dugout in Crockett Park.

First-grader Farrell Burns, daughter of Country Day's Learning Specialist Mary Karen Vellines, displays first-rate Buccaneer spirit at a fall volleyball game. During the mid-winter athletic season officials from Country Day, Charlotte Latin, and Providence Day decided to prohibit fans from displaying signs during sporting events in hopes of preventing hostilities betweens fans.

Big Saturday Raises $43,000

Mrs. Bost waits for more ticket customer.

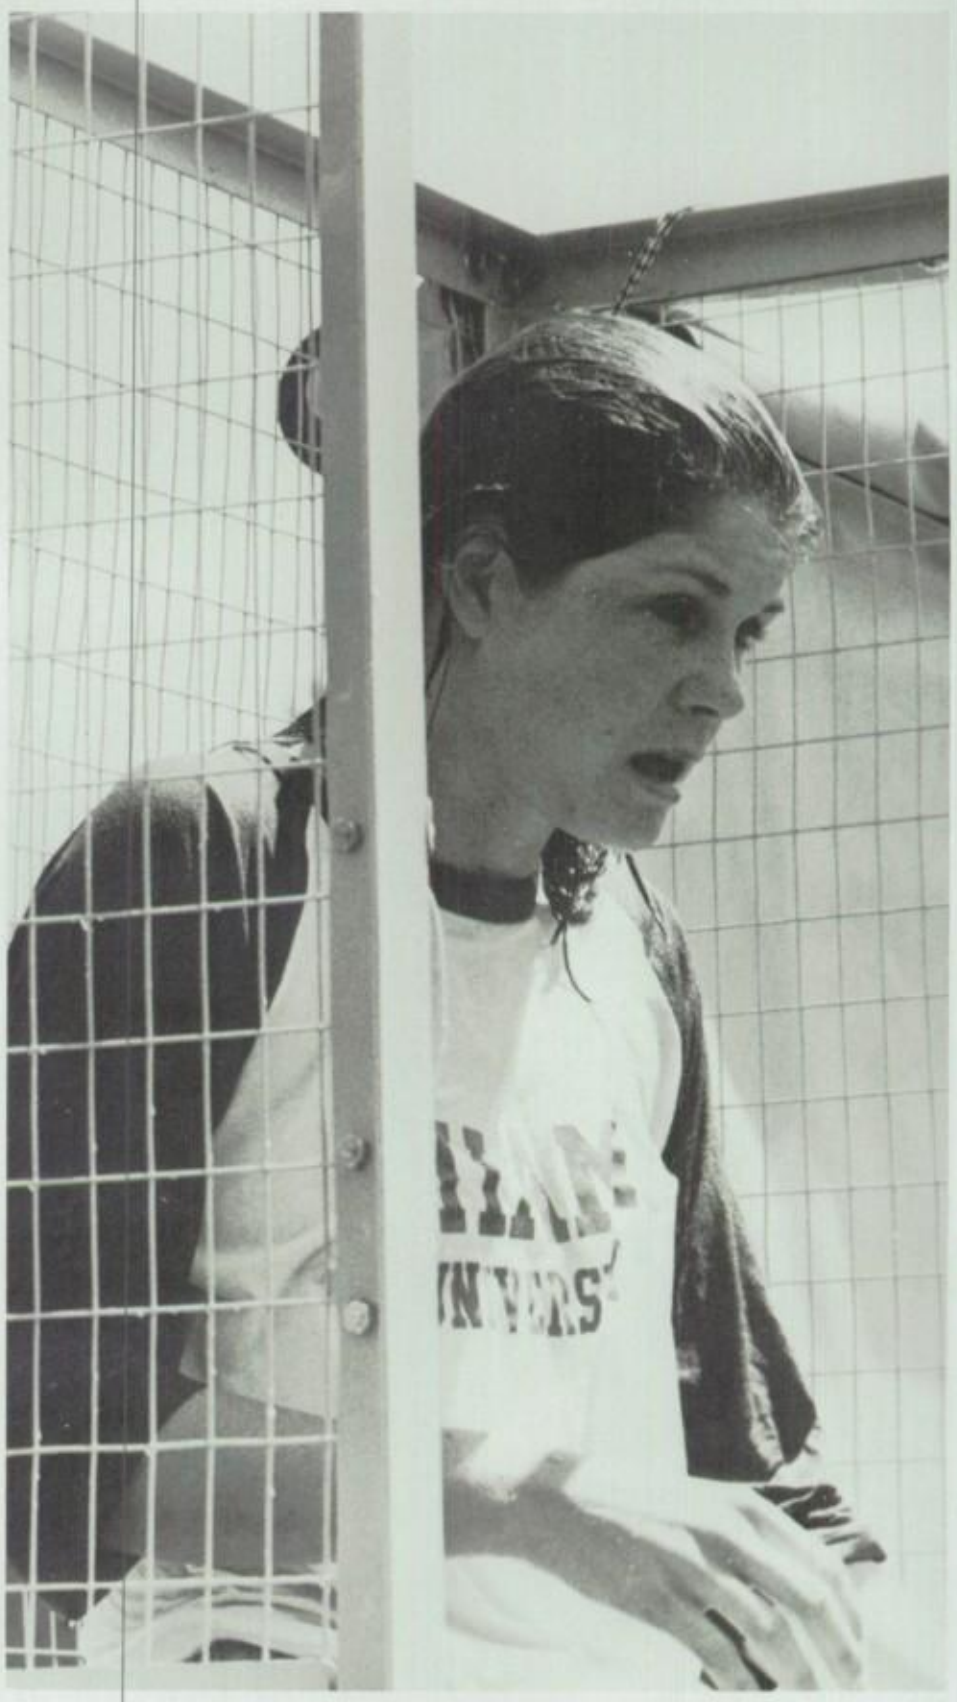

Each year Big Saturday has brought more people and more profit. This past year is no exception. Under the leadership of Lynn Lewis, chairman, and other Parent Council members, Big Saturday was expanded to include a three-day art show, an International Pavilion with foods from twelve different countries, new games, and other attractions in addition to a donation of $43,000. The profits went to the purchases of several new Apple II computers, Audio Visual equipment and more.

Debbie Hickman, President of Parents' Council, was presented with a Headmaster's Service Award at Commencement for her great leadership and aid in the many service projects, such as Big Saturday, which she carried out.

An Arabian Night In Charlotte

Picture yourself in a large tent complete with camels, a harem, and genies waiting on you, and you would have an Arabian Night. Top it off with a belly dancer, a first-rate band, and a date, and you have the 1982 Junior-Senior Prom! Last year's prom proved to be a significant success but it also entailed a great deal of hard work! The junior class worked all year raising funds by selling mugs, mums, poinsettias, and lightbulbs; they also sponsored an attic sale to help pay for the lavish event. The juniors would not have been able to do it without the help of the class advisors, Mr. Christie, Ms. Vellines, Mrs. Mackenzie, Coach Walton, Mrs. Huskey, and class mother, Mrs. Bost. Even with their help, the juniors just made it by the skin of their teeth. But their efforts proved to be well worth it! "I thought it was great! I've never seen anything that fancy!" said Mr. Fri, one of many teachers who attended the prom.

At the prom everyone danced and sang along with the band "Staircase." "I thought it was unreal. The band was superb!" said Chip Cash, a sophomore attendant at the prom. Many of the guys not only got to dance with their dates, but also with a belly dancer! After the prom Wanda Culbreth held a huge party at her house, and there was also a breakfast at Drew Anderson's. By that time most people were exhausted and ready to go home and hit the sack!

The 1982 Junior-Senior Prom concluded the school year in a very special way. It was a momentous farewell gift from the Junior class to the Seniors. But most of all it showed the juniors that class unity, organization, talent, and especially, hard work, can pay off!

TOO BUSHED TO BOOGIE; juniors Elizabeth Rivers, Margaret White, Steve Windell, Willie Rea and Valerie Clayton sit this dance out to listen to the band and admire the elaborate decorations.

MUSIC WORTH DANCING TO! Staircase played many different kinds of music, from top forty and disco to the GoGo's, that made even the shyest couples get out on the floor!

Sophomores Merryman Cassels, Katie White, Mary Brand, David Dixon, Chip Cash and Jim Rea were chosen by the junior class to dress up as genies and harem girls and be attendants at the prom.

The band "Staircase" proved to be a lucky choice. The junior band committee for the prom listened to performing bands for three consecutive Sundays before choosing "Staircase" out of twenty-nine other possible bands.

DRESSED TO CELEBRATE, juniors Kim Newbanks, Rusty Cramton, Cindy Risser and Shep McKinley are ready to enjoy a spectacular night at the 1982 Prom that they worked very hard at to prepare.

MAKING WISHES COME TRUE, Sophomore genie, Chip Cash, was a big help to the juniors. The Sophomore prom attendants greeted people at the door, served punch, and most of all, played their parts!

DANCING WITH A NEW TWIST: Ron Hewett was persuaded to leave his date for a while to accompany a belly dancer hired as a special prom attraction enhancing the Arabian Night theme.

A Tradition Renewed

For one week out of the hectic school year, CD students got a break from their rigorous work schedule, and enjoyed learning about Charlotte. Yet minimester hasn't always had such an exciting array of opportunities for the upper school students.

When the seniors were only in lower school, minimester was conceived. The idea of students being given the chance to learn about subjects they might never have been able to explore, was considered superb. Yet for all the enthusiasm aroused, it died twice as hard, and minimester was briefly suspended.

In 1982 minimester returned! Opportunities expanded to include: Architecture; the arts; Medicine; Education; Media; Criminal justice; Food and Housing; Sports and recreation; Charlotte-at-night; Military; Civil Law; History; Ethnic populations; Center city; Government; Surrounding communities; Utilities; Public services; Business; Finance; Industry; Transportation; Commerce; Counciling services; Death and Dying services; and Residential services.

Even though there were a vast amount of opportunities to choose from, the responses of the students varied greatly. The following are some different views:

"I feel that minimester was a good transition between exams and spring break." - Junior Mary Brand

"It was exciting to learn about what Charlotte has to offer the underprivileged" - Aven Owen, senior

"I felt the highpoints of the week were meeting Rodney Marsh and going to Davidson to the coaches there." - Junior Gina Rockey

The success of 1982's minimester is undeniable, but the future minimesters promise even more opportunities and even more fun!

Only The Beginning

Although early evening rain threatened to anoint the graduates' heads with water, the storm passed and the sky cleared by 7:00 pm on Thursday, June 3, 1983. At that time, the first chords of the Processional rang boldly through the air, and the ninety members of the class of '82 filed solemnly onto the outdoor stage. After the invocation given by Middle School Principal Alice Witwinchuk and Headmaster Horton Reed's welcome, valedictorian Mark Falls addressed the faculty, family, and friends of the graduating class. The presentation of awards followed with scholarship-winning athlete Mike Cofer receiving The Athlete's Cup, and Julie Hoffman receiving the Victora Ludorum, the female athlete's counterpart. The foreign language awards were presented next: Mary Martha Bledsoe was given The Emma Watts Pickens Latin Award, Peter Niebergall obtained the Mary Nicholson Goddard French Award, and Greg Gurski was presented with the CCDS Spanish Award. Mary Martha was also given the DAR Citizenship Award. Cynthia Farbman was awarded the Outstanding Cultural Contribution Award for her significant involvement in the Arts. Among the many scholarships offered to the class of '82, Morehead Scholarships to UNC-Chapel Hill were presented to Marshall Mills and Jennifer Smith. In addition, Marshall was voted Senior of the Year and won the CCDS History Award. Jennifer received the Edwin P. Heinrich Mathematics Award, the Bausch and Lomb Science Award, the CCDS English Award, and the twelfth grade Top Scholar.

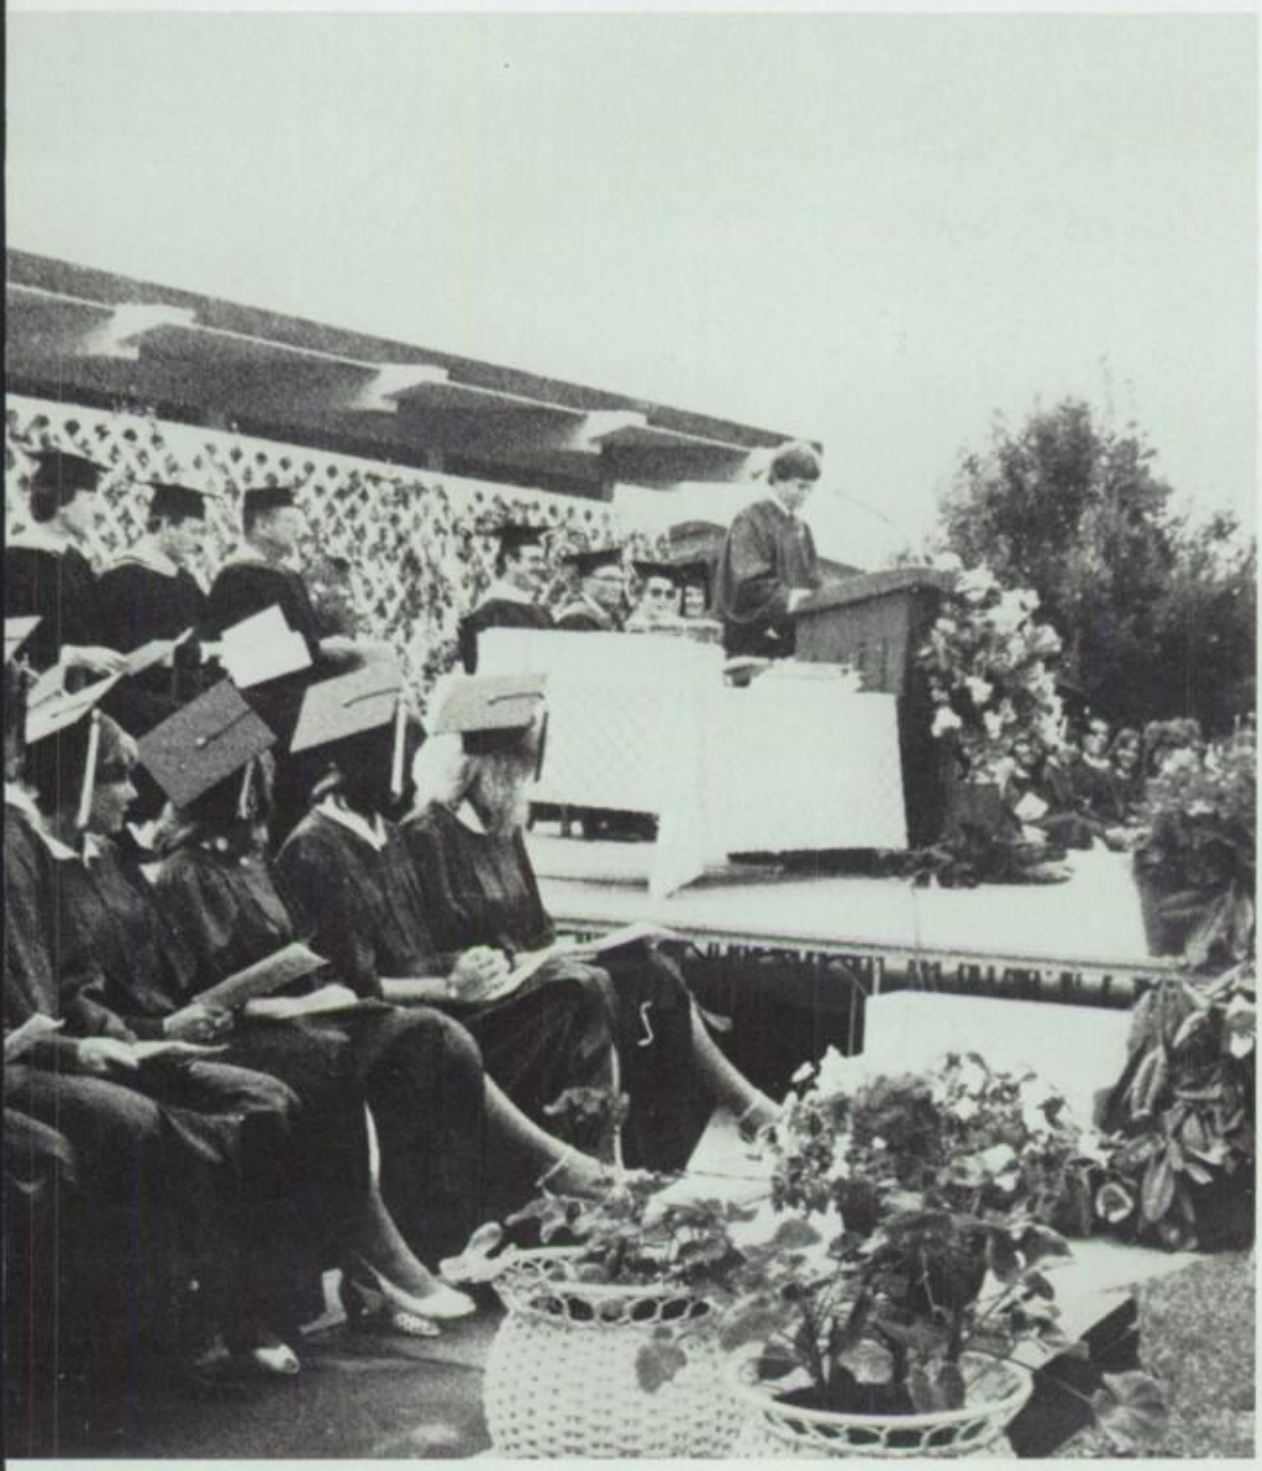

After the distribution of these awards, L. Jack Blythe, President of the Alumni Association, presented Middle School teacher Jo Hassett with the Alumni Faculty Award for her outstanding service and leadership. Preceded by Headmaster Reed's laudatory introduction, the President of Davidson College, Dr. Samuel R. Spencer, Jr. delivered the Commencement Address, focusing on the future and on the challenges the graduates must face. Following the presentation of diplomas and the benediction, the senior class of 1982 became CCDS alumni, as they unceremoniously cheered and threw their mortarboards skyward. The twenty-first Commencement Exercises closed with a Parents' Council reception held in honor of the graduates, but, for them, life was only just beginning.

Looking nervous and excited, the seniors await the moment when they will become graduates and alumni of Country Day.

As fellow members of the class of 1982 look on, Pedro Martin walks to his seat, followed by Zan McKelway and Marshall Mills.

With poignancy and humor, valedictorian Mark Falls praises his classmates for their outstanding accomplishments and predicts their performances in the future.

The Moving-Up Exercises, which were held last spring, marked the fourth and eighth grade "graduations" into Middle and Upper School. The ceremonies marked not only a move into a new grade but to a new campus as well.

The Eighth Grade Moving-Up Exercises were held June 2, on Cannon Campus in the Fine Arts Center. Following Headmaster Reed's opening remarks, Mr. Webb, Principal of Upper School, welcomed the class of '86 to Upper School. Paige Ford, President of Middle School and a member of the class of '86, then gave a speech in response to Mr Webb. The winners of the Faculty, Citizenship and Leadership Award were Anna Dulaney and Randy Pharr, while Mary Louise Dagenhart was the Top Scholar. "The Moving-Up Exercises for an eighth-grader," said Miss Litwinchuk, Principal of Middle School, are almost as exciting as graduation is for the Senior. They are so glad to be leaving Middle School and can't wait to get to Upper School."

The next day the Fourth Grade Moving-Up Exercises were held. Mr. Hagerman, Principal of Lower School who gave the program's Invocation, was followed by the Awards Presentation. The fourth-grade was then promoted to Middle School.

Members of the fourth-grade class rise to say the "Pledge of Allegience" during the Fourth-Grade Moving-Up Exercises.

School in the Woods

This year's School in the Woods was a big success enjoyed by all who participated. For this experience, each grade went to Camp Thunderbird for a few sunny autumn days.

The eighth graders went to SITW last, returning with many memories of their adventures. The theme this year, responsible decision making, included discussions and presentations on alcohol, nuclear war, role-playing and the environment. The Initiative Course, which included the zip wire, repelling, and group activities, highlighted the week for almost everyone. Eighth grader Julie Lerner enjoyed the role-playing activity, in which students took on different roles such as being pregnant or drunk. Mrs. Merchant, who led this activity, turned students around until they were dizzy and then asked them to write their names. This activity showed Julie and other students that "you really can't function when you're drunk." The nuclear war presentation included a slide show and very descriptive details on the effects of such a war. Many students, such as Martin Welton, felt that the slides were "very effective and really turned me against nuclear war."

Seventh grade highlights of SITW included kite-making, paper mâché masks, sand-casting on the beach and some very interesting optical illusions. Everyone's favorite seemed to be the IC Course. The main points of their adventure were summed up by students Caroline Doyle and Genie Walker. Caroline felt that the objective was "to get together and get to know your classmates." Genie also stressed friendship, "communicating better with you're friends, and working together."

Highlights of the sixth grade SITW included Mr. Topka's ghost stories, origami, orienteering, a sing-along, and a session with Jane Burdecki of the Charlotte Observer. The IC Course stressed the importance of working together as a team. According to sixth grader Hill Smith, nighttime was the best time. Evening activities included photography, ghost stories, and olympics featuring a banana relay.

The fifth grade SITW, an enthusiastic experience in learning about friendship and communication, included such activities as semaphore communication (a type of flag "sign language"), alcohol awareness program, science scavenger hunt, nature poetry, and the IC Course. Ed Cash stated that the IC Course was "all a matter of working together, helping each other." Wil Glasgow enjoyed the Trust Fall, which was "scary at first but made me feel good afterwards." One fifth grader summed up the best part of her SITW experience: "We went with one friend and came back with many!"

English teacher Bob Doherty meets with a group of seventh graders to discuss their future careers. Emphasis was placed on the importance of planning a budget around the high cost of living.

Fifth graders Jason Geer, Jeff White, Ed Cash, Clinton Eubanks, Scott Silverstein, Jamie Hoccutt, George Dewey, Rand Brookshire, Will Glasgow, Joe Milano, Harold Hope, and Meetu Godha stand in front of their cabin at SITW. Believe it or not, this group won the award for the quietest cabin!

From Fall To Spring the Halloween Parade to the Hootennany

The Halloween Parade, which has been a favorite tradition at Country Day for many years, involved the entire Cannon Campus. Upper Schoolers enjoyed watching the parade as much as their teachers. Lower Schoolers loved marching through the Upper School with Aquilifer girls leading classes. Lower School parents had fun watching numerous Pac Men and Women eat their way through the campus. The Halloween Parade is an annual occasion that brings together the oldest and the youngest of Country Day.

The first annual Hootennany was held in the spring of 1982. It was substituted for the traditional May Day held by the third grade. "The Hootennany was a fun learning experience for the children and their teachers," commented third grade teacher Mrs. Kratt. There were learning workshops involving clogging, folk music, weaving, and pottery, and the bagpipes. The celebration ended with a performance by the third grade children. Because of its success, the "Hoot" was held again in May.

Spirit Is the Name of the Game

The Bucs play an impressive homecoming game against Charlotte Latin School, who were defeated 27 to 7.

Junior Katie White, chosen for the Homecoming Court, is escorted by Gordon Watt, a Country Day senior.

Country Day Homecoming 1982, a memorable event, was attended by a record number of students, parents, faculty, and alumni. Spirit Week began with a volleyball game between the faculty and the Girls Varsity Volleyball team. Almost the entire faculty participated as players, cheerleaders, coaches, or spectators. Each grade in the Upper School competed in the decoration of the campus. The sophomores, who decorated the Learning Center, won the Spirit Award after a pep rally which included cheers and skits.

Friday night, November 5, a large crowd gathered to see Country Day defeat Charlotte Latin 27 to 7. At halftime, the Homecoming court was presented and the Queen, Sara Smith, was crowned by last year's queen, Suci Roddey. The next night, the Student Council sponsored a dance featuring the music of the Backstabbers. The theme of the dance, the Wizard of Oz, was enhanced by faculty members dressed as Dorothy, the Wizard, the Scarecrow, the Tin Man, the Cowardly Lion, and the Wicked Witch of the West.

This year, a Backwards Homecoming was held for the first time, complete with a male homecoming court and a Sadie Hawkins dance, featuring the band Threshold. Paul Georges was crowned King at halftime of the Country Day-Gaston Day game, and the court was presented. The court consisted of ninth graders Brent Lane and Taylor Welton, tenth graders Bill Coughlin and Hayes Harris, eleventh graders Michael Giblin and Pret Majette, and seniors Flynn Harris, Ernie Mason, Shep McKinley, and Alex Whisenant. Members of the male homecoming court felt it was an "unusual" and "embarassing" experience.

Christmas Breakfast '82 provided a special closing for the old year and an encouraging forecast for the new one. Chairperson Litt Erdle, assisted by parents, teachers, and students, did an outstanding job in planning the event. Held in the gym, the breakfast was the first in two years. Everyone seemed glad that the Parents' Council revived this special tradition. The breakfast featured artwork from the Lower School, poinsettias from the Junior Class, and service by the Aquilifer girls. Decorated trees, music, beautiful holiday wreaths, and delicious food provided by the cafeteria staff enhanced the breakfast. Attended by over 3000 people, Country Day Breakfast '82 provided a special time of warmth and sharing for the Country Day family

Carnival - It's Not All Fun and Games!

Plagued with sickness, broken bones and the like, Carnival finally made its appearance during the 1982-83 winter term. Regardless of the delays (Carnival was to have been originally performed during the 1981-82 spring term), the cast and crew managed to produce a play to be rememberd.

More involved than any play previously attempted, Carnival required an extreme amount of time and effort from cast and crew alike. With extremely difficult roles and music, the play provided a challenge to all involved. Director Rob Williams commented that even though the play had not turned out as he had expected, he was very satisfied with the way the students pulled it off; their handling of one of the toughest plays attempted at Country Day was admirable.

One twist with this year's play was that it was aided by the play production students and the Drama club. With their help and the technical direction of Mr. Christie, Carnival was blessed with one of the most elaborate sets seen at Country Day. There was one disadvantage to having a technical director as well as an acting director - lack of communication. Many a time Mr. Williams was not able to communicate to Mr. Christi about what he really needed.

Trendsetting, injury-ridden, innovative, and elaborate - Carnival was a unique play which provided a challenge to the students at Country Day. This challenge was met with vigor and professionalism and resulted in the production of a play to be remembered.

"Shabbily Arrogant"

Picture yourself on a small island off the coast of South Carolina with a long summer vacation that lies ahead of you. What do you think of? Palm trees? The beach? Getting a tan? Faculty and their families? Working?

More than likely you thought of everything but faculty and working. Yet last summer the faculty and their families spent a week enjoying the luxuries of a rented home on Pawley's Island. Mrs. Spearman, a Lower School aide, took the group out into a nearby swamp and taught them how to shrimp and crab. "One day we caught enough shrimp to feed everyone dinner," said Ms. Bingaman. Following the faculty's "retreat" the Administrative staff went down for half a week of work. "We needed a place with no phones ringing or interruptions," said Mr. Webb. The administration spent the first few days of their stay planning the upcoming school year, while the latter part of their visit became a time to work on long-range plans.

Later in June campers (ranging from sixth to eighth-graders) arrived for a nine day study session of the coastal area between Litchfield and Charleston. "The primary goal of CD by the Sea is to stimulate the campers' interest in, appreciation for and desire to preserve the culture, history, and ecology of our coastal region," said Mrs. Richards, one of the camp's leaders. During their visit the campers went on shrimping expeditions led by Mrs. Spearman, as well as on other field trips to wildlife preserves and marine aquariums. The group, along with Mrs. Chapman and several student counselors learned about marine life while they studied the salt marsh and birds through a telescope, as well as first hand. At night the group went out to look for logger head tracks and local ghosts! By the end of the second session two groups of students had had the very special chance to view first hand the beautiful Southern Coast.

HIGH SCHOOLS/NBA/COLLEGES

11 Students In Mecklenburg Nominated For Morehead Awards

By LINDA BROWN
Observer Staff Writer

Mecklenburg County's Morehead Scholarship Committee has nominated 11 high school seniors from among 38 to receive the four-year awards to attend UNC.

The students now compete on the district level on Dec. 8, when the number will be narrowed to five or six. District winners go to the finals in Chapel Hill.

Modeled after the Rhodes Scholarships at Britain's Oxford University, the Morehead Scholarships were designed by John Motley Morehead of Rockingham County with his cousin John Lindsay Morehead of Charlotte, who established the Morehead foundation in 1945.

Awards are granted to high school seniors on the basis of academic standing, character, leadership, ambition and evidence of physical vigor.

Students who apply also must qualify for admission to UNC.

Grants for the 1982-83 year will be approximately $6,000 for N.C. residents.

The intent is for $3,800 to cover expenses during the school year and $2,200 to finance participation in the foundation's summer enrichment internship program.

A scholarship can be canceled if the foundation's trustees believe a student's conduct isn't up to Morehead program's standards.

The 11 Mecklenburg nominees were among 38 whose names where submitted to the committee by local public and private high schools.

"I was really excited and surprised," said Sara Sue Smith, one of three Charlotte Country Day School finalists. "I knew that there were a whole bunch of high school seniors going for it and I knew that the other two from our school were already well-qualified. I figured if everyone was that qualified, I wouldn't have a chance."

She is the daughter of Roger and Sue Smith of 3040 Valencia Ter.

Wilson Stuart Bigham, who attends West Mecklenburg High, said he plans to go to UNC even if he doesn't win the scholarship. "That was the only school I applied to," he said.

Bigham is the son of Reece and Rachel Overcash Bigham of 3213 Little Rock Rd.

Others Mecklenburg nominees are:

Carol Marie Ferrua of South Mecklenburg, daughter of John and Aileen Ferrua of 8900 Deerpark Ln., Matthews; Karla Renee Hauersperger of East Mecklenburg, daughter of Richard and Karen Hauersperger of 5836 Gate Post Rd.; Nancy Helen Hovis of Harding, daughter of Charles and Helen Hovis of 4407 Mapleleaf Ln.; Joseph Francis Kenny of Charlotte Latin School, son of Joseph and Virginia Kenny of 4101 Larkspur Ln.; Terri Martin of Charlotte Country Day School, daughter of the late Richard Martin, and Rosa Martin of 518 Beatties Ford Rd; Mark David Maye of Independence, son of Jerry and Rita Maye of 2500 Shelburne Place; Helen Parker of South Mecklenburg, daughter of Elton and Helen Parker of 6522 Highwood Place; Richard Christopher Peccie of South Mecklenburg, son of Richard and Linda Peccie of 9830 Oldfield Rd., and Benjamin Sutker of Charlotte Country Day School, son of Stephen and Judith Sutker of 831 Nottingham Dr.

Volleyball Power

Elizabeth Rivers, a power player, and Jessie Tomlinson, a good passer, and consistent server, complement one another on the volleyball court. Add setter Julie Brittain, and you come up with some good matches.

That's what Country Day did Friday and Saturday at the Providence Day Invitational. Brittain "just ran all over the court," said coach Susan Pignetti. "She's really behind it all."

Country Day finished third among six teams, losing 13-11, 15-11, 15-12 to champion Davidson College. After that match, the Bucs lost to Charleston Ashley Hall for second place.

Tomlinson cracked her toe during the Davidson match and is out for a week. Sophomore Kathryn Anderson substituted "and did a fantastic job," Pignetti said.

Singin' and stompin'

Charlotte Country Day School third-graders learned how to clog, spin and play the bagpipe at a hootenanny and folk art festival Tuesday.

Students also heard folk tales and learned about making pottery. A picnic lunch at the school, 1440 Carmel Road, preceded a gathering where students sang, stomped and danced.

The school fine arts department sponsored the event.

• When the senior class at Country Day made lots of money at an attic sale early this school year, the seniors decided to share, too. So far they've donated a heater to the Crisis Assistance Ministry, volunteered time at the new winter shelter, helped winterize homes and made plans to paint a room at the abused children's center. There's no name here because the senior I talked to said the whole class has been involved and it wouldn't be fair to single anyone out..

History symposium planned Jan. 15

Charlotte's cotton mills, trolleys and tent meetings will be discussed as part of a Jan. 15 history symposium sponsored by the history department of Charlotte Country Day School.

The session will run from 9 a.m. to 1:30 in the library on the school's Cannon Campus, 1440 Carmel Road. Persons participating will attend lunch together on the campus. A fee of $12 per person should be sent by Tuesday to Charlotte Country Day School, 1440 Carmel Road, Charlotte 28211. For more

Charlotte Country Day School's upper and lower schools have been collecting food this week for Loaves and Fishes, Holy Comforter Episcopal Church's program to help the needy.

Also this week, the middle school gathered clothes and toys for Crisis Assistance Ministry, a program sponsored by about 200 Charlotte churches.

Mark Hagerman, Country Day's lower school principal, has been appointed by Gov. Jim Hunt to the North Carolina Annual Testing Commission, which develops testing standards and programs for the state's elementay schools.

They answered the question about who's the best private school football team in the state by beating Raleigh Ravenscroft, 49-0, in the N.C. Independent Schools championship game Friday at CD.

Bucs' Levins Keeps Streak Alive

Country Day wrestler Eddie Levins has not lost since Christmas of 1981. With 21 victories this year, including 12 pins, in the heavyweight class and 14 from last year as a 195-pounder, Levins's streak extends to 35 victories.

His team is 10-2. The Buccaneers are aided by sophomore John Hosmer (138), who is undefeated in dual meets and placed second, third and fourth in tournaments. Hosmer and Levins are the captains.

Coach Rick Stack claims they are the best in Mecklenburg County in their weight classes.

Hayes Harris (126) has lost one dual meet, and Brian Butler (145) has lost two.

The Buccaneers will wrestle in the independent schools tournament Feb. 19 at Country Day. The competition will consist of the five independent schools in North Carolina with wrestling teams. "I wish we could particpate in (the public schools' tournament)," Stack said, "but we can't."

Technically Speaking

In last Tuesday's game against Hunter Huss, East Burke boys' basketball coach Bob Bliss received three technical fouls.

National rules dictate a coach must be ejected from a game after three technicals, so Bliss left late in the third quarter. His son, Robby Bliss, a sophomore standout, was ejected following what was ruled a flagrant foul.

In all, nine technicals were called. That includes one on Huss coach G.C. Harrill. His offense? He was arguing in coach Bliss's defense.

Feeling the calls were inconsistent, Bliss and Harrill called a timeout to try to discuss the matter with the officials. "They wouldn't pay us any attention," Bliss said.

Although Bliss had his perfect record ruined in one night and missed part of a game, there is a bright side. At least Bliss works for the Burke County school system and not the Charlotte-Mecklenburg. He still has a job.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg system instituted a rule that any coach ejected from a game is dismissed from his coaching post.

19 in honor society

10/22/82

Charlotte Country Day School, 1440 Carmel Road, held a candlelight induction ceremony Friday to welcome 19 students into the school's chapter of the National Honor Society.

Seniors inducted were: Cackie Dowd, Betsy Downs, Shep McKinley, Susan Schindler, Allen Stark, Gordon Watt, Sherri Weinstein, Mark Osborn and Wendy Widener.

Juniors inducted were: Margaret Bledsoe, Dean Brown, Lisa Clark, Boykin Curry, Jennifer Doyle, Mark Hoffman, Shelly Mendell, Ellen Ranson, Delia Welton and Marcelle Gorelick.

Chapter president Aven Owen presided over the event.

● Students at Country Day's middle school, 5936 Green Rea Road, said goodbye recently to six sixth-graders from Wayne Country Day School in Goldsboro who were classmates for a week.

Charlotte Country Day selected four sixth-graders to go to the Goldsboro private school last year.

While visiting here, the Goldsboro students went with their Charlotte chums to the School in the Woods at Camp Thunderbird, visited Discovery Place and attended two days of classes at the Carmel Road campus.

Country Day will send five students — selected on the basis of essays on why they want to participate, grades and leadership — to another school this spring. The school hasn't yet been selected.

Officials hope the exchange program will eventually include a national network of participating schools.

The program is designed to give students a chance to experience a sampling of education in other schools and to share that experience with their classmates back home.

● Country Day's junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders will sponsor a cheerleading clinic Saturday, 8:30 a.m.-noon.

Open to all private and public school students, the clinic will include instruction on cheers for several sports and tips on techniques.

Doughnuts and orange juice will be served during the 8:30 a.m. registration in the gymnasium lobby at the Cannon campus, 1440 Carmel Road. The cost is $8.

Participants will perform their skills for their parents at 11:30 a.m.

The Bucs were "young and green" last year when they finished with an 11-1 record, says Coach Bob Plyler, but that won't be the case this season.

Four starters return to the Country Day lineup, including three who averaged in double figures last year. Six-foot-5 senior forward Ernie Mason, who averaged 17 points, returns along with senior guard Gordon Watt (10 points) and 6-4 senior center Robert Dixon (10 points). Also returning is senior guard Wynn Davis, who is recovering from a hip injury.

Other players expected to help the Bucs are 6-4 center Steve Tomanchek, 6-3 forward Todd Fisher, 6-3 forward Mark Osborn, 5-10 guard Alex Mackenzie, 5-8 guard Flynn Harris and 5-11 guard David Dixon. Forwards Bill Broadway and Michael Giblin should help the Bucs after playing on the junior varsity last year.

W. Charlotte, Country Day, Latin Log Wins

By NEIL SIMMONS
Special to The Observer

When West Charlotte boys' basketball coach Charles McCullough left the house Saturday for his team's game against West Mecklenburg, his son asked what he was playing for.

"I told him it was for the championship — at least the first leg of it," said McCullough, whose team beat the Indians 66-47 in a playoff for the eighth and final spot in the Southwestern 4A district tournament.

The Lions' reward is a first-round game Tuesday at Independence, which tied Myers Park for the regular-season title and won the No. 1 seed in a coin flip.

West Mecklenburg, which tied West Charlotte for eighth place in the regular season, took a 13-12 first-quarter lead on 11 points by Gary Keblin.

Country Day 66, Providence Day 62 — Ernie Mason's 21 points helped the regular-season champion Buccaneers take the Charlotte Independent Schools Athletic Association (CISAA) tournament title at Latin School.

The victory moves the Bucs into the state tournament, beginning Thursday at Raleigh Ravenscroft School.

Latin 57, Country Day 51 — The host Latin girls took the CISAA title in their division, upsetting the regular-season champion Buccaneers. Blair Tyler scored 16 points and Kelly Bailey 15 for the victors.

The two teams will play Tuesday (at a site to be determined) in a playoff for a state tournament berth.

Biting wit of Wilde comes through clearly a review

By LAWRENCE TOPPMAN
OF THE NEWS STAFF

"Life," insisted Oscar Wilde, "is far too important a thing ever to be talked about seriously." That philosophy pervades "Lady Windemere's Fan," a bitingly trivial comedy given a handsome production by the Mint Museum's Golden Circle Theatre.

Director Marilyn Carter's actors look and sound at home in the plush Victorian drawing rooms, and Wilde's glib utterances tumble from their tongues.

To the extent that cleverness can charm, the play charms. To the extent that we can be moved by wit — moved to relaxed laughter, if not to profound emotion — the production moves us.

Wilde knew he had no knockout punches in his literary arsenal, so he floored audiences with jabs. "There's nothing like the devotion of a married woman," exclaims one snippy bachelor. "It's something no married man knows anything about."

Every so often a glimmer of social commentary does shine through. Wilde believed the indiscretions that make men dangerously attractive may not be heinous sins for women, and that behavior in any case can never safely be judged by society.

Yet the conventions of the writing limited Wilde as well: Characters often speak thoughts aloud to the audience, a device that served Shakespeare's poetry better than Wilde's exposition.

The plot's simple enough: Mrs. Windemere, a puritanical wife devoted to her husband, discovers he has expended time and money upon a woman old enough to be her mother.

The woman, who aspires to society while knifing dowagers in the back with coy phrases, actually is the mother who abandoned Lady W years before. Lady W, not knowing it, determines to leave her "faithless" husband and elope with smitten Lord Darlington.

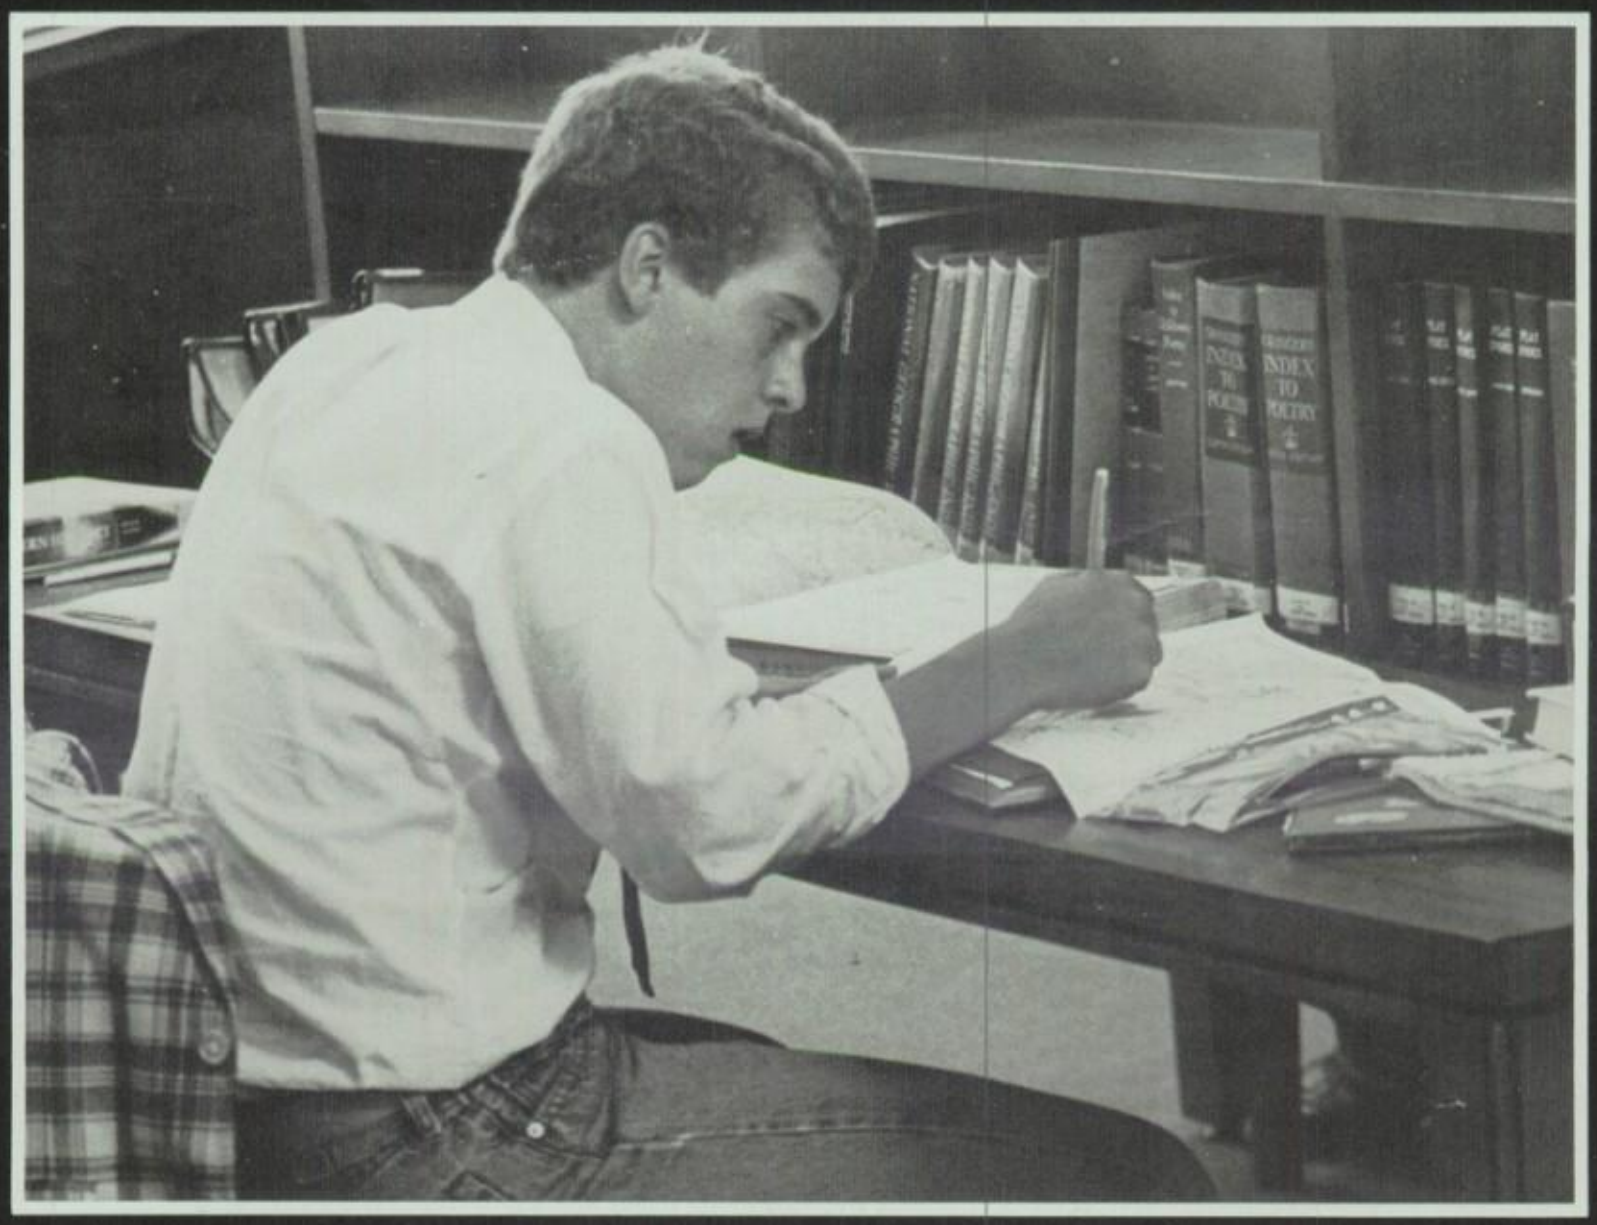

Celeste Allen and Brad Christie are a marriage made in heaven as the Windemeres; she's all spark and spite, while he embodies generations of bumbling, stiff-upper-lipped Englishmen.

Dan Shoemaker, who usually plays sympathetic buddy types, makes the most of Darlington, the silver-tongued serpent in this Eden of marital bliss. As the mother, Sandy Queen displays verbal skill and a forceful personality but takes the dramatic scenes a bit too lightly.

James Eric's set, two-tiered to accommodate the living rooms of Darlington and Windemere, takes you back 90 years immediately. Michael Nations' costumes do not; they look authentic, but pinned-up petticoats and a lack of attention to detail break whatever mood the gowns and tails help establish.

The show runs Sept. 23-25 and Sept. 30-Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. at 501 Hempstead Place. Tickets: $4 ($2.50 students under 19). Call 334-3727, 12-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday.

C.D. Threesome

The Administration of Country Day acted as three different units. The school could be thought of as three complete schools and the principals headed each unit as the headmaster.

The deans' positions could have been compared to that of a principal and each school's secretary tended to her branch - her responsibilities limited to her particular section.

Our Headmaster, Horton C. Reed, managed and coordinated the three schools together. As he put it, "I am like a Superintendent of Schools."

Along with the "superintending" of Country Day, Mr. Reed also presided over the business and functional parts of the school(s), reporting to the Board of Trustees.

Thus the Country Day chain around which the Administration looped formed a never ending circle with Horton C. Reed, its principle link.

Country Day has always operated as a big business, and as all big businesses, it has been based on money from the beginning. Throughout the years, different people have managed that money, but in 1982, Joe Farrell conducted over $5 million through the Business Office.

Country Day could not function without the Business Office or Plant Operations. The Office controlled tuition, book stores and bills as well as the cafeterias which took in over $250,000 in the 1982-83 school year. All school activities depended upon the Business Office and the Purchasing Agent, Leslie Kolivas. Mrs. Kolivas left Country Day in 1982 and was replaced by Jennie Arnold. The Purchasing Agent filled requisitions and paid bills. In the Business Office Jane Hoover "was a little bank" for clubs, depositing funds and allotting money for trips and activities. Plant Operations was designed by Mr. Farrell to take care of the campuses and vehicles. Plant Operations was managed by Jimmy Broadway in 1982. The business end of Country Day was described best by Mr. Farrell when he remarked, "We support the whole shooting match!"

The Health, Computer, and Guidance services in the past have basically been the behind-the-scenes' departments. 1983 proved to be an exception because each division expanded its programs and became more available to the student body.

The Health Department at Country Day was not limited to Bandaids, Aspirins, and Bactine. This year, the Health Services, headed by Ms. Jordan and Ms. Lipscomb, offered a wide variety of informative courses ranging from Nutrition and Dental health for Lower School students to a Growth and Development course for the fifth grade. Also, Ms. Jordan and Ms. Lipscomb conducted several eye and ear tests, and a scolioses screening in the sixth and seventh grades. All of the Health education courses proved exciting and definitely held "a captive audience", said Ms. Lipscomb.

The Computer Services developed into an important part of the students at C.C.D.S. This year, Mrs. Ladutko organized an official computer program for grades Kindergarten through Fourth. The program was instructed by Upper School volunteers in order to expose the younger students to the use of the available computer systems. Also, the Middle School established its own computer program, headed by Mr. Burke; the program was expanded by the addition of seven new Apple II computers. The computer system at Country Day became a major part of the student body's curriculum. Spanning from computer classes to science labs, the computers uniquely linked the Lower, Middle, and Upper schools.

This year's Guidance Services also offered new and valuable programs in which all students could participate. The Guidance program at C.C.D.S. began with the Lower School students. Students in K-4 participated in the "I'm Special" program which allowed them to discover their strengths and weaknesses and to build a better self-image. Mr. Briggs, the Lower School Guidance Director, said that the activities for the younger students were structured "to give the kids a chance to put away academics and discuss things relevent to them". In the Middle School, Ms. Crawford developed a Peer counseling training class for the eighth grade which enabled students to talk to other students about common problems. Also, in the sixth grade, a Discovery course was made available to students to help them answer the question of "Who am I?" In the Upper School, Mr. Levine became the new Director of Guidance. He immediately established a Career Program for Upper School students. Career planning increased student awareness and understanding of different career opportunities by offering students the chance to listen and talk with professionals, such as Engineers, Educators, Lawyers, and Architect. The Guidance Services at C.C.D.S. were made available to the entire student body and became a valuable part of the Country Day family.

Generation After Generation

September 1, 1982

Dear Steve,

I received your card yesterday and thought I'd drop you a note of appreciation and let you know how your big sister is doing! Birthdays aren't as fun as they used to be when you and I were growing up, but your card made this one worthwhile. It's a shame you can't visit Charlotte more often. You wouldn't believe how the city has changed.

Your niece passed her admission tests with flying colors and is now ready to enter kindergarten at Country Day. She's slightly apprehensive yet excited at the same time. It's hard to imagine my daughter going to the same school that you and I attended. It's amazing how it's changed. Scott and I decided that we'd better take an admissions tour to become familiar with the new facilities. Our guide was a Country Day senior. The Admissions staff told us that a student's point-of-view is beneficial when prospective families consider Country Day. Scott and I agreed that talking with a student helped us learn more about the school and its undertakings. After talking with Betsy Howard and Walter Lockhart, we decided that Country Day offered a program of learning that would be most beneficial for Susan.

While I waited for Susan to finish her admission tests, I thumbed through a copy of the school's newspaper, COUNTRY DAY. It was quite different from any of the literature that Country Day published when we were students. There was in-depth coverage of all the different aspects of Country Day — from students and faculty to the Board of Trustees and the Boosters' Club. The editor, Julia Britt, has really done an outstanding job. Country Day has also had a great amount of coverage in the Charlotte media — specifically news paper and television — thanks to Elaine Erwin, who is the Coordinator of Public Relations.

I was at Country Day for a Parents' Orientation meeting when I met Doris Lavendar, the Alumni Secretary. She remembered you and me and asked how you were doing. After telling her about your successful business, she wanted to know if you would be interested in participating in the Alumni Association's Career Day for seniors on September 24. Returning alumni would counsel and advise seniors on career opportunities. I told her that it sounded like something that you'd be interested in, so you should be hearing from her any day now. She also told me that your Tenth Year Reunion is coming up. I don't know how she does it but she seems to know what every Country Day graduate has done with his or her life. I guess you could call her Country Day's historian.

At the Orientation, I met Jack Kenyon, Country Day's new Director of Development. Apparently, Development is vital to Country Day. He told me that he wanted to intensify the annual giving program as well as set up an endowment fund which would serve a donor's best interests by gaining regular income and providing tax breaks. Endowment funds would be primarily used for scholarships and faculty chairs. Country Day didn't seem that complex when we were students, did it? As you can see, our alma mater has really changed. It should be interesting to see Susan grow with Country Day in the next thirteen years. I'll be sure and keep you up to date. Hope to see you soon,

Love,

Kathy

Look And Learn

There is more to learning than just what is taught in the classroom. To be well-educated one must be involved in many different subjects and mediums of expression. Through the learning specialists, audio-visualists, and librarians at Country Day this goal is reached.

With the careful administration of David Barnes and Pat Davis no teacher was ever wanting of audio-visual equipment with which to instruct his or her class. Mr. Barnes and Ms. Davis were always there to administer, repair, and instruct one with the a-v equipment. For those occasions when students were asked to do out-of-class assignments, Mary Wilson, Ann Petrea, Scotty Gallamore, and Susan Saunders assisted them in their scholastic endeavors. With their helpful assistance the learning centers at Country Day have become known as true centers of learning.

When it comes to the learning specialists at Country Day, one hits upon one of the least understood professions at C.D. Mary K. Vellines, Naomi Fast, and Susan Murfee were there not only to help those who were having trouble, but also those who were not. As Mrs. Vellines said, "... just about everyone can benefit from more efficient study habits." The learning specialists developed courses as they were needed and instructed teachers on how to incorporate study skills into their classroom.

Learning at Country Day came in many facets; each carried equal importance. The librarians, audio-visualists, and learning specialists formed an integral part of this learning experience.

Country Day's English Department was well prepared for the 1982-83 school year with many required courses as well as many diverse and interesting electives. Skills such as expository and creative writing and the analysis of classical literature gave students beyond the knowledge necessary for college English.

David Offill, new to the Cannon Campus, headed the Upper School English Department. While the Upper School English required freshmen to take three terms of Ninth Grade English, sophomores, juniors, and seniors took two terms of a required English course and a spring term English elective of their choice. Third term electives included Film History, Shakespeare, Expository Writing, and Mythology. During their required two terms of English, juniors and seniors had weekly large-group lectures in Room T. Lecture periods included guest speakers, such as Dr. Abbot from Davidson College and Dr. Goode from Queens College, as well as movies and other presentations.

Middle School students focused their studies on basic English grammar and independent reading, while Lower School students studied the basics of English language through vocabulary, reading, and writing. Lower School students also tried their hands at writing their own books. Creativity was strongly encouraged in all three schools at Country Day in hopes of producing a love of English.

Brad Christie taught both American Literature to the Junior Class and Western Man to the Senior Class. He also taught "Faulkner For Adults" at Country Day, as William Faulkner is one of his favorite American authors.

Around The World In 180 Days

On Language Day, Kim Powell and Sara Smith perform their version of the Parkay-Butter commercial as other French Club members look on.

George Fleming, as Señor Rogers, and Shep McKinley, as Mr. McFeely, educate the niños in the Spanish club skit on Language Day.

"The Foreign Language Department at Country Day is special because of its faculty," enthused chairman Paulette Beatty. Offering three foreign languages, French, Spanish, and Latin, the department sponsors several programs each year, one of which is School Year Abroad. Country Day is one of only 17 schools in the United States chosen to participate in this program. A bi-lingual program which provided special tutoring for international students, the International Pavilion at Big Saturday, and Language Day were also sponsored by the Foreign Language Department. The different language classes also celebrated certain foreign holidays such as Caesar's birthday and the French holiday St. Catherine's Day.

Language instruction at Country Day begins in pre-school with the Lower School French Internship program. As a service project, Upper School students went daily to the Lower School and taught beginning French to the Lower Schoolers. Madame Shumake, who directs the program, stated, "I feel it is a very positive program - students really fill a need in the Lower School."

In the Middle and Upper School French classes, students learned vocabulary and verb tenses, then studied the history of France. Special events included dining at a French restaurant such as Café Eugene, cooking and sharing traditional French foods, doing dialogues in French, and seeing slides and filmstrips.

Students who took Spanish as a foreign language enjoyed dialogues and demonstrations, studying Spanish foods and customs, performing skits in Spanish, and, in the more advanced classes, reading Spanish novels. Plans for the future included a study of the art, history, and literature of Spanish-speaking countries. As senior Graves Upchurch stated, "Los profesores de español a esta escuela me han enseñado a amar y estimar la lengua española. Les agradezco." (The Spanish teachers at this school have taught me to love and appreciate the Spanish Language. I thank them.)

In the Latin classes, students enjoyed "exciting learning, exciting reading, exciting action," according to teacher Louise Cobb. The different classes studied the works of famous Roman authors, the Roman Empire at its height, mythology, geography, Roman heroes, and other topics. "Latin," stated Mrs. Cobb, "helps us to know how to use our own language more correctly."

All three language clubs showed termendous enthusiasm on January 28, Language Day. Spirited students fought hard for their respective languages. After a day of singing, cheering, skits, and a volleyball tournament, the Spanish Club won the event by only two points for the second year in a row. Language Day '83 was dedicated to Gisele Schumake for 25 years of service and contribution to the Foreign Language Department at Country Day.

It All Adds Up

The Math Department at Country Day fully prepares its students for college mathmatics. Many different courses are available including advanced placement courses. The Math department also has many qualified teachers, who are always willing to help their students.

Upper School students are required to have at least three math credits to graduate. These three credits come from Algebra I, Geometry, and Algebra II. After completing these courses, a student may choose to continue taking various math courses. Two courses added this year are, Senior Algebra Trig, and Introduction to Calculus. Both of these courses are reserved for seniors. Along with the addition of Intro to Calculus, Advanced Placement Calculus B.C. has been added as a new course. A.P. Calculus B.C. is the most advanced calculus course available and is taught by Mr. Timson, head of the department. A fourth new course was also added this year, Introduction to Computer. This course is taught by Coach Cook, who also meets twice a week with the Algebra II classes.

Middle School students have also begun to learn the techniques of computer use. Using eight new computers, the seventh and eighth graders meet three days a week with Mr. Burke. Students also have a free period each day to work in the computer room on their own. Middle School students learn basic math and algebra fundamentals to prepare them for higher mathamatics. However, eighth graders who show special talent in math can move on to Algebra I. Along with the usual classes, the seventh graders put on a Math Fair. Students do special projects and display them in the Learning Center. According to Mr. Timson, the fair was very well done this year, as usual.

The Lower School student's curriculum also includes math. They are taught arithmetic, and they are also taught basic computer work by Upper School students.

The Math Department has made several changes this year to improve the program. The department heads, in all the schools, will continue to carefully watch their programs and make changes when necessary. Their main goals are to teach their students as much as possible and prepare them for their next level in mathmatics.

It's Amino World Without Scientists!

The Science department at Country Day was very well equipped with the best scientific instruments and the best teachers! Science courses included certain required, and also advanced placement selections. The Science department is headed by Sallye Richards.

The Upper School students are required to take two years of Science, choosing from biology, chemistry, or physics. All three courses have some amount of lab work. For the student with a love for science, there are advanced placement courses in biology, chemistry, and physics. There are also several research teams. The biology research team did such things as studying the affect of radiation on moss, and the affect of light on the direction which the plant will grow. Another research team studied the problem of why boys are better in math than girls!

The Middle School students start with basic biological and chemical facts, involving some lab work. The Middle School has a Science Fair every year and students work hard to turn in scientific projects as part of their science grade.

The Lower School students start with the understanding of the different parts of the body on the skeleton. They also had some experience with the use of the bioscope, the microscope, and the growing of crystals. With the experiences and fine teachers that Country Day provides, students can't help but love science!

The Science department's research teams, including John Harris, Terri Martin, Kappy Sokevitz, David Gladstone, Jim Grode, Katie Fortune, Robert Tarte, and Muffin Kirk work hard to find the answers to such problems as why boys are better in math than girls!

Country Day's youngest chemists, fourth graders John Sawyer and Grace Chen attend a Chemistry I class once a week to do labs along with the Upper School students.

The Little Chemist, otherwise known as Mark Weir, and his chemistry-loving followers, Steve Windell, Bill Duffy, Scott Meltsner, Jim Black, Shep McKinley and Eric Lerner pose for a picture after a complicated lab of finding Avogadro's Number!

"History is the Tricks We Play On The Dead"

. . . Voltaire

The History teachers at Country Day did more than just lecture their classes and hope the students learned. They took special care in making the learning fun. Mr. Williams, who teaches Upper School history, used a unique technique to teach: he "played" Mike Wallace of 60 Minutes and invited students (who were playing different roles in History) to be interviewed on his "show" in front of two classes. The classes have also had debates and "History Bowls". History bowls are an activity in which all of the Upper School History classes participated. Teams of people answered questions and competed against other teams. "The purpose of these bowls is to provide review and competition," said Mr. Lockhart. Lecturing wasn't all that bad especially when it was a famous "Mr. Kelly lecture." Mr. Kelly's lectures were known for their impact and information. All of these qualities and more make the History Department at Country Day special.

The World According to Art

At any given moment in a Country Day art room, one could hear the scratch of a pen as an ink portrait was sketched, feel the texture of a Lower Schooler's collage or the cool smoothness of a clay pot being molded, smell the paints, glue and turpentine used in Middle and Upper School art projects, and see all forms of art being conceived and produced through the imagination and creativity of the students. While the Fine Arts Department is too often overlooked at Country Day, the arts are an essential ingredient in a well-rounded education. Through such Upper School studio courses as printmaking, clay, drawing, painting, and 2-D and 3-D design and such lecture courses as Civilization, the art teachers strive to motivate all students to their highest creative potential. Hopefully the students will become more aware of art and the role it plays in their lives and world.

The dramatic creativity of Country Day's society manifested itself in the winter plays - the one-act comedies. Directed by Mr. Brad Christie, the plays were some of the most sophisticated, yet some of the most humorous, theatrical endeavors produced by Country Day in a long while. The third play, "Adaptation" (of which there are regrettably no pictures), involved Gamesmaster Shep McKinley leading contestant Jerre Bridges through the games of life. Shep, along with Brook Estes and Laura Bruner, played several different roles in this humorous, intricate journey through one man's existence. Hopefully the Arts will grow to have a more important role in students' lives at school. With theatrical efforts comparable to or greater than this winter's fine plays, increased dramatic and artistic involvement will surely be the result.

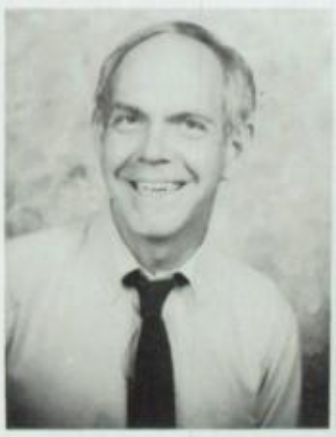

Senior Shep McKinley works on his printmaking project. Printmaking, as did the other art courses, involved much creativity and thought on the part of the student.

Senior Jim Yon uses a ruler to complete his drawing. Jim sold two of his prizewinning works for one hundred dollars apiece.

Lower Schoolers Lauren Allison and Michael Scott draw during their art class. Activities during the art period include painting and drawing and often focused on particular holidays such as Christmas and Valentine's Day. In the Middle School, students followed more advanced pursuits, using their imaginations to invent and create artistic works.

"Impromtu," the first play of the winter's three one-act comedies, involved four people who were asked to come to a theater and create a play until told to stop acting. The act introduced the fine acting abilities of Andy Fortune and Jeanne-Marie Hartman to the Country Day stage, while bringing back the talents of John Fishburne and Katie Barstow. The characters, having no lines or plot to follow, have personality conflicts within and outside of the play they are supposed to be creating. An intricate play, "Impromptu" required the actors and actresses to act to the best of their abilities - a task which all four accomplished successfully.

In the second play, "Doing a Good One for the Red Man," newlywed tourists John Collias and Elizabeth Levergood encounter a proud, self-reliant Indian, portrayed by George Fleming. While the husband plots turning the Indian's pottery stand into a business for himself, the wife listens to the Indian's gruff comments and learns something about the white man's insensitivity towards minorities. A satirical play, "Doing a Good One" provided the audiences with laughs and food for thought.

Through the years, the Dance program has developed into a major facet of the Fine Arts Department. The dedicated dance student had the opportunity to be one of the eleven chosen Dance Ensemble members. The Dance Ensemble, established in 1974, presented concert dance as an art in a theatrical setting. Ms. Koraly said, "The Dance Company provides a performing experience for the more serious dance students." Ms. Koraly also introduced a gym class in dance for interested students which stressed the fundamentals of dance such as rythmn, movement, and body expression. The Dance program offered a variety of choreographic opportunities for students who were dedicated or who showed a desire in this art field.

Fran Sokevitz, Cynthia Farbman, Wanda Culbreth, and Stephanie Billarant perform "Illusion Illumined" which was choreographed by Ms. Koraly

The Music Department at Country Day has become a significant part of the Fine Arts program. In the Lower School, students played recorders, sang, and used rythmn instruments in combination with movement. For the students in grades K-4, Mrs. Shuler said, "the music class is a time when they can express themselves creatively". Students in the Middle School had the opportunity to participate in the Middle School Band or to sing in the Mixed Choir established for each grade level. In the Upper School, students could explore various channels in the musical field such as the Band, the "Pieces of Eight" show choir, the Mixed Choir. Finally, the Girls Choir allowed girls to enjoy the sonorities of an all-girl choir. The Music Department at C.C.D.S. has expanded its program in an effort to allow the students to experience different facets of the art of Music.

The Country Day P.E. department has many different course selections for all athletic interests, and many coaches to assist the students.

The Upper School students are required to take a gym course each term or be a part of an athletic team. Gym students in the fall may participate in such activities as archery, tennis, field hockey or volleyball, taught by Coach Walton and Ms. Mills. Dance class with Mrs. Koraly, weight training with Coach Rego and tennis with Coach Conder are some selections which are also offered in the fall. During winter term, badmitton and conditioning with Ms. Mills are added to the selections. In the spring, students can play softball or take the recreation course, which includes activities such as golf, frisbie, horseshoes and badmitton. All gym classes have intramurals one day a week, which is usually a team sport like basketball.

Middle School students are required to take gym class whether or not they are on an athletic team. Gym classes do not change, because they are the same class periods for everyone all year long. Therefore, the intramural teams are clearly defined and very competitive. The teams play a regular season, and then play in a tournament. The tournament finals are held at the school at night with spectators.

The Lower School students have gym every day. They either play in the recreation room or such games as kickball outside on nice days.

Country Day has worked hard to improve the P.E. department over the years. This improvement has resulted in a well-rounded, organized P.E. program.

The Ruling Class

Advisor Mr. Ed Kelly and Student body President Benjy Sutker headed this year's Student Council; a combination of their creativity and ability to work as a team enabled them to initiate and carry out many successful projects. The council lead the Upper School through the Land of Oz at Homecoming, cleaned up their act at Campus Beautification, kept things running smoothly at a Charlotte Observer Marathon aid station, turned the tables at the first Sadie Hawkins' Dance - complete with a male homecoming king and court, and, of course, fed body and heart with the Snack Bar and Carnation Days.

The Inter Club Council began the 1982-83 school year with three purposes in mind: to promote new clubs, to coordinate and govern club activities, and to keep the clubs active. An assemblage of club presidents, the ICC met weekly in an effort to meet these goals. The council coordinated the formation of two new clubs - the Girls' Athletic club and the History club, and the re-formation of the Drama club. In addition, the ICC produced a handbook which gave a brief summary of the purposes and membership requirements of each club and organization.

Organized in order to enable students to take part in handling Honor Code violations, the Honor Council consisted of 2 seniors, 2 juniors, 1 sophomore, 1 freshman, the Academic Dean, and the Dean of Upper School. The object of the group was to enlighten the faculty with the students point of view. The main goal of the Honor Council was to get the students involved in Honor violations decisions, and also give the student offenders the fairest possible judgement.

"Scholarship, Leadership, Service, and Character . . ."

"The National Honor Society is an honorary service club which recognizes outstanding high school students in the catagories of scholarship, leadership, service and character", stated club president Aven Owen in her initiation speech October 22, 1982. Mr. Christie was voted the honorary speaker at the induction ceremony. He summed up the occasion saying, "We honor you today, you scholars, leaders, servants, characters". Membership totaled thirty-two and was expanded to juniors with cumulative GPA's of 3.5 and seniors with 3.3. Sponsoring families at Christmas, the Honor Society's primary service project, successfully ended with eight families being provided with food, clothing, decorations, toys, and money for utilities. They also sponsored a blood drive held in the spring. Advisors Mrs. Mackenzie and Ms. Gragg observed, "The members showed leadership outside the NHS." The Honor Society members excelled in "scholarship, leadership, service and character" in every possible way.

The Junior National Honor Society, a Middle School division of the National Honor Society, included only eighth graders. Requirements for membership much like those for Upper Schoolers - included leadership, service, character and a minimum academic average. They made most money from the ever popular doughnut sales. The club gave a six hour party for the eighth grade featuring "Airplane", "Cannon Ball Run", "9 to 5", and pizza. Surprisingly to them, they ended making a profit. The Jr. NHS sponsored the first middle school musical in April. Anne Harris led the club as president with Martin Welton as vice president, secretary Caroline Cannon, and treasurer Wade Rogers. Wade Rogers reflected, "The 1982-83 Honor Society was much more active than in previous years by involving the student body in projects".

Service: Lending A Helping Hand

The Aquilifer and Monogram Clubs served as the two oldest active service clubs this year at Country Day. Aquilifer, an honorary organization for girls, was founded in 1960 to encourage qualities of leadership and to exert increased influence of honor within the ranks of students. The club served the school by setting an example of citizenship and academic scholarship and by boosting school spirit. An example of these qualities was exhibited at Halloween when club members led lower school students in a parade through the school, and at Christmas when they led the upper school student body in Christmas carols during an assembly. Their monthly meetings included discussions of service project ideas, the assembling of the student handbook, the organization of a Lower School teachers' aide program. Their biggest accomplishment was collecting 90 pints of blood during a Red Cross blood drive held at C.C.D.S. As Catherine Martin said, "I enjoy doing these projects because I get a feeling of accomplishment, knowing that I'm helping someone." An annual Aquilifer Christmas luncheon is held for all Aquilifer alumnae from three years back, enabling the girls to visit with old friends. This year the girls lunched at Secretary Betsy Down's house. Initiations were held in the Fall and Spring; girls were dressed crazily for three consecutive days, as storybook and cartoon characters. Then, a secret meeting was held at the end of the week where an official initiation into the club took place.

The Monogram Club was designed for those honorary athletes who had lettered in two varsity sports. The Club, which did not exist for a couple of years, was revived in 1981 by Billy Tourtellot and Bo Dickens. Some of the responsibilities of the Club included parking cars at school activities and keeping order at varsity athletic events. Also active in the community, the boys cleaned up a few neighborhood areas. All in all, through Robert Dixon's leadership as President and Mr. Walton's leadership as Advisor, the Monogram Club once again became an active force.

D-Day!

Deadline: (dedlin) 1. A line drawn around a prison, to cross involves for a prisoner the possibility of being instantly shot. 2. Hence, a fixed limit, beyond which a disaster is imminent. 3. Usually the hours at which the printing forms of a newspaper are locked, after which no copy can be inserted; hence, the time set as a limit for completion of any operation.

These are the guidelines by which any member of the Postscript, the Banner, or Golos lives. Putting together any literary masterpiece involves the input and hard work of many dedicated members.

The Postscript staff started working early in the summer, when five members attended the Colonial Journalism Workshop in Williamsburg. There they concentrated on developing an intriguing as well as a personal yearbook. By the middle of September the yearbook staff began "Gestalting" (researching a topic until you find what makes it special) in order to capture the spirit of the 1982-1983 school year.

The Banner staff, as well began work during the summer when they attended the North Carolina Press Association conference in Chapel Hill. There they concentrated on becoming the voice of the students as well as of the faculty. The Banner distributes its paper every two weeks to a month.

Golos is a small group of students who care about literature. They publish their magazine twice a year. Led by editor John David Ramsey, it is the only literary undertaking at C.C.D.S. that publishes the students creative writing and art work. The main goal of Golos is to let them see what the students are doing, and use the magazine as a model for improving themselves creatively as well as culturally.

Dedicated staff members strive to achieve the best possible results on all staffs. Yet, as chaotic as the deadlines may seem, the hard work pays off when the finished product returns.

The Past, Present and Future

Facts from the past, issues of the present and concepts of the future became the focuses on which the two newest Country Day clubs built their foundations. The history club was formed in hopes of generating an appreciation for the past. In addition to rediscovering the days of auld lang syne, members debated such current topics as ERA and nuclear weapons, during their meetings. They also watched and discussed films, such as one on the Roaring '20's and heard guest speakers. The idea for the engineers' club was conceived by Mrs. Mackenzie and Mrs. Caldwell. According to Mrs. Mackenzie, there had been a lot of curiosity as to what different types of engineers actually do. Thus the club was created to satisfy such inquiries as well as to allow students interested in engineering to learn about that field and its career possibilities. Members participated in intra-club contests and entertained speakers, such as one from Duke Power who spoke on nuclear energy. Plans for the club included attendance and participation at state science contests and a trip to the Westinghouse plant. The formation of these two new clubs provided an exciting, interesting combination of an acknowledgement of the past, a recognition of present-day concerns and interests, and an awareness of future careers and, indeed, entire lifestyles.

The Country Day Computer Club was formed to further interest in the computers owned by the school. The members were required to attend a set number of meetings.

The Club studied computer science and related fields as possible job opportunities. Speakers from area businesses such as IBM came to Country Day and discussed their computer related jobs.

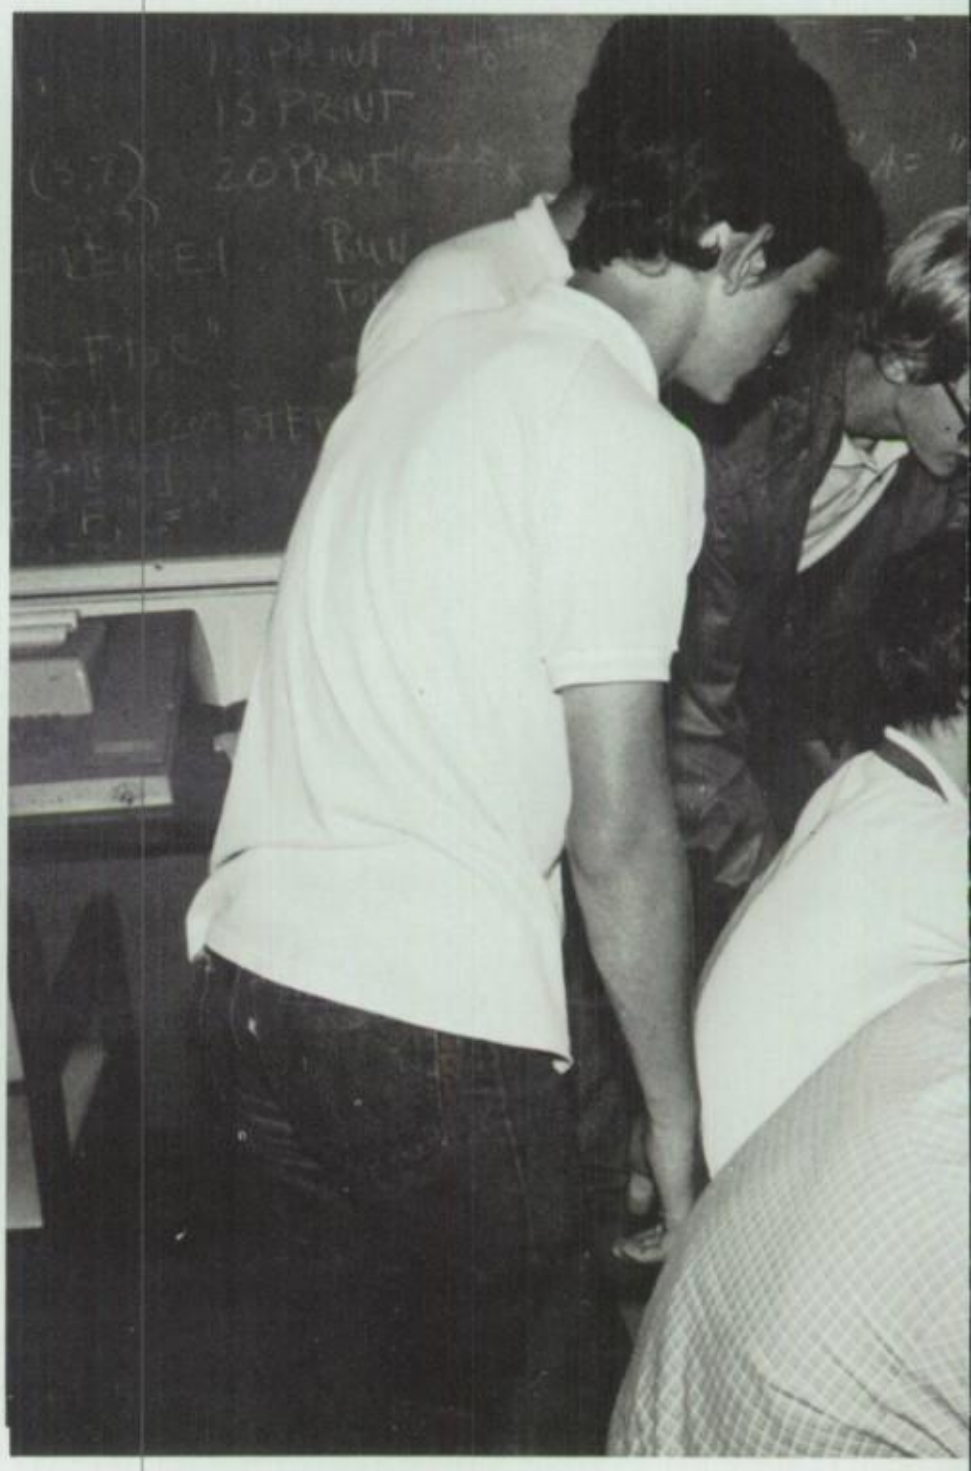

Country Day founded a Math Club last year to further mathematical enthusiasm at the school. Anyone interested could join by paying annual dues of $2.00. Members particiapted in math contests and they sponsored a peer tutoring program.

Toga + Bull + Napoleon=

How did one get admitted to a language club? It usually involved a 3.5 GPA in a level II class of Latin, French or Spanish or enrollment in level III of a language. Or maybe a specific interest in the culture of the language, too. The final qualification included surviving initiations - Latin members dressed in togas, French candidates as Napoleon and Josephine Bonaparte and Spanish people as bulls.

The purpose of the Latin Club was to carry on the torch of the classics, including togas, into the modern world. With twenty-five members, the club held several doughnut sales to raise money for the Crisis Assistance Ministry at Christmas and take trips to places such as Davidson to view books written in Latin. The most active of all Language clubs, the Latin Club carried on its fine tradition and reputation in true Roman Style!

Napoleon Bonaparte ruled, with his wife Josephine, in the early 1800's in France. The French Club officers felt dressing candidates as Napoleon or his wife would be a good way to remember important figures in French history. The French Club also raised most of its money from doughnut and bake sales with which they took field trips and did service projects.

Dressing as bulls brought back part of the history from the medieval Spanish period. The Spanish Club held bake sales and raffles. They also set up a tutoring program for Spanish I and II students. The year ended with with a banquet of Mexican and Spanish food.

Since the majority of the Upper School took Latin, French or Spanish, our language clubs appealed to many students. As a result, numerous toga clad people, Napoleon impersonaters and human bulls roamed the campus during the year.

The Drama and Band Clubs served as two of C.D.'s Fine Arts major activities. They both spent their time trying to further themselves in their separate fields.

The Concert/Stage Band combined with the Pep Band to present a Christmas concert. The inspiring Spring concert of '83, however, was performed by the Concert/Stage Band only. Songs from such popular American musicals as "West Side Story", "The Sound of Music," "South Pacific", as well as some Billy Joel and Chicago hits were played. In addition to these two concerts, the Concert/Stage Band performed downtown for the kick-off of the World 600 and for Providence Day School.

The Pep Band did a wonderful job playing at all home football games. but were unable to play during basketball season.

Under the leadership of senior Toby Pardue and advisor Rob Williams, the C.C.D.S. Drama Club was re-established. The purpose of this club included furthering an interest in drama with the goal of putting on a production directed by the students. The club had several workshops, one of which featured a professional make-up artist from The Children's Theater who came and demonstrated make-up skills. Members in this club qualify by being involved in one play and then are invited to join. This club got off to a good start again this year.

For the energetic, sports-oriented members of the Country Day community, two organizations - the Girls Athletic club and the Ski and Outdoors club - were specifically offered. "Although not listed in the clubs' manual as an organization, we are a club, and to prove it, for the first time we have a president, secretary and treasurer," commented Ski and Outdoors club advisor Mr. Gil Webb. To date, this year's club has traveled many miles in the form of two trips. For the first one fifteen members went to Crowder's Mountain; "We hiked about six miles and ate lunch at the top," added Mr. Webb, who even brought his dog along. On the second outing, the club travelled to Snowshoe - a luxurious ski resort in the West Virginia mountains. "The first day's conditions weren't as good as we expected, but we made do and had a really good time. The second day's conditions were top-notch, and it was awesome!" exclaimed President Margie Bryant. Mr. Webb agreed, "Although we were disappointed in our accommodations, the skiing was excellent. We have many able skiers and learners that are coming along." The club also planned another skiing trip - this time to Sugar Mountain - in February, a second hiking journey and a rafting expedition in the spring. Margie concluded. "This year we are more organized, and this organization has enabled us to have more trips - which means more fun!"

Established this year by several senior girls, the Girls' Athletic club offered membership to girls who had received two varsity letters. The club planned to help at concessions' stands at games and to promote girls' sports. Liza Riggins summed up the feeling; "Finally the girls have a club geared specfically to promoting girls' athletics at Country Day. We've needed a club like this for a long time!"

For the first time ever, the Ski and Outdoors club had officers. Secretary Alison Ballentyne, Vice President Scott Gerlach, President Margie Bryant, Treasurer Wendy Hart.

The Middle School Student Council is divided into two groups consisting of the fifth and sixth grade and the seventh and eighth grade Councils. The groups are separated to achieve different goals.

The seventh and eighth grade Council aimed to raise money for dances and participate more actively in school and public services. A major undertaking this year has been the re-evaluation of the student handbook. The students felt that by working with the faculty a more acceptable set of rules could be obtained. Student Council president Mark Hammrick summed up this year's experience by stating, "This year has been different than any other in that everyone in the seventh and eighth grades are included, bringing the two grades closer.

The fifth and sixth grades set their goal to raise two hundred dollars which they donated to the Humane Society. They obtained this money by having bake sales and donut sales. Just for fun, the Council sponsored a Halloween door decorating contest in which the fifth and sixth grade representatives judged the doors of their classrooms. The winning class received Hershey bars. For Valentine's Day they sponsored a contest where the best decorated classrooms with the most spirited students won candy hearts.

The teachers borrowed uniforms and cheered the faculty, to defeat, during the Student-Faculty basketball game.

"Give For The Sake Of Giving, Not For The Sake Of Reward"

- David S. Ball

Upper School and Middle School students had the opportunity to help the school this year. They did so in many different ways. Some of them tutored their peers and Lower Schoolers. The librarian Mrs. Wilson, the teachers, and the Administration always had papers on hand for the students to file. However, when they weren't needed for the above they performed other tasks such as taking up the attendance, posting messages in the Message Center, and running off papers. Mr. Lockhart, in the Admissions Office, had some students give tours to prospective students and their parents. They also took prospective Lower School students to be interviewed by a teacher in the Lower School. Although all of the previous services included responsibility, the one which had the most responsibility involved was proctoring study halls in room T or classes taking a test. The Seniors were the only students allowed to perform this service.

Since the students helped out they enabled the teachers to spend their time more productively. Mr. Ball said, "Now I can spend more time with the sudents." The students did not give their time to receive a reward or special recognition. They served Country Day because they enjoyed helping out.

Coach Walton's invaluable assistant coach, Buddy Rego, watches from the bench along side Art Watson.

There was a sign inside the varsity baseball locker room that read as follows: "A team is a combination of mutually respected athletes who prepare diligently, give credit to teammates sincerely and unselfishly and remain unaffected by personal achievements gained while seeking a common goal." Coach Walton posted that sign when he first came to Country Day. It was designed to be a motto for his team to follow, a necessity for success.

Last year's team was unquestionably a success. After beating Forsyth Country Day 4-1, the BUCS wrapped up their fourth N.C.I.S.A.A. championship in the last five years and finished the season with a 27-5 record.

After winning the conference championship, the BUCS traveled to Wingate College to play Southview for the district championship. CD played their usual inspired baseball and emerged victorious by a score of 16-2.

Then it was on to Durham for the state championship tournament. The BUCS played Nicholas Academy in a single-elimination game. Mike Cofer pitched superbly as CD won 12-2.

Next, the BUCS played Forsyth Country Day in a doubleheader. This doubleheader was the first two games of the best two out of three series that would decide the state champion. Forsyth won the first game 7-3 in extra innings. The second game was different, however. CCDS destroyed Forsyth 25-2 and carried the series into a third and final game for the championship, which they won 4-1.

What made the team great? They were great because they were, indeed, a team, not a collection of individuals that wore the same uniforms. They worked as a single unit. Every player did his part to contribute to the team's success. There was no clear-cut superstar or undisputed leader. This is not to say that every team member had an equal amount of talent, but every player put forth one-hundred percent effort. Some players saw little playing time, but they did whatever they could in practice or on the bench to help the team, and they never complained about not playing enough.

Every player took his turn at being a leader. Most of the time the players were shouting encouragement. It was this kind of effort that made this team a success.

Coaching his team to a 27-5 record, Ed Walton captured his fourth state championship in five years.

Phil Lane raises his hands in jubilation as Country Day beats Forsyth, 4-1 in the state tournament.

Playing the Field . . .

The 1982 Varsity Softball Team got off to a disappointing start by losing the first three games to conference teams. However, they bounced back by winning three out of the next four games, which included wins over the conference teams that previously had beaten them. They finished the year with a 7-9 overall record. At the regular season's end, they held a 5-4 conference record and advanced to the District Tournament. Here, the "Lady Bucs" started off well, winning the first two games by defeating Charlotte Latin and Providence Day in the first round. In the second round, however, they suffered two consecutive losses to Providence Day which consequently brought an end to the season. Three players were named to the All-Tournament Team: seniors Mary Beth Brennan and Jennifer Smith and junior Elizabeth Rivers.

The 1983 team is looking forward to a promising season with nine returning players. These include: seniors Margaret White, Alison Ballentyne, Elizabeth Rivers, Lisa Tarner, Sheri Weinstein, Liza Higgins, and Heather McKee (who was unable to play in the 1982 season because of an injured knee), and juniors Julie Brittain and Caroline Wilcox.

Three of the team's eight seniors, Lisa Johns, Laura Kinney, and Debbie Lentz, pose for a picture while a teammate is at bat. Other seniors were: Mary Beth Brennan, Jennifer Smith, Jennifer Gallagher, Tracy O'Leary, and Shelly Boulware.

Elizabeth Rivers successfully made the transition from catcher to third baseman during the '82 season, and capped off the season with an all-tournament selection.

Pitcher Shelly Boulware finishes out the batting order with a successful hit for a single in the District Tournament win over Providence Day.

Born

With steady improvement the Boy's Varsity Track Team hurdled many obstacles on their way to a respectable finish in the CISAA tournament. They placed third, coming in behind Charlotte Latin and the champion Northside. The end of the season showed superlative individual performances as five team members broke records. Willie Rea broke the school record, while capturing the conference medal, in the triple jump with a distance of 39'11". Later, in the state meet Willie broke his own triple jump record. Taking second place, Captain Phil Dee shattered both the metric and yard record in the 1600m, in 4:40, while in the triple jump he also broke the school's record. Because of the teamwork of Phil Dee, Greg Gurski, Eric Bruton and Willie Rea, they raced ahead to break another record, this time in the 1600m relay. Robert Brand, undefeated in the 100m and 200m, proved to be the meet's most valuable runner. Meanwhile Jim Grode, with an awesome final 800 meters won the 3200m in 10:29.9, breaking a metric record. Scott Gerlach went on to break both a school and metric record in the 110 high hurdles. "Coach Atherton," said team captain Phil Dee, "was an impressive new coach who did a very good job in developing the team as the season went on. He not only helped this year's team but prepared a great team for next year." Finishing 8th in the state, the Varsity Boys' Track Team proved that they were "born to run".

Varsity Girls RUN AWAY with the Conference

The Varsity girls 1982 track season was one characterized by victory and broken records. With a record of 6-1, 6-0 in conference, the Country Day girls were the force to be dealt with in Charlotte-Mecklenburg independent schools. Major contributors to this force were top point totalists Mary Brand, Julie Hoffman, Terri Martin, and Julie Carder. But they were not the only contributors as twenty other team members scored in at least one meet. Highlights of the 1982 season were the record breaking attempts of Catherine Jordan, Melinda Johnston, and the 400m relay team (Catharine Miller, Mary Brand, Julie Carder, and Kathryn Shannonhouse). This banner season was capped off with an impressive showing and third place in the state tournament at Wake Forest University.

The following were the members of the girls 1982 track team: Top row, left to right: Sonia Little, Katie White, Jennifer Doyle, Julie Hoffman, Terri Martin, Lynn Tarte, Amy Williams, Karen Underwood, Mary Brand, Wanda Culbreth, Julie Carder, Coach Robinson. Bottom row: Mary White, Sara Smith, Laura Sippe, Muffin Kirk, Katie Fortune, Ruth Pipkin, Catherine Martin, Julie Miller, Monica Randolph, Barbara Hoecklin, Melanie Cowles. While crowds flocked to watch the Varsity Baseball and Softball teams, the Varsity Golf team played its matches in relative solitude. Yet, even without cheering fans and waving banners, the team finished an outstanding second in the 1982 State Tournament held at Raleigh's North Ridge Country Club. Seniors David Dooley and Rand Ellington led the Bucs to a 639 two-day total. Individual scores were: David Dooley, 154; Rand Ellington, 158; Rick Stubblefield, 164; Jim Black, 165; David Kinsey, 171; and Michael Hill, 172. In addition to placing second in the state, the team was the CISAA and the District IV champions. Finishing with an overall record of 18-5, the Varsity Golf team truly enjoyed a remarkable season. Although the 1983 team will miss experienced leaders such as All-Conference and All-State players Dooley and Ellington, much strength remains in the clubs of Jim Black, Michael Hill and their eight teammates.

Tennis Aces Smash Their Way to Second in the State

The Varsity Boys Tennis team finished its regular season with an 8-7 record. The record, however was misleading - when one considered the competition the team faced: they played the number one and two teams (South and Chapel Hill) in North Carolina's 4A, the South Carolina State Champions (Christ Church), and Latin (twice) - number one in the NCISAA. After placing second in the Conference, the team traveled to Asheville, along with Latin, for the district tournament. Both Charlotte teams dominated the six-team tournament. With the nearest opponent thirteen points back Country Day reached the finals in eight of the nine positions. Despite this strong showing, the team still finished a respectable second place, while qualifying to play in the state tournament. Country Day finished second in the state tournament - the best ever for Country Day tennis. Team captain Dain Dulaney and Mark Osborn were state finalists in doubles; Dain was also voted the team's most valuable player. In addition, Gordon Watt was elected to the All-State first team.

Boys Well

Country Day's Junior Varsity boys' team had a very good spring season in 1982. Carl Bolick's J.V. Baseball team held a 10-1 record, losing only to Christian's Varsity team. The team's batting average was .385. The entire team contributed to a very good season.

Brad Christie coached the J.V. Tennis team. They had, as Mr. Christie remarked, "another exceptional season." The team lost only three matches all season. Mr. Christie also predicted "another season of excellent tennis for this team next year."

The J.V. Track team, coached by Richard Terry, ran a 2-2 season. They finished a disappointing fifth in the conference meet but the team was made up mainly of eighth graders and they ran against ninth and tenth graders. Mr. Terry stated that the team had "excellent potential" and would "contribute significantly to Varsity in years to come." Scores for the J.V. Track team were not available for publication.

Bob Plyler coached the J.V. Golf team. Country Day played three matches and won all of them. Mr. Plyler said that he "enjoyed the team" and he "expects that some of the boys will go on to contribute to their Varsity team." The J.V. Golf team picture was not available for printing.

The J.V. Girls Softball Team ended their season with 3 straight victories, giving them the record: 5-4. Determination and patience were major characteristics of the team. Most important though is the fact that they went out and had a good time. Melissa Gibson made the comment:

"The coaches were great and we had fun."

. . . And Natalie Whisenant said,

"We had a gay ole time!"

Sally Sharpe looks up in surprise from her hard work.

STATE

Homecoming week was topped off with a crushing CD victory over arch rival Charlotte Latin, 28-7. Senior captain Phil Lane rushed for nearly 100 yards, nearing his record breaking conference high of 1003 total yards.

Coach Walton has always said, "It's tougher the second time," but that just didn't seem to describe this season. After an opening defeat, the Buc's stormed through ten consecutive wins, outscoring their opponents 281-68.

October 9, 1982, proved to be a highlight of the regular season. Under the lights of a packed Myers Park stadium, Country Day embarrassed third ranked Catholic 27-20. Phil Lane's impressive performance earned him honors as Channel 9's "Gridiron Great" of the week.

State playoffs challenged the Bucs next. A psyched Providence Day squad, ready to avenge a season 40-20 loss, could only muster seven points. A last second field goal by David Dixon sent the Bucs to the State Championship with a 10-7 victory.

Weeks of preparation went into the Ravenscroft-Country Day confrontation. Having lost 15-14 to the Ravens in 1980, the Bucs had anxiously been waiting two years for revenge. The weeks of films, planning, scheming, and practices paid off. The Bucs held the star Raleigh tailback, who had gained 1600 yards, that season, to a measly 5 yards. Senio Steve Tomanchek added, "We blew the off the line!" When asked about th game, Junior Steven Vaughn said, " sure looked impressive from th sidelines!" Country Day had the revenge, a crushing 49-0 victory.

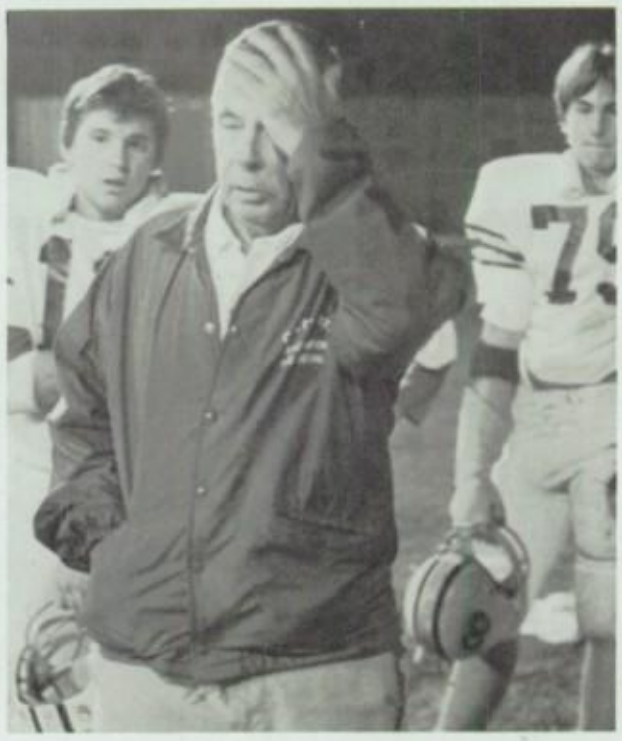

When asked to compare this team t others, Coach Cook replied, "I don compare teams!" Could the '64 Packer have defeated the '82 Packers? Nobod knows, but this was one of the best! Coach Rego felt two things stuck out i his mind, "The Seniors first, and th line." Commenting on the Senior squa that held 17 of 22 starting position Rego said, "Most of the Seniors hav been playing together since thei sophomore year. They're a real grou there's not a bit of animosity betwee them. That's rare." Of the line, "the were known as the 'Great Wall of China need I say more?" Sophomore Bobb Boulware added, "They really helped th rookies a lot, a whole lot."

A 'team' in every sense of the wor captured the 1982 NCISAA Stat Football Championship.

Bucs Reach State Semi-Finals

Almost, But Not Quite!

1982 was a precedent setting year for the varsity soccer team. With a record of 14-4, this year's team surpassed all the former records. In advancing to the state semi-finals the team achieved a degree of excellence which, hopefully, other CCDS soccer teams will continue. But this year's success was not just exhibited through the record but also through team unity. The relationships between team members were something special that provided a team spirit which enabled the team to go as far as it did.

When the season began, no one thought Country Day would have a very good team - eight previous starters had graduated. But as in years past, hard work, hustle, and teamwork combined to produce a most effective squad. With the scoring ability of Bill Duffy, Joe Roddey, and Stephen Heeseman; the defense of Allan Stark, Eric Bruton, Willie Rea, Paul Georges, and goalies Steve Windell and Bruce Walker, the team outscored their opponents 44-14 and recorded 12 shutouts in 18 games. Every team member played a vital role in making this special year happen.

Banquets are not only informative, they are also fun. Randy Stuckey, Art Watson, and Mark Weir find time to "horse-around".

Co-captain Willie Rea receives the most valuable player award at the 1982 soccer banquet. Willie was also named to the All-conference team and was chosen the most valuable player in the conference tournament.

Who Wants To Be Average?

At the beginning of every trip, the sign was taped on the inside front of the minibus, prominently placed next to the No Smoking sign, where it couldn't be missed. Coach Pignetti's "thought for every day" read, "To be average is to be lowest of the good and best of the bad. Who wants to be average?" The 1982 Varsity Volleyball team didn't want to be average and they weren't. They became the conference and district champions and ranked third in North Carolina. Co-captains Jessie Tomlinson and Eli Rivers placed on the All-Conference team. Melissa Gibson, a freshman, played in almost every game. Julie Brittian, acting as the court "quarterback", set excellently and Ellen Ranson served ten consecutive points at one Providence Day game. Liza Higgins acted as the backbone of the team - always being there to set, serve, and spike. Sheri Weinstein, the official team cheerleader, earned the most improved award as her setting, bumping and especially serving, advanced. Sophomores Kathryn Anderson, Margaret Park, and Maria Vazquez put in much court action and look promising for the 1983 season. Lettering were Kathryn Anderson, Julie Brittian, Melissa Gibson, Liza Higgins, Ellen Ranson, Eli Rivers, and Jessie Tomlinson. Ellen Ranson received the coach's award for her enthusiasm, spirit, and drive. Allison Kratt and Jeanne Hartman filled water bottles, supplied hair clips, held doors, etc. as manager and scorekeeper. Coach Pignetti and Assistant Coach McKee developed a team that went beyond the word "average".

Flick 'Em In

Even if sports fans did not crowd into a stadium to watch the Varsity field hockey team play, the team still won in a way that would make Howard Cossell proud. Led by co-captains Margaret White and Cackie Dowd, the 1982 hockey team ended their season with a 9-2 record.

Two weeks before summer vacation ended, twenty-two weary girls showed up at the hockey field to begin practice. They were met by an energetic hockey mastermind, Ms. Inglis, who would whip her team into shape before the first game.

After only a few practices, it was evident that this team was stocked full of talent. Many of the players had attended hockey camp last summer at the Hollins Olympic Development Camp. At the end of the session, Junior Mary Brand, was offered a free scholarship to the next level.

Dressed out in mouth guards and shin pads the hockey team remained undefeated until they challenged Christ Church. The game went into two seven minute overtimes and five of the girls shot penalty shots. Eventually the Bucs lost 5-6. Now sweet revenge was the goal of the players, and when Christ Church returned, they were crushed 3-0!

Taking a "deserved" water break, senior Ansley Bost enjoys a cool cup of ice water before she returns to the game.

Best Season Ever

The Varsity Girls' tennis team posted their best season ever. They recorded a 12-4 record and finished third in the state. The season began with an impressive win over defending 4A State Champions, South Mecklenburg. The team later capped off their season with a seemingly easy win over the 1982 State Tournament finalists, Catholic.

The Girls' four losses came from three excellent teams. They first lost a very close match to Greensboro Day, in Greensboro. Greensboro Day later went on to the finals of the State Championship. Country Day's next loss came from the Virginia State Champs, Trinity Episcopal. The only other team to beat Country Day was Charlotte Latin, who went on to win the State Championship.

The team's consistent play throughout the year resulted from four returning starters; Kristi Hamel, Debbie Hamel, Sara Windell, and Isabel Hamilton. Kristi led the team at the number one position. She was runner-up in the State Tournament and the team's MVP. Debbie, Sara, and Isabel all played very strongly at their respective positions, and all were State Tournament semi-finalists.

The other two starting positions came from Freshman Janie Berryhill and Junior Andi Hartman. Both were semi-finalists in the State Tournament and added great depth to the team. Coach Conder expects another very successful season next year in view of the fact that he is only losing one starter.

Sara Windell and Isabel Hamilton have been on the Varsity tennis team for three years and plan to work hard to do better in the future.

Joey Conder has been the coach of the Varsity Girls' tennis team for two years. He was very pleased with this year's team and hopes that next year's team will do even better.

Prepare To Win!

The Cross Country team was prepared to win this year with a starting line up including senior Phil Dee, captain and top boys' runner on the team, senior Jim Grode, senior Brook Estes, junior Dean Brown, senior captain Scott Gerlach and junior Robert Tarte. The top runner in the girls' team was sophomore Melinda Johnston. The rest of the team included seniors Steve Nathanson, Mark Miralia, captain of the girls' team, Katie Fortune and Margie Bryant, juniors Jerry Bridges, Eric Bach, Laura Sippe, Laura Bruner, Kris Heid, Kappy Sokevitz and Wendy Hart. The JV team includes Mark Evangelist, David Kratt, Charles Jost and Ken Wilke. Every member of the team practiced hard to improve their race times with the help and encouragement of Coach Burke and manager Alison Ballentyne. Most of them improved and deserve to be recognized for it!

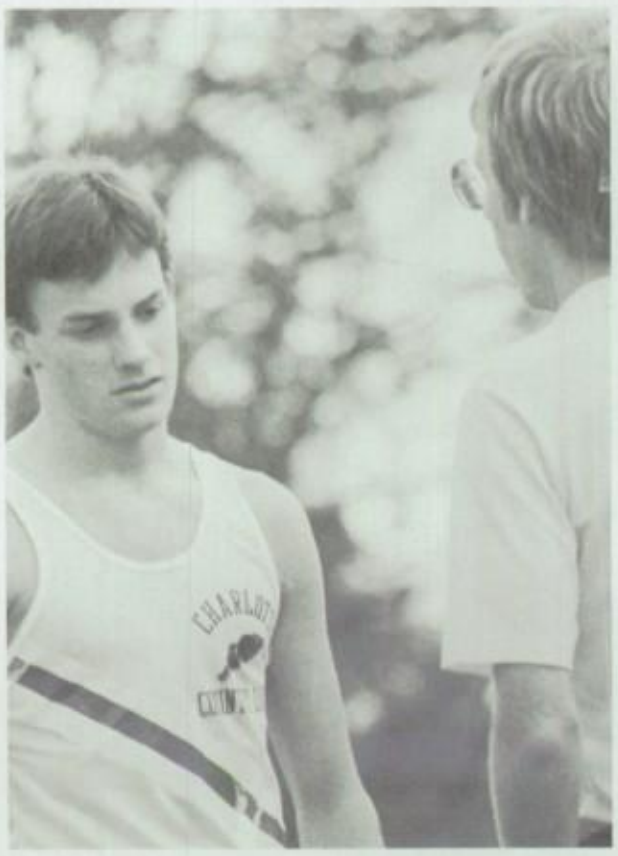

Of the six regular three mile races the Cross Country team ran, they beat Providence Day and Latin, which they worked hard to achieve. Country Day was runner up in the conference meet. They came in eighth place in the State meet due to an unfortunate injury to Phil Dee.

This year the Cross Country teams in our conference tried something different. The teams met at McAlpine Park and had a relay meet. Each team split up into separate teams of three and each team member ran a mile of the course and passed the baton. Country Day did well and the relay meets will most likely be continued in the future.

Although the Cross Country team will lose eight seniors, next year's team will still have many promising runners who everyone is betting on to win the conference and State meets!

J. V. and Jr. High Boys Show Strength

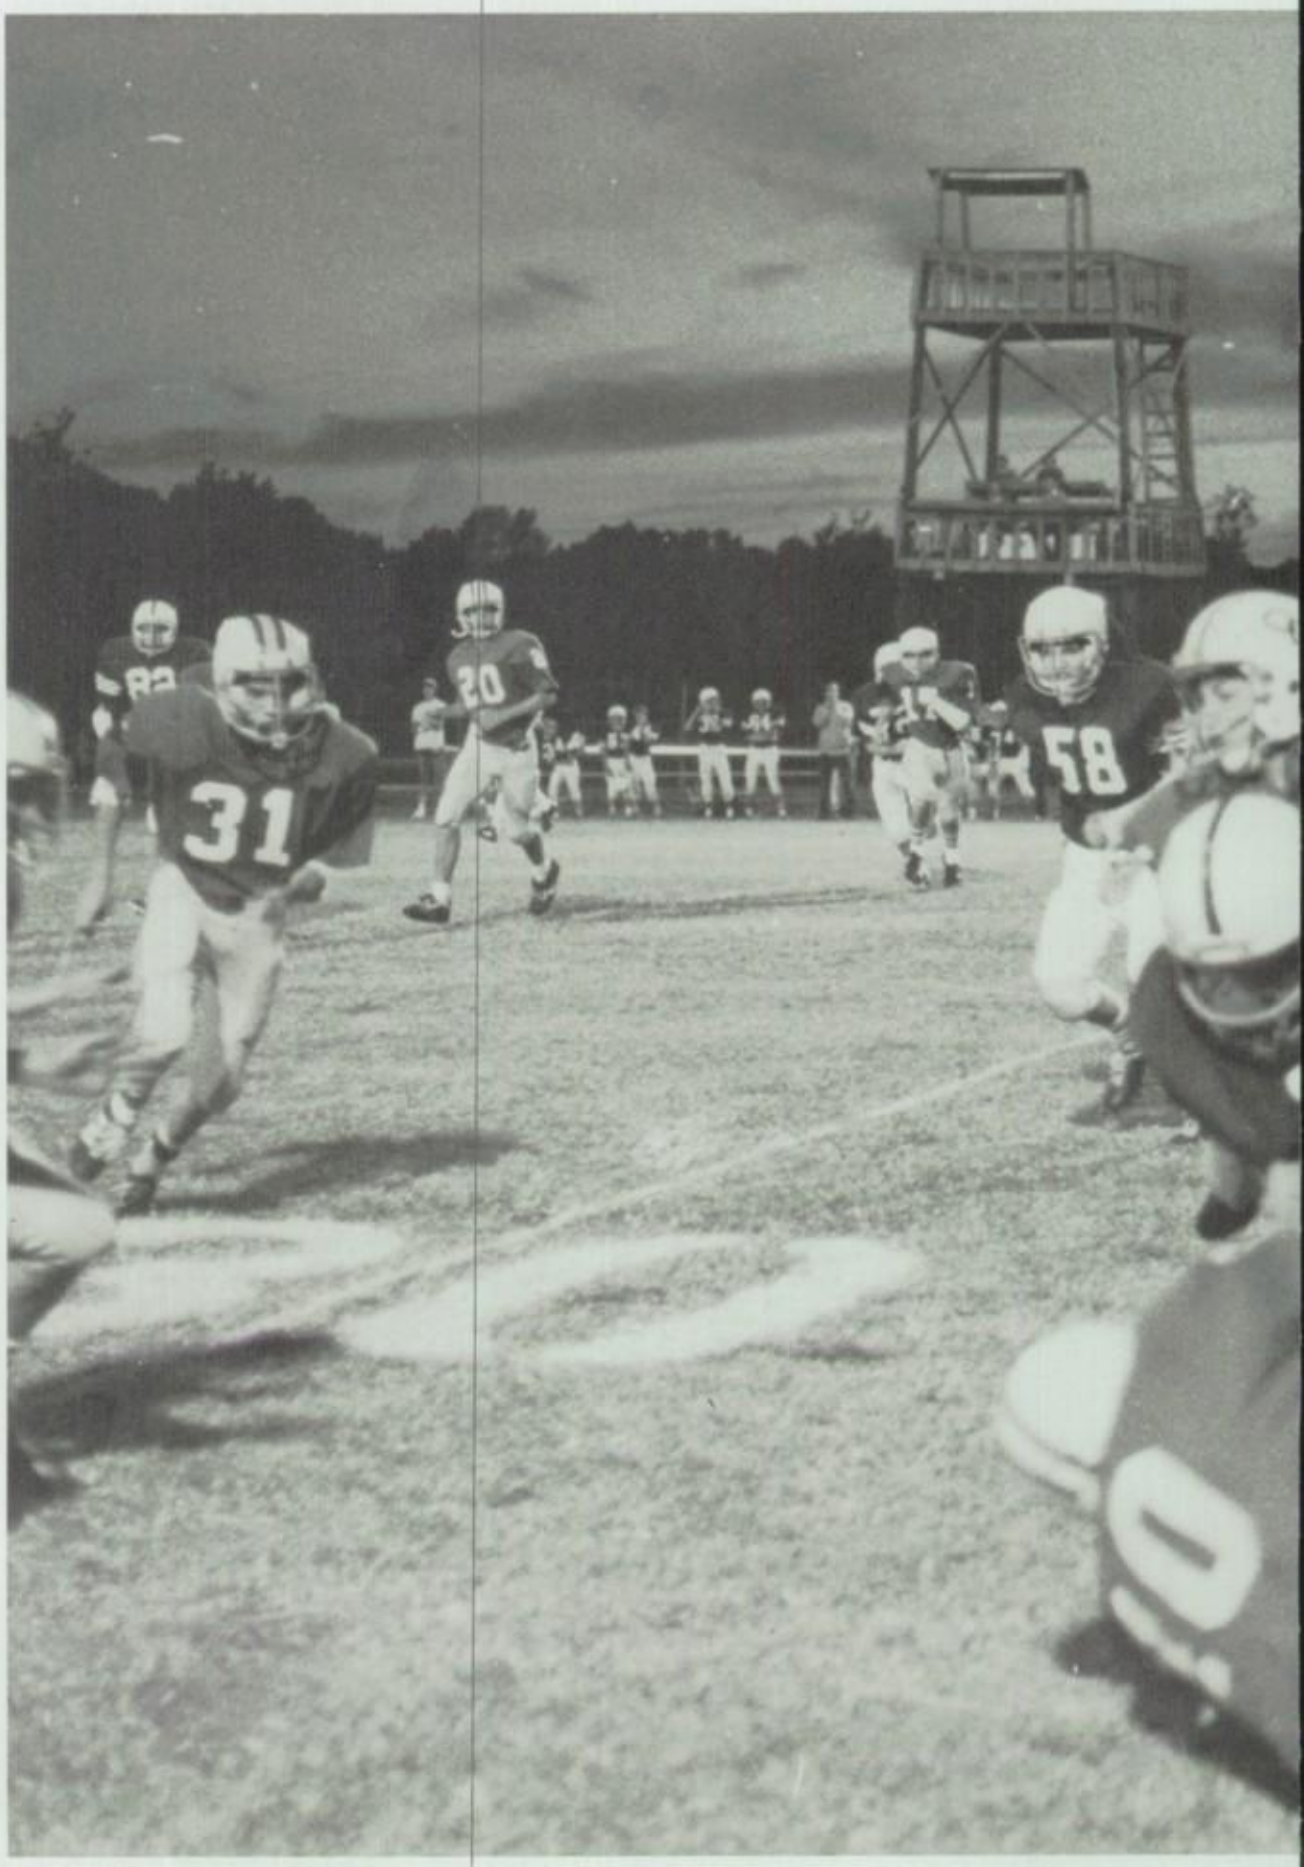

The J. V. and Jr. High Boys teams compiled an awesome record between them this past Fall. The J. V. Football team and both soccer teams posted only three losses the entire season.

The J. V. Soccer team improved their fine record from last year to an impressive 8-1-1 season. Harvey Grasty, a sophomore Captain, pointed out the unity and team effort on the squad: "We had an overall balance." The rising sophomores have proved that they will greatly enhance the Varsity squad. They left behind them two consecutive conference championships.

The Freshman-dominated J. V. Football team compiled a nearly flawless record, with their only loss to Providence Day by a mere three points. Coaches Stack and Daly rigorously prepared their squad for the Varsity level but player anticipation remains. Freshman Taylor Welton said, "It's gonna be hard as heck to move up. It'll be tough to improve on their record." If their 5-1-1 record is any indication of their ability, they will have no problem at the Varsity level.

On the Middle School campus, Coach Doherty and the Jr. High Soccer squad completed a most successful season. The defense for the Bucs produced a stingy wall that few opponents could penetrate. They, together with a striking offense, ended the season 4-1-3.

The rising J. V. players have proven that they will definitely strengthen the Varsity squads.

JV Girls Excel In Fall Sports

The JV Field Hockey team had an exciting season which began with early wins over Charlotte Latin School, Carlisle School of Martinsville, Va., and Hale Academy of Raleigh at a Playday on September 10. The team was close, talented, determined, and humorous. Thus, the team had a successful and fun season.

Charlotte Latin School beat the team twice. Yet, it was the only team to score against CD this season. Country Day scored a high total of 20 goals compared to the three goals which were scored against them. Heather Duncan was the high scorer with 6 goals, and Natalie Whisenant followed closely with 5 goals.

The defense was aggressive, so goalies Libba Shannonhouse and Anna Dulaney were often annoyed. Libba once said "Why do ya'll need me back here? I never get the ball." However, she proved her worth many times and was a great asset to the team.

The team owes many thanks to Alice Dixon who gave up her free time to help coach, and Coach "Buddah-mamma" Shaw. Without their guidance and support, the JV Field Hockey team could not have done so well.

The Girls JV Tennis team was led this year by eighth grader Carson Lindsay who held the #1 position and sixth grader Jean Roddey who held the #2 position. The two losses came from Latin. However, this year's team did better than ever before against them.

In the Latin Invitational Tournament Ellen Bush made it to the semi-finals in the lower bracket and Carson Lindsay won the upper bracket.

Country Day's JV Volleyball team was in the #1 position in the conference this year with their only loss going to Gaston Day School. This high record was due to impressive serving, hitting, setting, and net play.

Special thanks go to the #1 supporter and manager of the team Becky Helms, and linesman Leigh McCullough. Coach Mills who led the team of bubble gum chewers, dancers, and energetic players to a victorious season deserves thanks too.

Buzzy's Boys Were Back — This Time to Take It All

The Boys' Varsity Basketball team had a tremendous season this year finishing the regular season with a 22-3 record. Some of the season's highlights were the 58-53 win over West Meck, the two trouncings of Latin, and the overtime victory at Providence Day. The main highlight of the season was, however, the defeat of Providence Day in the finals of the Conference Tournament to become Conference Champs. By winning the conference, the boys were able to advance to the State Tournament in Raleigh.

One of the reasons for the team's success this year was the fantastic coaching of Bob Plyler. Although this was only Coach Plyler's second year as Varsity coach, he has proven himself a noteworthy coach by carrying his winning tradition and sound coaching techniques to the varsity level. Last year, Coach Plyler saw all the young talent his team possessed. Through the hard work of the team and his coaching, he was able to develop that talent into the best team Country Day has ever had.

Another reason for the success of this year's team was the eight seniors. Captains Robert Dixon, Gordon Watt, and Ernie Mason along with Wynn Davis were four of the team's starters. The fifth starter was sophomore Bill Broadway. Even though seniors Alex Mackenzie, Mark Osborn, Steve Tomanchek, and Flynn Harris did not start, they shared in the role as team leaders. They also added to the great depth of this year's team.

Even though the team is losing eight seniors, the Bucs are expected to be very competitive next year. Bill Broadway and David Dixon, one of the squad's best reserves, are expected to anchor next year's team. The returning varsity players along with a fresh crop of rising junior varsity players added to the coaching of Bob Plyler will surely equal success.

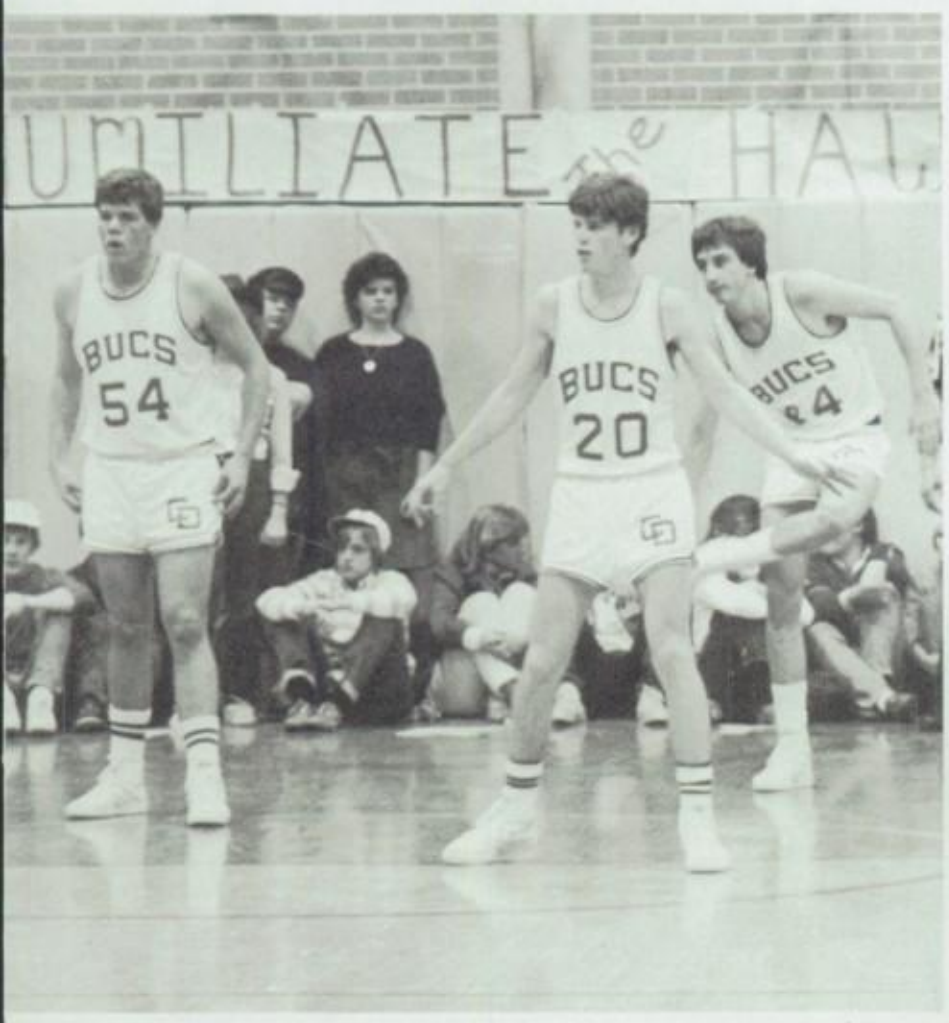

Ernie Mason, high in the air for a jump shot, is the only Country Day basketball player since 1978 to be selected to the All-County team.

Gordon Watt slips past a Providence Day player for a soft jumper.

Bill Broadway skys high above a Providence Day player for an easy jump shot.

Robert Dixon, second team All-Conference, Gordon Watt and Ernie Mason, each first team All-Conference, lead the team as captains.

Frosch's Girls Can Jam!

Coach Madeline Frosch couldn't have asked for a better season! The Varsity Girls Basketball Team was a powerhouse of six Seniors, two Juniors, and five Sophomores. All of the players worked hard and improved greatly during the season, so Coach Frosch was able to play everyone in most games.

"We're good, we're bad, and we're awesome!" said Coach Frosch when asked her feelings about her team. This quote seems very indicative of the team's performance. The girls blew out Providence Day twice, and beat Latin at Home. Their conference record was good enough to earn them the number one seed in the Conference Tournament.

After defeating Northside, the girls advanced to the finals against Latin and received the runner up trophy.

A second and victorious confrontation with Latin earned CD an exciting opportunity to play in the state tournament in Raleigh.

Although Coach Frosch will be losing six Seniors, she can expect two returning starters, Mary Brand and Julie Carder. Returning players Sara Windell, Isabel Hamilton, Nancy Hanes, Katherine Anderson and Katherine Davis will keep the team strong next year.

Coach Madeline Frosch calls a time out during the Bishop McGuiness game to give the team some tips to help them blow out their opponents!

Much to Latin's dismay, Heather McKee got up there for the jump ball before her rival. The Bucs were victorious in a well-played 51-44 game!

After a 48-40 victory against Bishop McGuiness, Sara Windell and Nancy Hanes were ready to celebrate and go on to the Conference Tournament!

Guarding her Latin opponent, Laura Ballentyne, Terri Martin prepares to make a rebound.

Another two for Heather McKee: Heather was one of the top scorers on the team, and hit over one thousand points this year for her career at Country Day.

STATE CHAMPIONS!

One More Time — Bucs Win Third Straight State Championship!

Hayes Harris tries to add another takedown to his credit. Hayes finished the year with 26 takedowns in 14 dual meets.

The Varsity Wrestling team had its best year ever with a 12-2 dual meet record and a first place victory in the Independent Schools' Tournament for the third year in a row. The team recorded wins over 4A schools such as Garinger and West Charlotte while also beating Charlotte Catholic, South Stanley, and Albermarle. Providence Day proved to be the biggest competition in the private school league; however, the Bucs prevailed with 31-24 and 34-32 victories.

Eddie Levins finished the year with a 24-0 record. He won the Northwest Cabarrus Tournament, Albermarle Invitational, East Rowan Invitational, and the Country Day Invitational tournaments. He was also elected co-captain for this year's team.

John Hosmer also had an outstanding season going undefeated in dual meets and 22-4 overall. He was also co-captain of the team and won the Country Day Tournament for the second year in a row. John was elected to represent the 138 lb. weight class on the All-County wrestling team.

Hayes Harris finished the season 13-1 in dual meets and 21-6 overall. Hayes won the C. D. Tournament for the third year in a row and was named most outstanding wrestler. Hayes was selected to represent the 126 lb. weight class on the All-County team.

Bryan Butler had one of his best years ever wrestling to a 12-2 and 20-6 record. Bryan won the C. D. Tournament for the third year in a row. Eddie, John, Hayes, and Bryan together produced a 53-3 dual meet record but could never have won a match without the help of the entire team. They all deserve the credit for this outstanding season.

Shooting For Daly and Doherty

Bob Doherty and Kevin Daly both coached tough seasons for the C. D. boys J. H. and J. V. teams. Mr. Doherty's J. H. team finished off the season with a well earned record of eight wins and four losses. The J. V. team finished off with a less satisfying season of nine wins and ten losses. Despite the record, the games were exciting and well-played, frequently going into overtime.

Leading the J. V. team were sophomores Bill Coughlin, John Cline, David Green, Bobby Boulware, Jack Mulligan, Olin Broadway and freshmen Steven Klein, Beau Stoneman and Yates Pharr.

J. V. Girls Hit The Court

Mary Louise Dagenhart battles it out for the ball at practice.

The Junior Varsity Girls' Basketball team made their '82-'83 season a great one, ending it with a 13-2 record. They slammed through the conference to finish 8-0. The team suffered only two losses, both to Charlotte Catholic.

Two members of this victorious team were selected by the rest of the team for special awards. The team captain, ninth grader Elizabeth Byne, was voted Most Valuable Player after scoring 122 points for the season. Ninth grader and first year player Nancy Smith was selected as Most Improved Player. Nancy collected 38 points and made 97 rebounds during the season.

The Junior Varsity Coach, Deborah Mills, felt optimistic about the next season. Ms. Mills commented that "With a strong returning team next year, we look forward to another exciting and successful year."

Varsity Cheerleaders Do It!

The Varsity Cheerleaders, in an effort to promote the maximum amount of spirit, spent two weeks in August practicing. One of these weeks was spent in the mountains learning new cheers and chants for the coming season. They spent an hour to an hour and a half per day practicing, painting signs, or decorating the boys locker room for a big football and basketball game. A cheerleading clinic, raising about $600, was held in the fall, and several bake sales were held throughout the year which helped to pay for their new uniforms. Varsity cheered for volleyball and football in the fall and boys' basketball and "away" girls' basketball in the winter. All in all they had a successful year and hope next year will be just as successful.

Catch The Spirit

The Junior Varsity and Junior High cheerleading squads promoted spirit in both the Middle and Upper Schools. Throughout the year, the cheerleaders supported the games with posters, banners and bake sales. They did more than this though. In bad weather when many of the students didn't show at the games they were right there on the sidelines cheering the teams on. Last summer, the Junior High squad went to a competition at UNCC and won first place over many other qualified squads. In order to get in practice for the coming year, last August the J.V. cheerleaders went to Topsail Island for a week of cheering and fun. "We cheered on the beach, went out to dinner one night, and had a lot of fun," said second-year cheerleader Anna Lindsay Smith.

To sit on rocks, to muse o'er flood and fell; To slowly trace the forest's shady scene, Where things that own not man's dominion dwell, And mortal foot hath ne'er or rarely been! To climb the trackless mountain all unseen, With the wild flock, that never need a fold; Alone o'er steeps and foaming falls to lean; This is not solitude; 'tis but to hold Converse with nature's charms, and view her stores unrolled.

Looking back a few short years, when we made our plans and played the cards the way they fell. Clinging to our confidence, we stood on the threshold of the goal that we knew dear, and though we had our fights, had our short tempered nights, it couldn't pull our dreams apart. All our needs and all our wants, drawn together in our heart. We felt it from the very start, it's all happened recently, now we're living in that dream, we had not long ago. And now we just have to keep in mind, we must set brand new goals, we must not lose control of the possibility of the discovery that would let everybody see, that we were just meant to be. Chicago

Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it rejoices in the righ t. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.
I Corinthians 13:47

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods, there is a rapture on the lovely shore, there is society where none intrudes, by the deep sea, and music in its roar: I love not man the less, but nature more From these our interviews, in which I steal from all I may be, or have been before, to mingle with the universe, and feel what I can ne'er express, yet cannot all conceal.
Byron

Man, unlike any other thing organic or inorganic in the universe, grows beyond his work, walks up the stairs of his concepts, emerges ahead of his accomplishments.

Juniors Strive for Camelot

The main goal of the Junior Class was to have a Prom that could live up to the Prom of 1982 and exceed it. Under the leadership of the Class President, Chip Cash, Vice President, Shelly Mendel, and other committee chairmen, they worked hard to meet this goal. Calendar, pecan, mum, poinsettia and candy cane sales were among the top fund raisers. Working with Brent Fisher, the Band Committee went to two different band play-offs which included the popular bands, "Threshold", "Stratus", "Staircase", and others; at 2001 they heard "The Poor Souls", and later the band "Twin Cities". Of these several bands they chose a Prom band. The theme of the Prom was Camelot.

Class Ring
A Memorandum

Once again class rings were bought from the Balfour Company. Students could choose from different types such as: Fashion, Dinner, Jonathon West, Signet, and the regular class ring. The most popular among these rings was the signet ring for girls only. The ring consisted of the C.D. coat of arms in the center and the Charlotte Country Day School inscribed around it. As stated by several Juniors, "These rings provide memories from high school."

The Favorite Past Of A Junior

American Literature was the English Juniors had to take. The course included a spread of all the periods in American Literature (Puritan Age thru the Age Of Uncertainty which takes us up to the present). Extra classic novels were studied along with the spread that pertained to each period. A few examples are: The Scarlet Letter in the Puritan Age, Billy Budd in the Age of Romantics, and Puddin'head Wilson in the Age of Realism. Therefore the favorite pasttime of a Junior was to cram in the information from cliff notes before a frequent pop quiz.

Michael Giblin, Gibby Heilman and Margaret Martin study the cliff notes!

Sophomores Do It Again . . .

During the week of November 1-5, Upper Schoolers listened to sophomores scream their way to triumph by winning spirit week for the second year in a row. Posters and banners willed victory in the Learning Center to their teams. The campus flourished into tenth graders sporting armbands, buttons and green hairspray. At the pep rally the sophomore section vibrated with balloons, noise makers, and - the highlight of the event - Harvey Grasty, Lee Bowers, David Green, Rob Clarkson, and Robert Mitchener decked out in cheerleading skirts, lipstick and "tennis balls". The final battle ended with an appearance of the "Banana Brigade" at the Country Day/Latin football game. Four sophomore guys, outfitted in boxers with B-U-C-S-! across their chests, did cheers. The class of '85 set their second spirit week record this year. (Last year they became the first freshmen class to win.) They've now won two years in a row and according to one sophomore "we're going all the way."

. . . And Again!

"We've got spirit,
we've got drive,
we're the class of '85"

Officers Aim

John Collias, treasurer; Dave Benson, president; Mr. Terry, advisor; Nancy Hanes, secretary; absent, Tiffany Erwin, vice-pres.

Sophomore class leadership excelled in every way. In addition to Elizabeth Levergood, Greg Hoffman, Sandy Knox, Sandee Smith, and Scott Meltsner representing sophomores in student council, the class elected effective class officers in September. Dave Benson, Tiffany Erwin, Nancy Hanes, and John Collias devoted endless hours to the sophomores as well as finding time for football, basketball, cheerleading, play practice, and studies. With the help of advisor Mr. Terry, the four accomplished such class goals as the raising of money for the prom and the establishment of a class trip program. In addition, Nancy and John deserve much credit for the success of spirit week. One of their witty ideas being Kentucky Fried Hawk Buckets, which resulted in numerous calls to all area Kentucky Fried Chicken Stores! This idea fell through because of expense. John spent one rainy afternoon blowing up 150 balloons and labeling them with an "85". The pair laid the groundwork on which spirit week success grew on. The Texas Ruby Red Sale, coordinated by Nancy, was the first major fundraiser for the sophomores. Left with very little from their freshmen account, the $1,100 raised from week of grapefruit and orange sales was welcomed. Much of the success of the class of 1985 will result from careful planning for now and the future by their perceptive class officers.

For Class Goals

Leadership In the Ninth Grade

Janie Berryhill, Howard Bissell, Elizabeth Byne, Anna Dulaney, Heather Duncan, Melissa Gibson, Perry Giffen, Todd Hahn, Leslie Kaplan, Brent Lane, Chris Lane, Susan Powell, Jenna Randolph, Taylor Welton and Natalie Whisenant formed the Freshman class government. They began the year with the goal of winning spirit week. Although they did not accomplish this goal, the class showed a lot of spirit thanks to Leslie Kaplan's organization.

A Thanksgiving project sponsored by the Freshman class provided a large, needy family with a happy holiday. In addition, two other needy families were given Merry Christmases as a result of the combined efforts of the National Honor Society and the Ninth grade. Freshman Trisha Grode spent $100 of her Christmas money on presents for the families.

Future plans included successful bake sales, an overnight ski trip to Sugar Mountain, and a Ninth grade end of the year dance. The success of such projects would not have been possible without Ms. Newton-Graham, the advisor for the class of '86 this year.

We Had Character

This year, the class of '86 moved to the Upper School campus. They eagerly anticipated the change, but feared they would be looked down upon by the older students. However, the older students readily made friends with the Freshmen and helped them to adjust to High School life. Although the class of '86 eagerly anticipated the time when they would become Seniors, they would miss all of the older friends that they had made.

Strength In Varsity Teams Established By The Class of '86

The students in the class of '86 demonstrated talent in areas such as academics, athletics, and the arts. Athletics was one which they excelled in. During the Fall term, six Freshmen participated in Varsity sports. (The Varsity sports were usually only filled with participants in the grades 10, 11 and 12.)

Steve Heeseman played on the Varsity Soccer team during the Fall term. He had the most assists on the team and scored 8 goals.

The Varsity Girls Tennis Team was gifted with the talents of Janie Berryhill, Kristi Hamel, Anne Hill and Carol Karp. Kristi held the #1 position on the team.

Melissa Gibson enjoyed playing on the Varsity Volleyball team. She proved that age doesn't matter when you're on the court.

Just because these few people were on Varsity Fall Athletic teams, that did not mean that they were the only talented students. The Class of '86 set a hard pattern for others to follow.

Seeing Eye To Eye

The class of '87 proved itself to be a class of leaders, especially through forming a new club within the Middle School. It is called the "Peer Counseling group." It consisted of seventeen eighth graders and their advisor Mrs. Crawford, the Middle School guidance counselor. The formation of this group served students in grades five through eight who go to Mrs. Crawford with a problem; she can refer them to a member of the peer counseling group in hopes that they would feel freer in talking with someone their own age.

The club members spent first term in counseling training, concentrating on developing better listening skills and clearing communication lines. The actual counseling project started after Christmas.

Mrs. Crawford refered to her involved students as, "A very enthusiastic, conscientious group of eighth graders."

Setting: A jungle deep in the heart of Africa.
Music: Loud and majestic like a lions roar (with a little New Wave to keep it modern) Atmosphere: Dancing, laughing and lots of partying.

What other scene could describe a seventh and eighth grade dance in November? Being allowed only three dances a year, the student council made their first spectacular.

The jungle theme was chosen from over 100 ideas. The gym was draped with ivy, and ferocious stuffed animals were strung from the basketball goals.

Vice-president of student council, David Mills attributed most of the dances success to its disc jockey, Jeff Wicker of WBCY!

School-In-The-Woods

That week of bliss, School-in-the-Woods, was the subject of many eighth graders' minds until that fated week arrived. A crew of 120 students plus faculty loaded the CCDS school buses on October 25, to travel to Camp Thunderbird. Once they were settled in their cabins, the students learned that this trip was not one of fun and games, but rather a startling study of drugs and alcohol. The eighth graders worked in small groups, discussing and learning facts about this nearly epidemic problem.

Free time was spent on the I.C. course, repelling and testing the zip wire! A special addition to this years' agenda was that the eighth graders were given the chance to talk freely in small groups with Ms. Litwinchuk. Mark Hammrick summed up this experience: "It's strange, you really don't talk with Ms. Lit that often at school because the environment is so different, she's a lot different than you'd think." Finally Friday arrived and the students reloaded the buses with fond memories of their School-in-the-Woods!

Pick Up Your Heels And Dance!

This years seventh grade has shown a lot of spirit in many ways. But one of the biggest ways in which they show their spirit is that they like to participate in school dances. Although they are one of the larger grades in the school, they still set the pace for the middle school. During the fall term, more than three quarters of the grade attended each dance. "The dances are really fun, and it's a good way to spend time with your friends," says Elizabeth Brand.

Jay Murphy and Henry Smythe stroll into one of the many middle school dances.

In order to get into the dance, Lucy Allen and Trent Merchant must pay first.

Up, Up, and Away

Sixth graders did many interesting projects during the year. Among them was using an instrument to determine the height of an object. They used a balloon on a string and calculated the altitude. Pictured are: Greg Sweet, Suzanne Walsh, Amy Hamel, Shara Silverman, Michael Hernandez, and David Rea. In the background are: Kim Jenkinson, Derek Cowan, Jessica McAlister, Jim Bowers, and Jonathan Hickman.

1 On December 7th and 8th the fifth grade went to Old Salem. Some people went on the crafts tour and other people went on the food tour. We went on the crafts tour. I enjoyed it very much. I think that the best thing in the craft tour was when we worked on the potter's wheel. Most of us made a pot, but some made bowls. I really enjoyed going to Old Salem.

by Will Caldwell

We went to Old Salem on Dec. 8, 1982. We went on a clothing tour. We learned a lot about clothing in old times. We were really able to tell what it was like because they let us try on clothes and we wove, dyed yard, spun thread and we even got to sew on a button. We also looked at some old houses to see what fabric they used. I feel like I learned a whole lot and have an experience inside of me that will never go away.

by Lindsay Smith

During our visit to Old Salem we had many experiences with the colonial living. We had to do the same kinds of things the settlers in Old Salem did. We found out how they made their clothes, how they went to school, and how and what they ate. It sort of felt like it was 1780 and I was really there.

Students Learn More Fun at Sch

Unlike years in the past, thi years School-in-the-Woods wa blessed with good weather; no rai was present to dampen the children' spirits. This year's theme was friend ship and communication and helpin to further it was speaker Gre Harrison. Harrison, through hi interpreter Gay Belliveau, taught th students sign language and furthere their understanding of the deaf.

Sitting in the Forest
I enjoy sitting in the forest,
Listening to the wind rustle the leaves,
Watching little squirrels climb the trees.

Jenny T.

Beautiful Nature
Once I saw a flower,
As yellow as a bee.
Its stalk gently swaying
As lovely as a tree.
Then I saw a dogwood,
Its flowers a beautiful white,
And when I thought about it,
I knew God made it right.

Kevin Griffin

Sounds of Wilderness
Listen, take a moment of your time,
Hear the leaves rustle when you walk upon them.
Listen to the sticks break or crack.
Hear the birds chirp, the crickets make sounds.
Listen to the lake come to shore.

Inga Richardson

n Just How to Have -the-Woods

Fall in the Woods
Fall is here in the woods,
With crispy brown leaves everywhere
And all the bare-branched trees.
Such a lovely sight to see.
Some trees are even-shaped and crooked like bridges, and others
green with moss.
To see all the hilly leaf-covered banks
And to hear birds and insects,
And to see the different green and brown leaves, and the sunshine, and blue sky peeping through
Makes you feel near God
Himself who made it all.
Sheery Stuart

In the Woods
The tree limbs hanging on tightly to the sky,
The water sparkling in the sun,
The bugs going in and out of tree stumps,
It's hard to say it all.
It's just a quiet, peaceful world
Of its own.
Rael Gorelick

Here I sit Lord, under a tree,
Really, really thinking about me.
Ashley Howerton

Birds
Birds, so little, so beautiful,
Always singing their song,
Chirping things as though they could speak,
If they could only tell us stories
I'd be content to listen
For the rest of my life.

Skating Party Has a New Twist

On October 14, the fifth grade had its first skating party of the year at Kate's Skate Palace. The purpose of the skating parties was to raise money for the fifth grade treasury, and this was achieved by donating fifty percent of all the profits to the fifth grade treasury. For Mrs. Hasset (fifth grade curriculum director) this year's skating party turned out to be one that she would especially remember - she broke her arm.

Fourth Graders Spent Thanksgiving on Stage

The Fourth Grade Class sits on stage during their Thanksgiving timeline.

The Fourth Grade class celebrated Thanksgiving, 1982, by putting on a Thanksgiving program. The show consisted of a timeline of Thanksgiving celebrations past, present and future. Each class presented a song, skit or dance. The Fine Arts teachers, Fourth Grade teachers and students coordinated the show.

Mrs. Hyatt's Fourth Grade

We gather together, 'tis the first day of school
To hear Mrs. Hyatt state her golden rule.
"You are each to me a child so dear,
So no harsh words do I ever want to hear."

We gather together, 'tis the birthday of Country Day,
So to celebrate we decided to have a play
Depicting the history from 1942
And paying tribute to our founders few.

We gather together for a Thanksgiving fess
For all the good things we wish to confess.
We danced like Indians who long ago
To our ancestors many things did show.

We gather together at Christmas Time
To decorate our room and make it shine.
We alone know how much we've learned,
Or how much for a long holiday we yearn.

We gather together at Valentines
To secretly write our new love rhymes.
Mrs. Hyatt always seems to know
To whom your shy love you show.

We gather together at the end of school
Wondering if we have observed the rule;
But time marches on and we must leave.
Thanks Mrs. Hyatt for not giving me one of these!

Fourth Graders Exchanged Letters With Romare Bearden

The Fourth Grade studied Romare Bearden's collages in art class in the fall. The art teacher, Mrs. Barret, allowed the children to write to Bearden. In his reply Bearden wrote;

"Several of the letter writers asked where I get my ideas (or inspiration) for my collage paintings. Mostly from Mecklenberg County, that is the county of which Charlotte (where I was Born) is located."

In closing he wrote;

"All the best to each of you, + a happy forthcoming holiday."

"In Space We Trust"

In November, third graders built spaceships with the help of Lower School art teacher Diane Barret. Class members brainstormed to design the spaceships before building them. Four refrigerator boxes, four gallons of house paint, and three weeks later, each of the four third grade classes had a spaceship. The spaceships contained everything from "space food" - tubes with colored liquids, tissue paper "salads", space cake - to manual propellers to space money printed with "In Space We Trust." This project encouraged creative thinking and group cooperation in the third grade.

Mrs. Hunter's class had the special privilege of displaying their spaceship in the Lower Level of the Learning Center where all students could look at and get in it. Standing here with their spaceship are third graders Heather Bennett, Drayton Virkler, Will Brawley, Freddy Klein, Mary Claudia Belk, and Katie Savas.

Discovering Electricity

In early December, third graders took a field trip to Discovery Place for an electricity presentation entitled "Sparks Anyone?" Students watched demonstrations of the strength of electromagnets and static electricity. After learning about electricity, the third graders were given some free time to explore the other exhibits at Discovery Place.

After the electricity presentation, Mrs. Kratt's third graders stop in the tropical rain forest.

"Coke Adds Life"

Coke added life to the Second Grade's field trip to the Coca Cola Plant. The Second Grade classes got a tour of the Coke Plant and saw how Coke is manufactured and bottled. They also learned the history of Coca Cola. Best of all, they received some free samples! It was an interesting trip, and most Second Graders agreed that not only did they learn a great deal, but it was the most enjoyable trip they took all year.

Trip To The Farm

In the middle of November the first graders traveled to a farm in the northern end of Mecklenburg County. They spent a day there exploring the outdoors. The day turned out to be an unforgettable adventure. The children saw cows being milked; they were allowed to feed them. They were then treated to a hayride on which they learned about silage, the method of storing the farm's crops of soybean and corn. The children also enjoyed petting the many farm animals including sheep, horses, and the house cat and dog. "The children had a great time and learned a lot," said first grade teacher Mrs. Woods.

The first graders got into the Christmas spirit early last year. In the second week of December they started decorating gingerbread houses. The delicious-looking houses were decorated with icing, assorted candy, and different variations of rooftops. One class used peanut brittle to shingle their house while another used cream-filled wafers. While they were decorating, Japie Pennik summarized what he was thinking, "Oh, how I wish I could be inside this house!"

In Memoriam

Doris Lavendar
August 4, 1921 - February 27, 1983

Country Day acknowledges with gratitude over twenty years of love and service — first as mother and volunteer, then as secretary to the Upper School and the Headmaster, and finally, as Alumni Secretary.

We will miss her wit, courage, and vision.

One thousand, two hundred sixty copies of the 1983 Postscript were printed by Walsworth Publishing Company of Marceline, Missouri. Sales representative for the book was Mr. Wayne Wolfe. Body and caption type used throughout the book is eight and ten point Souvenir Bold. Headlines used in the book were thirty-six point Souvenir Bold also. Paper stock is enamel.

The theme, "there was time," was originated during the summer of 1982 at the Colonial Journalism Workshop by Editors Susan Schindler and Liza Higgins and Advisor Sue Bingaman. The theme selected was an attempt to show the energy and enthusiasm generated by the people of Country Day.

The year proved to be a learning experience for the entire staff. The tremendous changes that took place in this book, resulted in midnight work, headaches, late deadlines, picture rushes, and grumpy editors. Special thanks to photographers Billy Huelin, Lisa Tarner, Jerre Bridges, Mrs. Gretchen Allen, Liza Higgins, Tony White, John Brady, and Adam Foodman. The staff spent countless hours of work on the book; thank you is not enough to express the gratitude they deserve.

As a spring delivery book, this publication must be completed by March 1. Thus, the spring events will be included in the 1984 Postscript.

In conclusion, we wish to congratulate the student body and faculty for proving, "there was time."

Hey buddy! This year has gone by so fast! but the only problem is that I haven't seen enough of you! I hope I'll see you a bunch this summer & I know I will when were seniors! Keep an eye on your neighbor on Charmaine!
Keep in Touch!
Love,
Merryman!

MRS. Hock,
It's been great ~~getting~~ to know you this year and ~~[illegible]~~ really meeting at a darn horseshow. How's that bruise on your horses thigh. Well since I can't ride your horse, Mabye we can ride my jumping horse "deadly rot" but he's kinda worn out from the U.S. open. And another thing while I'm at it, that dinner you promised me, you haven't asked me yet, If you don't hurry up I'll have to ask you. If you ever need help with you math homework anymore you know who to come to or you can just copy everybody elses. Boy, ☺ I'm just a mean person ain't I, you ain't seen nothing yet! Hope to see ya this summer, and good luck with years to come.
Love ya and all over,
Honor Jordon or Tonya Fisher

ELIZABETH,

WELL, WE ARE SENIORS, FINALLY.
NEXT YEAR, IT WILL BE ~~WASH~~.
NEW YORK INSTEAD OF WASH.
REMENIBER THE PIZZA AND
THE SHOWER THAT BURNED
EVERYONE. ALSO THOSE MYSTERIOUS
KNOCKS AT 12:00 or WAS IT 1:00
+JULIE JUST HAD TO CALL CHIP.
IT WAS REALL FUN THOUGH. ANYWAY, HAVE A GREAT + SAFE SUMMER.
TAKE CARE,

SARAH JANE

Elizabeth,

It was great to have you in Alg. I'm glad we were confused together. I had fun sweating in track while you sat there & watched. Thank for being a friend and I hope we can be even closer next year. Stay sweet.

Call me this summer (542-8151)

Love,

Pippa

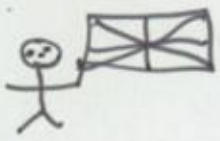

(you're neighborhood mathemetician)

P.S.
It was fun at the Prom! ~~We~~ we were definately in the same boat date wise!

Dear Elizabeth,

I'm going to miss you next year in French, especially the fun times at the back. I would not have made it through this confused, awkward year, life has been unreal. I've lived the girls all year, but I've given my heart to Catherine. I do wish she'd accept my apology, I just can't afford to lose a friend like that - totally beautiful a true American Rose! Looking forward to next year! Have a super summer, enjoy and look after yourself!

lots of love,

P.S. I ♡ cathy forever.

Elizabeth:

I'm not a space cadet!!! You can tell Wynn, baby, that too! Just kidding! Track's been a total blast. Too bad that we didn't have Giselle this year, but Mary Ann is almost as good. Not to mention Math Club meetings + those impossible problems. Hey — but we're smart aren't we?! I just know that you are dying to go back to Northside + read some more pamphlets + write profanities on the walls!! Have a great summer + maybe I'll see you in Hilton Head like always! Love,

Barbara

Elizabeth,

We've had some great times this year - especially 3rd term in Walrus's class! It was also fun watching Karen + Carl (the old couple) + Steve, + me were a great threesome - we all deserve A's! Next time when I tell you to buy a flower do it! Its been great! Hope its just as fun next year!

Love, Amy

Elizabeth-

Elizabeth
This has been a fun year! I can't believe its already over. I'm so glad I have gotten to know you this year! You are so cute and nice Yat'n was just loads of fun; I'm just sorry it won't continue throughout the summer ☹ You were a good track manager, thanks for giving me all those helpful high jumping nights! Have a great summer!
I'll see you! Love, Nancy

Elizabeth,

We only had one class together and we got made it. Its hard to believe that the year is finally over, and its hard to believe that your going to be a Senior next year and me a junior. Chemistry could have been better
~~Sucks~~ Sucks definetely!, but it could have been worse. You have a great summer and stay in touch. Love,

Bruce

Elizabeth -
We didn't have any classes together this year and that was a bummer. Maybe next year... This year was great though and we only have one more yr of this school. Lets do something together this summer.
Luv -
Ellen

Elizabeth —
I'm really glad that I met you and got to know you recently. You are so sweet and I love you to death. I'm glad that I was there to help you and I always will be. Just ask. POSTSCRIPT will be awesome - RIGHT?!?
Have a great summer and don't forget me.
Love Ya Lots and always —
Trisha munch

Elizabeth,
hey! algebra has been a real blast! and that is pure B.S.. I've never been so glad to get out of anyone class in my life. I like ms. caldwell, but the work was soo hard. We never do anything together, so if you get a chance be sure and call me up. Have a great summer! See YA at PRESS BOX!
cuz ya
Kim R

Elizabeth,
It's finally over. Thank God
mr. Christie is leaving-maybe I'll pass English next year. I've realized enjoyed sitting in the yard with you this spring and our deep conversations about Duke
Come visit me and Barbara at Duke this summer!! Please keep in touch-
Have a good summer & don't do anything
I wouldn't do. 803-327-5546
Love,
Brooks

Since Brooks Is Such a good friend of mine,
I guess I'll sign your yearbook here! French Class this Year has been boring as shit, I probably wouldn't have Made it thru it had it not been for you; I'm sorry
We couldn't go out more, I guess I never will forgive you for not asking me to the prom, But I will forget! I hope to see you this summer, maybe we can get together

Mark

Liz,
English was great w/
mr. Christie and Algebra w/Rhea!
Thanks for your help w/Nick. me and you have got to some things together this summer you've so sweet, and I'm so glad we've gotten to be good friends.
Have a great summer.
I know, I'll see ya.
Luv ya,
Cat

Elizabeth,
God it's been a long year!

Elizabeth?
I think French have class and track: have brought us closer (even though I didn't run.) I'm glad that I had some company in the state meet - those guys were not bad at all! We'll have to make it a point to attend all the major meets. Take care and hope to see you this summer! Love ya, Jennifs

We sure had some great times + some rare experiences, but it's been great gettin' to know you.

See ya this summer!!

Love ya,
